HOUSE OVERRIDES TAFT'S WOOL VETO

Democrats Jubilant Over Tariff Victory, the First in Memory of Oldest Members.

CLARK'S RULING QUESTIONED

Decision That Those Answering "Present" Do Not Count in Total Vote Is Finally Accepted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Under a ruling by Speaker Clark, sustained by Mr. Mann, the Republican floor leader, the House of Representatives to-day passed the Underwood-La Follette Compromise Wool bill over the veto of President Taft, the announcement of the result provoking a great outburst of applause.

Not in the memory of the oldest member of the House had a tariff measure ever been passed over the President's veto by the lower branch of Congress. Neither Speaker Clark nor the majority leader, Mr. Underwood, could recollect such an occurrence.

The vote was 174 yeas and 80 nays, while 10 members answered "present" when their names were called, and 126 were absent and not voting. The number present and voting, including those paired, was 264, and two-thirds of this number would have been 176, and if Speaker Clark had ruled that two-thirds of those answering "yea," "nay," and "present" was necessary to override the veto the bill would have failed by a margin of two votes.

The parliamentary question was at once raised by Representatives Olmsted of Pennsylvania, Gardner of Massachusetts, and Cannon of Illinois, who insisted that those who had voted present must be counted in the total to be used as the basis for the two-thirds computation.

Speaker Clark ruled that the Constitution only required two-thirds of those voting "yea" and "nay," that the Constitution pays no attention to those voting present, and Mr. Mann, who had looked up the precedents, threw a bomb into the Republican ranks by sustaining the ruling of the chair.

Twenty-one Republicans voted to-day with the Democrats to pass the wool bill over the President's veto. They were: Akin of New York, Anderson, Davis, Lindbergh, Miller, Steenerson, and Stevenson of Minnesota; Cooper and Morse of Wisconsin; Anthony, Rees, and Young of Kansas; Helgesen of North Dakota, Kent of California, La Follette and Warburton of Washington, Lafferty of Oregon, Norris and Sloan of Nebraska, and Woods of Iowa.

Five of these last year voted to sustain President's Taft's veto, but to-day shifted their vetoes to the other side of the proposition. These were Anthony Cooper, Lafferty, Rees, and Sloan.

The Wool bill now goes to the Senate, which is also required to pass it by a two-thirds vote in order to make it law. The vote by which it passed the Senate on Aug. 5 was 35 to 28, and every sign indicates that the Democratic-Progressive alliance will be unable to obtain the required number. Nevertheless the House leaders are hopeful, and declare that the action of the House to-day somewhat changes the situation by putting upon the Senate full responsibility for the passage or defeat of the bill.

The bill which President Taft vetoed is identical with the bill which he disapproved last year. The vote in favor of overriding the veto last year was 227 yeas, 129 nays, 3 present, and 27 not voting. The vote to-day showed a great change in sentiment in the House, and was as much a surprise to the Democratic leaders as to the Republicans, who thought the veto would be sustained.

The ruling of Speaker Clark which made possible the passage of the bill over the veto excited much interest in the House. While it was challenged on the floor, Representative Gardner and others, who at first questioned his decision, and were about to appeal from it, later withdrew their objections and acquiesced in the ruling. Still some insist the ruling was one which might result in the constitutionality of the Wool bill being challenged before the Supreme Court should the Senate pass the bill over the veto.

In making his decision Speaker Clark said:

"The Constitution requires that in all such veto cases the votes in both houses shall be determined by 'Yeas' and 'Nays,' and the names of the persons, voting for and against, shall be entered in the Journal. The names of those present ought not to be entered in the Journal. The Constitution does not require any such thing. The Chair has investigated that, and believes it immaterial whether the names of the ten men who voted 'Present' go in the Journal or not. The Constitution does not provide for a man voting 'Present,' but the rules of the House, in order to eke out a quorum, have provided that they can vote 'Present.'

"Now those ten gentlemen who voted 'Present' were here simply for the purpose of making a quorum. To count them on this vote would be to count them in the negative, and the Chair does not believe any such contention as that is tenable."

STEEL COMPETITOR FAILS.

Umsted, Who Organized $15,000,000 Fight in 1903, Now Has $210.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Franklin A. Umsted, who in 1903 organized in New York a $15,000,000 company for the purpose of fighting the United States Steel Corporation, to-day filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court. He gave his liabilities as $1,551,860 and his assets as $210 in household furniture.

The liabilities included money borrowed to finance the company. It is said the late United States Senator A. J. McLaurin of Mississippi lost $40,000 in the company. Other large claims scheduled are: International Trust Company, Baltimore, $103,000; American Finance Company, New York, $100,000, and the Union Trust Company, New York, $225,000.

Umsted organized the company under the laws of Maine. His idea was to combine all the available independent steel properties, including the Tennessee Coal, Iron, & Railroad Company of Alabama, which since has been purchased by the United States Steel Corporation. He borrowed large sums from banks and trust companies in many cities, but the plan was a failure. Umsted recently came here and obtained employment with a telephone company.

ROCKEFELLER ELECTS HER.

Requires Just Fifteen Minutes to Make Mrs. Milton School Trustee.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—It took John D. Rockefeller just fifteen minutes to-night to elect his candidate, Mrs. Ellen M. Milton, a school trustee for three years. The machinery was well oiled and there was not a hitch. OscarBeedelson, President of the board, called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock, and Reuben Rossa, a Rockefeller employe, was made Chairman by acclamation.

After reading the qualifications of voters, the balloting began. The first to vote was the wife of a Rockefeller employe. About ten other women voted. The polls were opened 5 minutes when they were declared closed, and the tellers announced that 34 votes had been cast for Ellen M. Milton. It was exactly 8:15 when the motion to adjourn was put.

To-night's election was the result of an order from the State Educational Department which declared that the election in May ended in a tie between Irving L. Bryant, a farmer, and Mrs. Milton. Mrs. Milton is now in Europe. She is a well-known society woman and a great friend of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who is on the Advisory Board of the school. Mrs. Rockefeller was deeply disappointed when Mrs. Milton was defeated.

AUTO HITS CAR HEAD ON.

68-Year-Old Mrs. Scofield Dying—Two Others Hurt.

Dr. Robert B. Scofield of 16 Lawrence Street, Yonkers, driving a touring car, collided head on at Broadway and 221st Street last night with a south-bound Broadway pay-as-you-enter car, heavily loaded. The collision overturned the touring car, in which were Mrs. M. F. Scofield, the doctor's sixty-eight-year-old mother, and Mrs. R. A. Fessenden of 39 Florence Street, Yonkers.

The trolley car dragged the automobile, with its occupants beneath it, for ten feet before Motorman Joseph Keone of 152 East Twenty-seventh Street could bring it to a stop. D. M. Levy of 125 West Twenty-fifth Street, who came along in his touring car, helped extricate the three victims and took them to Fordham Hospital.

There Dr. Jones and Dr. Sheridan found that Mrs. Scofield had sustained probably mortal injuries. Her skull was fractured and both her legs, her left elbow, and her right wrist were broken.

She is dying, the doctors say. Dr. Scofield had two ribs broken and had contusions of the head and shoulders. Mrs. Fessenden had a deep scalp laceration and a possible fracture of the skull.

According to the motorman of the trolley car and his conductor, John Murphy of 326 East 125th Street, Dr. Scofield was driving his car north on Broadway at a rapid pace on the wrong side of the street. Broadway curves at this point, and the motorman said he did not see the automobile until it was too late to stop. Dr. Scofield said that the pillars of the Subway kept him from seeing the trolley.

TOP NOTCH FOR CATTLE.

Live Beef $10.40 Per Hundredweight in Chicago—Butchers Anxious.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The highest price ever paid for cattle in the United States was received yesterday at the stock yards, when beef on the hoof brought $10.40 a hundredweight. The nearest approach to this price was made last week, when $10.25 a hundred was paid. The record figure was obtained by a feeder of Tuscola, Ill., who disposed of his entire lot of corn fed cattle at $10.40.

Two other price records also were set for cattle during the day. Distiller steers brought $10 a hundred and range steers $9.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 13.—Discussion of possible ways to remedy the shortage in beef and the consideration of resolutions looking toward Federal legislation which will better their industry, was discussed at the National Convention of the Master Butchers of America, opening here to-day.

An address of welcome was made by Mayor Thompson, and a response was made by John T. Russell of Chicago, President of the butchers' organization. Routine matters practically composed to-day's entire business programme.

RILEY'S ROYALTIES $250,000.

Hoosier Poet Regrets Publication of $50,000 Gift to Nephew.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 13.—The gift by James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, of $50,000 in cash to his nephew, Edmund H. Eitel, coupled with a recent gift of property, valued at $70,000 to the city for a public library, has called attention to Mr. Riley's royalties. Intimate friends say that his poetical works alone have brought him $250,000.

Mr. Riley said to-day:

"I was sorry that the gift of $50,000 to my nephew got into print. It was a private matter and of interest to no one but him and myself. Of course the gift to the city was a different matter, for there would naturally be a public interest in that, and the public had a right to the details.

"No, I do not care to discuss my income from my works. The public has been very kind to me, and I feel that I have been well remunerated. If the readers of my books have no cause for complaint, I certainly have none, and I shall let the matter rest there."

HORSE SAVES TWO MEN.

Answers Call of Patrolman and Pulls Them from Quicksand.

Knight, a bay police horse, quartered in the Liberty Avenue station, saved the life of William Kopitsch, a young Cypress Hills plumber, yesterday evening. Kopitsch, who lives at 833 Ridgewood Avenue, Cypress Hills, broke through a bridge over Old Mill Creek, a treacherous tributary of Jamaica Bay, just about dusk.

As he started to wade out, Kopitsch found himself in a quicksand. He had sunk to his waist before his cries brought Mounted Patrolman Thomas J. Leonard. Leonard dismounted and tried to reach Kopitsch, when he began to sink himself into the quicksand.

Then Leonard called to his horse which was on the road level. The horse came slowly at first, because of its instinctive fear of the ground, but, encouraged by Leonard, finally reached him. Leonard grasped a stirrup and stretched over to Kopitsch. The horse redoubled its efforts and got over to the side of the bridge. There the two men pulled themselves up on to the horse's back and gained the bridge.

It took several men with planks and ropes nearly an hour to extricate the horse from the quicksand.

FATHER AND GIRL DROWN TOGETHER

A CHILD SAW THEM DIE

Her Cries Finally Heard on Motor Boat Towing the Launch, but Too Late to Effect a Rescue.

Special to The New York Times.

AMITYVILLE, L. I., Aug. 13.—Leaving his wife and infant child to return by train after a vacation at Bellport, L. I., George H. McFalls, an insurance broker at 82 William Street, New York, whose home is at 1,434 Fifty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, and who is a member of the Gravesend Bay Yacht Club, started to-day for Brooklyn by water with his two daughters in his 35-foot cruiser launch Vera.

In Great South Bay, a few miles from this place, the engine of the launch broke down and the craft drifted helplessly about for more than an hour while Mr. McFalls tried to repair it. Finally despairing of putting it in order, he signaled a passing motor boat for a tow. This was the Pan, a 22-foot launch, in which Irvin Bauer of Freeport, L. I., and George Shortwell of Baldwin, L. I., were crossing the bay from Freeport.

The Pan passed a line to the Vera and started to tow her toward Amityville. Mr. McFalls went below to resume work on the engine. His daughter Marion, 16 years old, remained on the upper deck with her 4-year-old sister, Geraldine.

Marion was standing up watching the shore, which they were rapidly approaching when a jerk of the tow line caused the boat to give a sudden lurch and she was thrown over the side. Her father heard her cry out as she struck the water. He hurriedly put over a small rowboat which the launch carries and started rowing back toward his daughter. She went down once and came up while he was striving desperately to reach her. When he saw that it was impossible to grasp her over the side of the boat he jumped into the water and swam toward her. He reached her as she was sinking again. She locked her arms about his neck in a death grip, making it almost impossible for him to swim.

Meanwhile the two men in the launch were steering steadily on toward shore, unaware of what had happened behind them. They were several hundred yards distant from the place where McFalls was battling to save his daughter before they heard the call of the solitary little girl in the boat in their wake. Far behind them they saw the empty rowboat and the two figures struggling in the water.

They circled round as rapidly as it could be done, but while they were speeding back they saw that the father's strength was gone, and while they were still a long distance away father and daughter, locked in each other's arms, disappeared from sight.

After cruising about the spot for half an hour in the hope of finding the bodies the men turned back to Amityville, where Mr. McFalls's brother, S. J. McFalls, who lives in Brooklyn, was notified. He came in an automobile and took Geraldine home.

OHIO TAFT MEN FILL GAPS.

Will Decide Later About Ousting Roosevelt Men from Ticket.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 13.—The Republican State Central Committee to-day nominated B. W. Waltermeier of Findlay as the candidate for Lieutenant Governor in place of Gen. R. B. Brown, who has been named for Governor, and chose Harry M. Daugherty for Executive Chairman and Campaign Manager. Sherman M. Granger of Zanesville was elected National Committeeman to succeed Walter F. Brown, resigned. Action on candidates on the State ticket who refuse to declare for Taft was deferred. The only reference to the Roosevelt men was made by Mr. Daugherty in his speech of acceptance when he said they would be invited back into the fold, "but if they cannot return they must be treated as antagonists, and cannot hope for political recognition at the hands of the party."

FOUR KILLED IN TRAIN TRIP.

Central Flier Hits Them Between Chicago and Here.

MATTEAWAN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Between Chicago and this town New York Central Train No. 16 killed four men, according to the statement of "Dan" Whelen, the engineer, to Coroner Haight here to-day.

The fourth victim was Salvatore Valk, an Italian, who was struck by the train near here last night, and the engineer's statement was made at the inquest on Valk's death.

The death of Valk gave rise to considerable investigation yesterday, as it was reported that Valk was the fourth man killed by the train on the run from Chicago to New York.

Engineer Whelen, who made the statement, could give no details. His lack of knowledge was explained by the New York Central authorities, who said that if four men were killed the other three were killed during the time of the other engineers who handled the train on various stretches between Chicago and this city.

HIS $2,000 CHAIN GONE.

Rich Cuban's $1,000 Watch Also Disappears from Hotel Bureau.

H. J. De Mesa, a wealthy Cuban, who is the proprietor of the Mirimar estates near Havana and who is now staying in this city, is bemoaning the loss of a watch and chain which he says are worth $3,000 and family heirlooms. The loss of the timepiece and chain occurred last Saturday night at the Hotel Nassau, Long Beach, where he was staying for the week-end, and occupied Room 535.

According to Mr. De Mesa, he went up to his room to change from evening dress about 11 P. M., to take an automobile ride to Cedarhurst, where a friend was giving a supper party. Thinking that his valet would shortly come in to put his clothes away, Mr. De Mesa left the watch and chain on the bureau. On his return at 4 A. M. it had disappeared and he has not been able to trace it.

The watch is of plain gold, with his initials, H. J. De M., in diamonds, emeralds, and rubies on the back, and is worth $1,000. The chain is made of platinum studded with pearls and diamonds, and at the other end of it is attached to a purse made of platinum studded with diamonds. He values the chain at $2,000. Mr. De Mesa says he will give a substantial reward if the articles are returned.

HONEYMOONS ALONE WHILE HE LEGISLATES

Bride of Congressman Murray of Boston Sails Away, but Pilot Takes Him Back to Duty.

MARRIED ON SATURDAY

And "Not a Million Dollars Could Tear Him Away from Her" if the Nation Didn't Need Him.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Congressman "Billy" Murray, the member from the Charlestown district, and incidentally the baby of Champ Clark's big Democratic family in Washington, dashed into town last Saturday, and, flashing a marriage license, on which the ink had not had time to dry, before his fiancée, Miss Mary A. Lappen, made her Mrs. Murray. To-day the Congressman bade good-bye to his bride on the high seas and rushed back to his seat in the halls of Congress.

Mrs. Murray had more than a month ago booked passage to Europe with her aunt, Miss Katherine F. Holland, and it was decided that she should make the trip abroad as planned. From the time of their arrival at the White Star pier Congressman and Mrs. Murray held an informal reception. They had their pictures taken amid a deluge of rice and confetti, and there was much good-natured raillery at a man who would forsake so pretty a bride in order not to imperil his political prospects.

"If it was not that I have to be in Washington to-morrow," he apologized, "not a million dollars could tear me away from her."

But as the Cymric drew out and the bridal pair waved good-bye to friends on the dock there was much prophecy that either the bridegroom would stick to the ship or that Mrs. "Billy" would give up the trip abroad and return on the pilot boat with "Billy."

Sundry bets were made one way and the other. The pilot had given out the word that it was against the rules to take a passenger down the harbor, and, furthermore, that if one were taken he would, in all likelihood, have to stay a week at the outer station. The towboat Captains, too, when approached averred that there was nothing doing. Then the young statesman broke in, excitedly:

"I'm going down the harbor, anyway. Those fellows [pointing toward the towboats] say they won't take me off the ship. I'm going to take a chance. When we get part way down I'll let the ship's people know that I haven't any ticket, and I guess they will float me back somehow."

Indeed, he had it all fixed beforehand. As usual, "Billy" had his way. The pilot did not need to be won over, and when he left the Cymric, six miles outside Boston Light, the Congressman went with him in the dinghy. He was landed at Stony Beach, Nantasket, and rushed up to the city in time to drop in on the Governor and the Mayor. Then he took an evening train for Washington.

"Haven't had time yet to be lonely," he said as he boarded the train, "but I shall be, all right. It was the hardest thing I ever did to come ashore, but it couldn't be helped."

"Won't you join your wife after Congress adjourns?"

"I'm afraid not. You see, I have to make my campaign for re-election."

Mrs. Murray and Miss Holland will be abroad until October.

CLUES TO MISSING WOMAN.

Hat of Mrs. Bogges of Kansas City Found Near St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 13.—A woman's Panama hat, gloves, purse, and nightrobe were identified to-day as the property of Mrs. Ethel Keating Bogges, who disappeared in Kansas City Aug. 2. The articles were brought here to-day by detectives from Fort Gage, Ill., 85 miles south of St. Louis, where they were found in a boat in the Mississippi River.

The identification was made by telephone by T. J. Keating of Columbus, Ohio, in talking with the manager of a detective agency. Mr. Keating received a description of the property, and with his wife he told the detective that the articles were those of his daughter.

The purse corresponded exactly with the kind Mrs. Bogges carried when she disappeared, according to her father. It contained $10, and the stub of a sleeping car ticket, which shed the owner had traveled from Kansas City to St. Louis on the night of Aug. 2.

GIRLS MUST WEAR STOCKINGS

Or They Can't Go in Bathing on Atlantic City's Beach.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—William H. Bartlett, Director of Public Safety, who recently gave orders that women bathers should not go to the beach in bathing suits which were not covered by raincoats, went further to-day. Two girls, who were in bathing suits without stockings, were ordered from the beach by a life guard.

"Put on your stocking, leave the beach, or be arrested," was the ultimatum. One of the young women wanted to know why the guard didn't chase off some of the men who wore short trunks.

"I haven't anything to do with that," replied the life guard. "My orders are to tell you to put on stockings or leave the beach."

There were no stockings at hand and the bare-legged bathers left the strand.

BOY OF 4 KILLED BY AUTO.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Emmons Struck at Long Branch.

Special to The New York Times.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Aug. 13.—Wilbur Emmons, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Emmons, was struck by an automobile in Bath Avenue this afternoon, and died four hours later of a fractured skull at the Monmouth Memorial Hospital. The boy was playing in front of his home, which borders on three streets, and ran directly in front of the machine, driven by Edward L. Blaisdell, an electrician.

Mr. Blaisdell put his car into service and remained at the hospital till the boy died. Wilbur was an only child.

THIEVES STRIP HOME OF BANK PRESIDENT

WORST YEAR FOR ROBBERIES

Insurance Man's Comment on Conditions—Thieves Revisit Brooklyn House and Take What They'd Left.

The police are confronted with the unpromising task of solving an almost unprecedented number of Summer burglaries, the penalty of the warm days spent at the shore or in the mountains while the city home is unguarded. Bitter complaints have been made by indignant householders to the different precincts, but it is the policy to keep all these little matters very quiet, and the details of the cases come to light only in the most round-about way.

A broker who does a great deal of burglary insurance business shrugged his shoulders expressively yesterday when he was questioned about the situation.

"It's the toughest year we have ever known," he said. "New York is the only city in the country where the companies are steadily losing money on their burglary policies, and that despite the fact that they have raised the rates 50 and sometimes 75 per cent."

One of the most important burglaries reported in Manhattan was at the home of Edwin S. Schenck, at 50 West Forty-eighth Street. Mr. Schenck is President of the Citizens' Central National Bank of 320 Broadway. It was learned yesterday for the first time that his home was entered and ransacked some time during the last week in July or the first week in August.

The home was closed in June for the Summer, when the family went to Greenwich, Conn. Both Mr. and Mrs. Schenck had occasion to make several visits to the closed house in June and in July, and when they were there on July 22 everything was undisturbed. One night last week Mr. Schneck went to the house, and found that it had been ransacked. Not a drawer in bureau, desk, or table had been overlooked. The contents of all had been dumped on to the floor and raked for valuables. On rugs and tapestries were match ends and the stains of candle grease.

Destruction Wrought.

The burglars had worked destructively. Where there was a silver top to a bottle or silver work in a glass dish it was broken off and the glass left behind. The burglars were even particular to examine the worth of their loot, for they discarded one plated silver tray when they found it was not solid, a discovery they made by breaking the tray in two. Mr. Schenck was pleased to note that the critical burglar had cut his hand in the process.

The mode of entry was then discovered, and no one could quibble about it not being a forced entry, for the iron grille at the basement was cut through, an oak door was violently jimmied, and a third door of glass was smashed.

The profits of the expedition were not great, for, luckily, Mrs. Schenck had taken most of her jewelry to Greenwich and most of the silver was stored in safety vaults before the family left town. The destruction in the house amounted to three or four times the value of the articles actually carried off.

Detectives from the East Fifty-first Street Station went to work on the case and nosed all over the house for fingerprints, but found none.

Art Treasures Stolen.

Brooklyn's list of burglaries is a long one. One of these was at the city home of William H. Bird of 247 Gates Avenue, a commission merchant at 29 Broadway. On June 8 he and Mrs. Bird and the four children went to their Summer home in Asbury Park. The Brooklyn house was handed over to the decorators and on July 2 Mr. Bird inspected it. When he revisited the house on July 23 he found that it had been stripped of silver, jewelry, and bric-a-brac. There were some three hundred pieces of silverware stolen and the bric-a-brac was a heavy loss, for the Bird home was a treasure house of art objects. He found the burglars had invaded the premises by ripping out an iron grating from the cement pavement in the rear and making their way into the cellar.

Here, too, the burglars had been recklessly inconsiderate of the things they did not want, and Mr. Bird's home looked as though it had been in the path of a cyclone. He notified the police, but he did not tell Mrs. Bird, thinking it needless to worry her.

He returned to his home last Sunday. The same grating had been torn up. The same entry had been effected again. The burglars had simply been unable to carry away some valuable vases and clocks on their first visit. They went back and got them.

Mr. Bird's neighbors have been scarcely less fortunate, for a small nest of burglaries is reported from that section. Samuel Howe, who lives next door, found his house had been entered and ransacked. Similar burglaries are reported from Throop Avenue and Pacific Street.

The wiseacres around Headquarters and the old detectives shake their heads over this state of affairs. They attribute much of it to the abolition under the present administration of the central office and the old "line-up" at Headquarters, when the crooks were picked up on the streets and brought down for the detectives to look them over, get to know their faces, and pick out a man here and there for robbery or burglary unavenged.

NATION'S THIRST GROWING.

Has Consumed 133,377,458 Gallons of Whisky in a Year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The people of the United States drank more whisky and rum and smoked more cigarettes during the fiscal year, June 30, 1912, than ever before in the history of the country, according to the preliminary annual report of Royal E. Cabell, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, submitted to-day to Secretary MacVeagh. The consumption of whisky was exceeded only by the year 1907, but beer drinking fell off by a substantial percentage.

The unprecedented smoking of 11,221,624,084 cigarettes, exceeding the record of 1911 by nearly 2,000,000,000, amazed Treasury officials, who were unable to account for the enormous increase.

Stored in warehouses the country over are 263,786,070 gallons of whisky and rum, the greatest on record. In Kentucky alone are stored 158,000,000 gallons, which exceeds the total amount of whisky and rum in the whole United States 11 years ago. The record production of these intoxicants for 1912 was 188,000,000 gallons, or 13,000,000 gallons greater than 1911. The consumption of whisky and rum for 1912 was 133,377,458 gallons, the nearest approach to the record of 134,031,000 gallons in 1907.

The consumption of beer for 1912 was only 62,108,733 barrels, a decrease of more than 1,108,000 barrels as compared with 1911.

During the hot season judicious use of Angostura Bitters prevents Summer complaint. —Adv.

PRINCESS ROBBED AT STATION

Surrounded by British Royalties and Diplomats, She Loses Her Jewels.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Princess Frederick Charles of Hesse, the youngest sister of the German Emperor, was robbed of costly jewelry while starting from Victoria Station here for Germany last Saturday.

The Princess was surrounded by members of the British royal family and a number of foreign diplomats, who had accompanied her to the railroad station to say farewell, and the police authorities took strict precautions to keep outsiders at a distance, but as soon as the train had started the bags containing the valuables were missed.

The police endeavored to keep the theft secret, and it became known only to-day, when descriptions of the property, which is priceless, were given out by Scotland Yard.

BAG OF JEWELS HANDED HER.

Woman Now Sought Got Away with the Wrong Suit Case.

An error gave a woman a suit case containing articles of jewelry valued at more than $600 instead of her own suit case, in which were several broiled chickens, and now the police are looking for her.

Mrs. Hull of 732 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, was a passenger aboard the Robert Fulton on Saturday. She was on her way home from Albany, and not willing to risk the suit case with all the jewelry with the other pieces of baggage, she asked the stewardess on the boat to mind it for her. When she reached New York a case identical in appearance with her own was handed to her, but all she had to do was to lift it and its weight told her that it was not hers. The stewardess remembered having given the twin suit case to a woman of Yonkers. Detective Joseph Cronin of the Day Line service was sent to that city, and he is working on the case with the Yonkers police. Patrolman Henry Miller, who is at the pier, recalled that a woman asked him how to reach New Rochelle, and as the description of her corresponded with that given by the stewardess the search has led to New Rochelle.

The police do not suppose the woman they are seeking got the suit case through any crooked work.

TRUSTED NATURE, GOT $150.

Woman Not Disturbed When Flood and Fire Attack Her Home.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Ellen Clark's house was destroyed by fire last night. Several years ago the cottage was floated off its lot and deposited squarely on the route through which the Government subsequently decided to construct a canal.

When it came time, a few weeks ago, to tell her that she must move the house out of Uncle Sam's way, she replied: "Nature put it there; nature can remove it," and that was all they were able to get out of her, until they paid her a cash consideration of $150, to sign jump claim papers.

TRY TWO-STORY CAR TO-DAY.

New Double-Deck Stepless Trolley to Run Up Broadway.

The new double-deck stepless car of the New York Railways Company will receive its trial trip this morning. It will leave South Ferry at 10 A. M., and go north over the Broadway-Seventh Avenue division to Fifty-ninth Street.

If the new car is considered a success a number will be ordered immediately for use on Broadway, and eventually on other streets where the traffic has outgrown the street transportation facilities. The great value of the double-deck car is that it seats eighty-eight passengers.

The largest cars now in use seat sixty passengers in Summer months and thirty-six in Winter. The first floor of the double-deck car resembles the new stepless car. A stairway leads to the upper deck, with the shortest possible climb consistent with leaving headroom for the first floor passengers. The success of the experiment depends on whether it is possible to load and unload the upper deck safely and without loss of time.

DIES OF FEVER HE FOUGHT.

Dr. T. B. McClintic Dies of Mountain "Spotted" Contracted in Montana.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 13.—Passed Assistant Surgeon T. B. McClintic of the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, died to-night of Rocky Mountain "spotted fever." One of the foremost specialists in this deadly malady which he virtually had eradicated from the Bitter Root Valley, Mon., it was the decree of fate that Dr. McClintic should succumb to the disease.

He had been investigating the fever in the Bitter Root Valley for the last two years, and so completely had he eradicated the tick which transmits the malady that no case developed during this year until Dr. McClintic himself was stricken. His illness was reported to the public health service here on Aug. 9, when he started for Washington from Montana. En route the disease was diagnosed as "spotted fever," and when the patient arrived here this morning it was known that he was desperately ill.

Dr. McClintic was 39 years old and had been connected with the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service for fifteen years. A native of Warm Springs, Va., he was a graduate of the University of Virginia. His wife, a bride of a few weeks, survives.

FRANK AVERY KILLED IN AUTO

Blue Point Restaurateur Burned to Death Under High-Power Car.

PATCHOGUE, L. I., Aug. 13.—Frank Avery, proprietor of "The Coop," a restaurant on the shore of the Great South Bay at Blue Point, L. I., was burned to death when his sixty horse power automobile struck a rut and rolled down a twenty-five-foot embankment and caught fire on the Holbrook Road, two miles north of Patchogue, at 5:30 this afternoon.

In the car with Avery was Mrs. Annie Blake of New York City, who is spending the Summer in Bayport. When the car rolled over the embankment she was thrown out and suffered only a few bruises. Avery's last words to Mrs. Blake when she attempted to get him from under the overturned automobile were: "It's no use; you can't get me out." She then ran for assistance and when the rescuers arrived Avery was dead in the ashes.

Avery was very well known in sporting circles the entire length of the south side of Long Island. He owned a number of fast horses and automobiles.

The Clearing House Committee and prominent banking interests in the city placed in the hands of District Attorney Whitman yesterday the most powerful weapon that could be enlisted in his service in investigating the graft phase of the inquiry growing out of the murder of Herman Rosenthal. The action of the bankers was taken without the knowledge of Mr. Whitman, who was informed of it late yesterday afternoon.

The bankers, by requests which carry all the strength of commands, have arranged with every bank and depository for savings in this city to lend all aid to the District Attorney.

Their action means, in effect, that Mr. Whitman now will be able to demand and receive full particulars of every account in any bank or savings institution in the name of a member of the New York Police Department.

Though the action was not taken until yesterday and Mr. Whitman was not apprized of this until late in the afternoon, he learned then that there are sums aggregating $58,845 on deposit to the credit of Lieut. Charles Becker, the man who the District Attorney regards as primarily responsible for Rosenthal's death.

The District Attorney expects that investigation will increase this sum to $200,000.

These deposits were made between last November and the time of Becker's arrest after his indictment on a charge of murder. They began shortly after Becker became head of the Strong Arm Squad, and continued up to the time of his removal from this post.

Lieut. Becker's salary in the time that he was making these deposits was less than $2,000.

Another safety deposit box in Becker's name was found by Mr. Whitman yesterday, and is closely guarded by men from the District Attorney's office.

Despite the accused Lieutenant's accumulation of cash, he has not found time yet, according to Jack Rose, to repay the $1,000 "Bridgey" Webber advanced to pay off the murder gang.

With the added power which the bankers' action has given to him, the District Attorney expects to be able to obtain damaging evidence against four police inspectors, who are already under investigation in connection with graft charges.

Yesterday Mr. Whitman devoted himself to the session of the Grand Jury, introducing to that body six witnesses. The most startling fact brought out at the hearing is said to have been offered by Jack Rose.

According to Rose, it was Jack Sullivan, the ex-newsboy and friend and client of Lieut. Becker, who gave the signal which resulted in Rosenthal's death. Soon after parting from Becker he hurried to the waiting gunmen with word that Rosenthal was in the Metropole. This is said to have been the only addition made by Rose yesterday to testimony which he had given to the Grand Jury before.

No indictments were returned yesterday, and probably none will be found before Thursday. The session of the Grand Jury was devoted exclusively to the murder phase of the investigation, and the deliberations probably will not be concluded for a day or two.

Such indictments as may grow out of the graft inquiry which, when they come, are expected to involve several Inspectors, can scarcely be handed down this week.

No one from Mr. Whitman's office had reached Hot Springs, Ark., last night to get Sam Schepps. The Arkansas law forbids holding any prisoner arrested as a fugitive beyond three days unless a law officer appears with a warrant, and as the three days expired yesterday Schepps was turned back into the custody of the Federal authorities, who had arrested him. It is expected that men from the District Attorney's office will reach Hot Springs to-day.

Mayor Gaynor yesterday signed an order providing funds for the Aldermanic investigation, and Emory R. Buckner and Corporation Counsel Watson had a conference at which it developed that there will be no need to name Buckner as a special Assistant Corporation Counsel, though Mr. Watson's office will co-operate with him in every way, nevertheless.

Mr. Whitman accepted yesterday an invitation to speak at the Citizens' mass meeting this evening. Other speakers will be Dr. Lyman Abbott, Rabbi Samuel Schulman, Peter Brady, Secretary Allied Printing Trades; Alderman Henry H. Curran, Mrs. Charles H. Israels, Emory R. Buckner, counsel to the Aldermanic Committee; Henry De Forest Baldwin, and Rabbi J. L. Magnes.

BECKER'S "SAVINGS" LARGE.

Banked $58,845 in Few Months—Safety Deposit Box May Hold More.

A power greater than District Attorney Whitman ever hoped to obtain in his investigation of the graft phase of the Rosenthal inquiry was placed at the Prosecutor's disposal yesterday, when the Clearing House Committee and leading bankers notified him that a request which is practically an order had been sent to all banks and depositories of savings in the city admonishing the officials of these to aid Mr. Whitman in every way. The news reached Mr. Whitman late. The action had been taken without his knowledge. And when he heard of it Mr. Whitman declared:

"I want to be quoted as saying that I am receiving splendid support from the bankers of this city in my efforts to solve the questions of graft which have arisen since the murder of Herman Rosenthal."

The action of the bankers makes it possible for Mr. Whitman to examine the bank account of every single member of the New York Police Department who possesses one. Deposits ranging from the lowest amount a bank, trust company, or savings institution will accept to the largest which now may lie to the credit of a policeman will be exposed to the District Attorney on request. The bankers have made it impossible for a depositor to conceal from Mr. Whitman a single dollar which may be banked to his credit. More than this, the action of bankers makes it possible for Mr. Whitman to obtain the histories of accounts—when deposits were made and by whom, and when withdrawals occurred and at whose behest.

When this news flashed through the Police Department last night there was consternation in some quarters. Men who have bank accounts which they want to conceal—and Mr. Whitman's investigations have convinced him already that there are such men on the police force other than Lieut. Becker—were terrified by the sudden realization that the usual secrecy maintained by banks would no longer protect them. News of the sudden illness of certain high officials of the department will no longer require explanation. It is known that Mr. Whitman expects soon to acquire damaging evidence relating to four Inspectors which will make their lots anything but happy.

Deposits of $58,845 Found to Date.

The District Attorney has been plodding along on the investigation of such accounts as Lieut. Becker might be shown to have, and yesterday there reached him information which fixed at $58,845 the amount of money which Becker or his wife put on deposit in three banks and a trust company in this city between last Nov. 1 and the time of Lieut. Becker's arrest.

Of this amount $29,615 were in the Corn Exchange Bank. Beyond the fact that this sum had been deposited between the dates named, it was impossible to learn anything more definite concerning it. In branches of the Corn Exchange Bank, however, it was learned that a deposit of $6,000 had been made in last April, one of $4,330 in last May, and one of $10,900 in last July. The deposits in the Corn Exchange Bank and its branches amounted to $50,845.

In addition it was learned that there had been deposited to Becker's account in the Lincoln Trust Company in last April $1,500, and in the Empire Savings Bank in the same month $3,500. The month following $3,000 was deposited to his account in the West Side Savings Bank.

The District Attorney's office was interested in the aggregate of these figures for given months. Thus, in April deposits in the Corn Exchange Bank, the Empire Savings Bank, and the Lincoln Trust Company amounted to $11,000. In May deposits in the Corn Exchange and in the West Side Savings Bank totaled $7,330, and in July the deposit of $10,900 was made in the Corn Exchange Bank.

It was only a day or so ago that information reached Mr. Whitman that the graft said to have been collected monthly by Becker approximated $15,000, and that of this sum he retained $6,000 for himself. From the deposits uncovered yesterday it would appear that Becker retained a much larger share of the $15,000 in some months, or that he saved his share sometimes from month to month before making a deposit. The total of $58,845 deposited in nine months is only a trifle in excess of the $6,000 monthly average which was brought to Mr. Whitman's attention some days ago.

But Mr. Whitman does not believe that this $58,845 is by any means the whole amount which the two-thousand-two-hundred-and-fifty-dollar-a-year Lieutenant deposited in the nine months which so far have been covered by the investigation. The District Attorney knows of four other banks in this city where there is reason to believe that Becker deposits may be found, and information has reached the prosecutor's office which makes the assumption reasonable that there are banks outside of this city in which accounts may be found in Becker's name.

Now that Mr. Whitman has the support of the banking interests, it is believed that these accounts will be discovered very readily. Heretofore, though Mr. Whitman has made no complaint, he and his men had been working at a disadvantage. In many banks they encountered an unwillingness on the part of the bank officials to reveal the information they sought. The investigators were met by the excuse that bank officials were legally justified in protecting the interests of their depositors to the extent of revealing none of their private affairs.

Another Becker Safety Deposit Box.

Mr. Whitman will encounter no further trouble of this sort, but expects instead an unexampled eagerness on the part of bankers to aid him in every way. The District Attorney now has reason to believe that he will soon be in possession of facts of inestimable value to him in his attempts to connect not only Becker but other members of the Police Department with the taking of graft for the failure properly to discharge their duties.

There are depositories employed by Becker, however, which Mr. Whitman is still at a loss to enter. They are safe deposit boxes, news of another than the one mentioned on Monday having reached Mr. Whitman yesterday. What these boxes contain is unknown as yet, and apparently will remain so until Mr. Whitman discovers some way legally to gain access to them. At present he has had to be content with placing guards over each of the vaults where these boxes are and to satisfy himself with the knowledge that no one can add to or detract from their contents without his being made aware of it.

Mr. Whitman believes that before he has completed his investigation of Becker's accounts he will discover sums aggregating in the neighborhood of $200,000. It is known that he believes the Lieutenant put away that sum in the few short months that he was at the head of the Strong Arm Squad.

However great the sum may prove to be, though, Mr. Whitman believes there will be no legal way of confiscating it. In other words, though it may be shown that nearly every penny of the wealth discovered in the possession of Becker was obtained as graft, there will be no way by which Becker may be deprived of ill-gotten gains.

Most of the information which reached Mr. Whitman yesterday came to him so late in the day that there was no opportunity to present it to the Grand Jury, and it is unlikely now that this will be done even to-morrow. Mr. Whitman has been understood through his inquiry to be most desirous first of clearing up the murder phase of the investigation before entering deeply into the graft end of the case.

There remain still several witnesses to be heard by the Grand Jury, and at best it is thought unlikely that indictments will be reached in the murder investigation before Thursday. It is scarcely probable, therefore, that Mr. Whitman will further clog the operations of the Grand Jury by submitting to it any graft evidence for consideration at this time.

SULLIVAN GAVE DEATH SIGNAL.

Jack Rose Is Reported to Have Sworn This Before the Grand Jury.

Jack Sullivan, the close friend of Lieut. Charles Becker, was accused yesterday not only of being implicated in the murder of Herman Rosenthal, but of actually having been the man who gave the death signal. His accuser was Jack Rose, and the accusation is said to have been made before the Grand Jury.

Rose was one of six witnesses who were heard by the Grand Jury yesterday when the whole body of twenty-three men assembled after the vacation over the week-end. Fifteen of these men had heard Rose's testimony before on the night when, after his confession, he was hurried before the hastily assembled jurors, and an indictment was found against Lieut. Becker.

Yesterday, it is understood, Rose was asked to repeat this story, and for two hours he kept the witness chair in the Grand Jury room. It is believed that in this time he repeated the story whose telling once caused Becker's indictment, and it was reported after he had left the Grand Jury room for a taxicab ride back to the West Side Prison that for the two hours Rose had held his hearers spellbound.

Neither on nor off the stage, it was said, had a recital ever been heard which, by its force, by the earnestness of the man who delivered it, by his deadly seriousness and yet seeming ignorance of the marvelous dramatic value of what he told, so enthralled its hearers. Rose, cool as though engaged only in a game of poker, at which he is said to excel, spoke quietly, steadily, sometimes deliberately, but now and again with a burst of feeling, and his hearers listened, tense, motionless, with attention which left them at the end of the story more exhausted than the man who told it.

In his testimony, it is understood, Rose introduced only two important points on which he had not touched before. The first was his accusation against Sullivan.

The bald-headed gambler is said to have charged that Sullivan—who, it will be recalled, had ridden downtown from the Madison Square Garden boxing match to Park Row and then uptown to Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue in the touring car which Lieut. Becker used as his own and in which Becker also was a passenger on the night of the murder—knew at this time that Rosenthal was to be killed; that on leaving Becker's car he hurried into "Bridgey" Webber's poker rooms above the cigar store at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue, and that having seen the four gunmen already assembled there and awaiting only directions as to where to find their quarry, he hurried out on a search for Rosenthal. Then, Rose is said to have charged, Sullivan found Rosenthal in the Metropole, and then, satisfied that the doomed man would remain there long enough for his purpose, hurried back to "Bridgey" Webber's and gave the word that Rosenthal was near at hand, an unsuspecting and ready victim.

Becker Promised, but Didn't Pay.

What will be the effect on Sullivan of Rose's new charge scarcely can be predicted, for daily the one-time "King of the Newsboys" has shifted from an attitude of complete and impudent indifference to events concerning him to one of considerable perturbation which led him at least once to discuss with Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith what might be the result of a frank avowal by him to the District Attorney of just what he knew about the case.

Throughout, however, Sullivan has protested his innocence of any connection with the actual crime. On leaving "Bridgey" Webber's after Becker deposited him there, Sullivan has said that he went to the Garden Restaurant and then to the Lincoln Hotel seeking to repay to Sam Paul $150. He has admitted that he left Webber's in search of some one. His story and Rose's differ only in the identity of the man he sought, and had Rosenthal been his quarry Sullivan still might have followed somewhat the course which he declares he took.

Yesterday, it is understood, Rose's charge was substantiated to a degree by "Bridgey" Webber, who, while he would not swear to the facts related by Rose declaring that he had no personal knowledge of them, is said nevertheless to have testified that as Rose outlined such was the part which he believed Sullivan to have played in the murder.

It was Rose, however, who did most of the talking yesterday. The second point of importance which he is said to have made is that Becker contracted to pay for the murder, and then failed to do so. Rose has said before that when he, Becker, and Webber met in the shadow of the Murray Hill Baths directly after the murder Becker declared:

"These men [the gunmen] must be got out of the way. You've got the money, Webber, and I've got the power. You attend to it. I'll make it all right with you."

Yesterday Rose is said to have amplified this statement by this rearrangement of words which he attributed to Becker:

"I already owe you $500, 'Bridgey.' Let me have another thousand and I'll make it right with you."

Both Rose and Webber have said in their confessions that Webber supplied this $1,000 in ten $100 bills, and that he passed it to Rose, who gave it to Sam Schepps, the Hot Springs prisoner, to pay off the gunmen. Rose is said to have added yesterday that Webber tried to get this $1,000 back within two days after the murder.

And here again the name of Jack Sullivan is said to have been brought [illegible] yesterday's proceedings. Rose is said to have testified that Webber sent Sullivan to Becker to ask him for the return of the $1,500, for by this time Webber was beginning to become frightened. But Becker flatly refused to pay up. Instead, he sent word to Rose and Webber to have no fear, saying:

"We can fix Whitman."

But Webber, according to the testimony he is said to have given yesterday, was not to be reassured so easily. He considered it an omen of no good to himself and the others that the District Attorney should have risen from bed to investigate the murder of the man who had an appointment with him the next morning to give testimony damaging to Becker.

Then, too, Webber and the others learned that Mr. Whitman had the license number of the gray car, and they began to dread the activities of the Prosecutor. Webber said he thought the police had been fixed all right, but he had not looked for "the District Attorney to butt in."

Dougherty a Grand Jury Witness.

The other witnesses, besides Rose and Webber, who were heard yeusterday included Second Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty, Richard G. Barter, the notary whom Becker and his lawyer, John W. Hart, escorted to the home of Harry Pollok when Rose was hiding there; Thomas Coupe, night clerk at the Elks Club, who saw the murder, and Rose Harris, the girl in whose flat "Dago Frank" Cirosici was found and who tried to save him first by a fictitious alibi.

Mr. Dougherty was called simply to reiterate statements which had been made to him by Rose and Webber. He had nothing else to tell, though it is known that he is working now heart and soul to assist the District Attorney and that the revelations of graft in his department have been a tremendous shock to an official against whose personal integrity there is not the slightest suspicion.

Coupe told again, it is understood, as he had told before, of witnessing the murder and of having observed the gunmen make off very leisurely, with no attempt at pursuit on the part of the police until there was no longer any chance of overtaking the gray car.

Rose Harris told nothing of value, so it is understood, and did not try to bolster up the alibi she and Cirosici had invented—that he was trying to get bail for her after she had been arrested in the street at the time the murder was committed.

Barter, the notary, is understood to have made an amusing witness, as he told how he had read much about the murder and was frightened nearly out of his wits when he found himself in the flat with Rose, for whom, he had heard, the police already were searching.

The Grand Jury filed before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions about 6:30, and was released for the night. The jury will reconvene to-day.

It is scarcely expected that the long-expected blanket indictment for murder will be reached to-day, but when it is, it is said to be likely that it will include the name of William Shapiro, chauffeur of the murder car.

It is understood that Mr. Whitman is convinced Shapiro knows more than he will tell, and in the ante-room of the Grand Jury room yesterday the District Attorney had a lively set-to with Aaron J. Levy, counsel for the chauffeur.

It was learned that Mr. Whitman took Mr. Levy to task for failing to force his man to tell the whole truth, and exploded the bomb beneath his nose that if he did not do so Shapiro stood a good chance of facing a murder indictment. Mr. Levy is understood to have protested that he had no knowledge other than he received from his client, and was not the custodian of his morals.

The status of Mr. Levy in the case has occasioned considerable comment, as it has seemed strange to many persons who have followed the investigation closely that Mr. Levy should devote his talents to a person of no more financial importance than the chauffeur.

POLICE GIVE UP SCHEPPS.

But Federal Marshal Holds Him—Denies Any Confession.

Special to The New York Times.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 13.—Sam Schepps, who was arrested here Saturday night, disappeared to-night, but it was learned that he has not escaped the clutches of the authorities. His departure from the Marquette Hotel, where Police Capt. Howell had been guarding him, was brought about because of the fact that under the law the police were permitted to hold him only three days.

The third day of his detention expired to-day and Capt. Howell turned him over to Postmaster Johnson, who also holds the commission of a United States Deputy Marshal.

Schepps was removed by Johnson from the hotel, and the Postmaster-Marshal declines to tell where he has placed the prisoner. It is certain, however, that when the proper authorities demand Schepps that they may take him to New York he will be produced.

Before Schepps was smuggled away from the hotel he read the papers and learned of District Attorney Whitman's intention to use him as a material witness, and not to charge him actually with participation in the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Schepps seemed to take small comfort in the information, however. Finally he issued this authorized statement:

> I want to say that every sensational story that has been sent out from Hot Springs, no matter by whom, which quotes me, either directly or indirectly, as having made any confession of any connection as regards police graft, white slave traffic and so on, I brand as maliciously false, made out of whole cloth, and manufactured from garbled reports got by I know not whom.
>
> I want the newspapers to know for a certain fact that this interview, which I am willing to sign and swear to, is the first and only statement made by me to the representative of any newspaper press association whatever. As regards the killing of Herman Rosenthal, I have made no confession. I have nothing to confess. Mr. Whitman knows this. The newspaper men who have asked me for some statement know it, but I think some of them wanted to make a little money out of misstatements.
>
> When I was taken in custody Postmaster Johnson took from me a letter I received from Jack Rose and a reply I had written to him. He promised to seal them in an envelope and hold them subject to District Attorney Whitman's orders. I, fearing some sentence in those letters might be misconstrued by those not knowing everything connected with the Rosenthal case, requested that they be returned to me or given in the care of Police Capt. George Howell or Police Chief Leonard. This was not done.
>
> I was powerless, not knowing whether any charges had been made against me. I understand these letters have been used. I want to say that their use was, in my opinion, illegal and libelous. My attorney will examine this feature when I return to New York.
>
> I fear no person or agent in New York City, but since it seems to be legal that Mr. Whitman has a right to demand that I be given into his custody as a witness, I have demanded my right as a detained witness against whom no charge of crime has or can be made, to be given into the custody of none except Mr. Whitman's authorized representatives.
>
> I want to repeat that this is the only authorized statement I have made for the representative of any newspaper or press association.
>
> SAM SCHEPPS.

In company of two guards, Schepps visited the New Central Theatre, a motion picture house, this afternoon. The picture show was a three-reel drama entitled "The Money Kings." It had to do with graft and underhand work of corruption, and Schepps seemed considerably nervous as he sat in the darkened theatre and watched through two reels of the pictures, then decided he had had enough and departed.

Schepps's position here is peculiar. No warrant was issued for him. No complaint has been made against him in any Arkansas court. He simply was captured bodily and is being held solely on the assertion that Mr. Whitman wants him in New York.

The only authority for holding Schepps in this manner consisted of several telegrams from Mr. Whitman and other correspondence relative to Schepps's capture, and these have now disappeared from the files at City Hall. Failure to produce these documents in court, it is believed, might cause the delivery of Schepps to the representatives of the New York police if they demanded him, and Chief of Police Leonard, who heard to-day that a representative of Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty of New York was in town, expressed the belief that perhaps this man had obtained the telegrams and other documents.

However, Assistant District Attorney R. G. Rubin, Process Server Robert Stewart, and Detective Al Thomas of Mr. Whitman's staff are expected here to-morrow, and it is believed that there will be no difficulty in delivering Schepps to them.

DRINK EL-BART DRY GIN "Keep as cool as a cucumber."—Adv.

BUCKNER ASSURED OF WATSON'S AID

To be No Conflict of Authority in Aldermen's Police Inquiry.

NOT TO ASK APPOINTMENT

Of Buckner as Assistant Corporation Counsel—Gaynor Signs Resolution Giving Funds for Inquiry.

Emory R. Buckner, counsel for the Aldermanic Committee that is to investigate police conditions, and Alderman Henry H. Curran, Chairman of the committee, called on Corporation Counsel Watson yesterday morning, and the three talked together for half an hour. After the talk was over and Mr. Curran had returned to his desk in the City Hall and Mr. Buckner was in conference with Secretary J. O. Hammitt of the Citizens' Union, there was again a good deal of talk about not permitting any of the city officials save the members of the committee and those of known friendship to the committee or of known antagonism to the Mayor and his friends to have anything whatever to do with the investigation. Mr. Curran said that he had told Mr. Watson that he would not ask to have Mr. Buckner made an Assistant Corporation Counsel. Basis for this story came from a talk with Mr. Hammitt on Monday before Mr. Watson knew that Mr. Buckner had been chosen as the chief investigator. But when Mr. Hammitt was told yesterday that Mr. Watson seemed to be pleased with the appointment of Mr. Buckner, and that he surely would not refuse to name him as an Assistant Corporation Counsel if it was deemed that such an appointment would add to the potency of the committee, he said:

"I am very glad to hear that. The assistance of Mr. Watson and the large resources of his office will be of the greatest service to the committee. The appointment will also make it possible for Mr. Buckner to appear before any court in the matter of recalcitrant witnesses, and thus save the bother and expense of finding other counsel to attend to this end of the work. It will also be a great source of strength to have the city officials working with us in amity.

"Personally I had no fear that any other attitude would be taken by Mr. Watson. I gave little credence to the stories of a possible conflict of authority. The news that Mr. Watson is friendly and disposed to be helpful is a very encouraging sign."

Buckner Convicts Yates.

Mr. Buckner was in good spirits. The last case he tried as an Assistant District Attorney was that of Chester W. Yates, one of the men charged with robbing Aaron Bancroft, which resulted in a conviction. This left his record in his last place very clean, and he looked upon it as a sign that his work as an investigator of police conditions would also be successful. He spent the day in going through a lot of documents that the Citizens' Union had been gathering and in familiarizing himself as much as possible with the details of the present scandal. He has not selected an office yet nor will he until he feels that it is imperative, which will probably not be for another week. He made this statement yesterday:

"Most people thought that the Aldermanic Committee would climb on the Rosenthal bandwagon. Every one seems to expect that the committee's counsel should walk a tightrope and twirl a Japanese umbrella at 3 P. M. on the day after appointment. I want the people to wait and give us a chance. This investigation can't be conducted as a newspaper campaign."

Mr. Watson was asked in the afternoon what he thought of Mr. Buckner and whether he thought so young a man would be able to carry along successfully such a big and important inquiry as turning the police system upside down so that the sun could reach all sides of it. He replied that he preferred to say nothing concerning the matter at this time except that he sincerely hoped Mr. Buckner would succeed, and that the investigation would make for the public good.

"Everything I can do to help the work along will be done. That is all I care to say about the matter at this time."

To Be Unhampered.

Mr. Curran said:

"Our talk with Mr. Watson was most cordial. Mr. Watson congratulated Mr. Buckner upon his appointment. I told Mr. Watson that I wished to state just what our position was with regard to Mr. Buckner's relations with the committee. I told him that it had been decided not to ask him to designate Mr. Buckner as an Assistant Corporation Counsel for the purposes of the investigation, because I believed that we had unhampered power to go ahead without such designation. I told him that we did not think it fair to shoulder on him the responsibility for an investigation that he would not conduct, and that if the technical designation was considered necessary we would ask for it.

"Mr. Watson assured us of his desire that the investigation should be a success, and expressed great interest in it. I am extremely gratified by Mr. Watson's attitude."

It was said that the committee intends to have entire control of the investigation, and that no one except the members of the committee, and the majority at that, would see any of the papers or documents, or know any part of the programme of the inquiry.

The question of selecting a lawyer to assist Mr. Buckner was not considered during the day. Mr. Buckner had nothing to say about this, but Mr. Curran said that he realized that a good assistant was very essential. He said that it would be the duty of the assistant counsel to keep track of all the testimony, see that proper and easily reached transcripts of the testimony were kept, and to assist in preparing the work from day to day. It was suggested that S. W. Howland, with whom Mr. Buckner intends to enter into a law partnership, might be chosen as the assistant. Mr. Howland is also from the West.

Yesterday Mayor Gaynor signed the resolution of the Board of Aldermen appropriating $25,000 to meet the expenses of the investigation.

NEW CLUE IN CATSKILLS.

"Gyp the Blood" Reported Living in a Shanty—Search in Montreal.

Special to The New York Times.

MARGARETVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Four strange men and a woman have aroused great excitement in a community fifteen miles back in the Catskills. They are in a shanty at one time used by Italian woodchoppers and obtain their food from a farm near by. A man who reads the New York papers had a talk with one of them Saturday and became convinced that he was "Gyp the Blood."

He notified two local officers who have photographs of "Gyp the Blood." The officers hid in the woods near by, and on seeing the party became absolutely convinced that one of them was "Gyp the Blood." The officers came here, and at once called the New York Police Department on the telephone and talked for twenty minutes.

The Police Department promised to have men here on the first train Monday morning and seemed very much interested. No man has as yet arrived.

Hunt in Montreal, Too.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Aug. 13.—That "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louis" are near Montreal is the latest theory of the New York detectives. There is a New York Headquarters man in town to-day. He has been in close association with city and provincial detectives. This group of detectives gathered up local men known to have interest in gaming places.

Several Montreal men of the sporting fraternity have country places near Montreal and close to the border line that would afford fairly safe retreats for New York fugitives.

DOUGHERTY IS INDIGNANT.

Says a Whole Lot of Stories About the Rosenthal Case Are Untrue.

Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty was very angry all day yesterday. He made many denials of printed stories.

"There is not the slightest truth," he said, "in the statement that there is any misunderstanding or friction between me and District Attorney Whitman. I cannot imagine where such a rumor could have started.

"Then the newspapers said," cried Mr. Dougherty, "that I sent a detective to Hot Springs to get Sam Schepps. What an absurd story. Just as if I would run a race with the District Attorney to see who could get the prisoner first. If Schepps walked into my office I would send him right down to the District Attorney."

"Did you receive a letter from the Chief of Police at Hot Springs?"

"Yes, and it sent me in a hurry to see Mr. Whitman, so that he might decide what he wanted to do about it. So long as Schepps is arrested I don't care who arrested him. That is satisfactory to me.

"A whole lot of stories are printed that are not true. I am surprised at it. Of course, I know how the newspapers are got out. A reporter goes into his office and tells the editor what he has and the editor says to him not to write it that way, but to write it some other way. I used to be in the newspaper business myself and I know the game from where the presses are to where the composing room is."

WALDO MAY SHIFT INSPECTORS.

Might Thus Learn Whether His Confidence Has Been Misplaced.

It was said at Police Headquarters yesterday that Commissioner Waldo was seriously considering a general shift of Inspectors. Eight of the eighteen Inspectors were promoted by the present Commissioner. The fact that some of these men were criticised more than the nine old Inspectors worried the Commissioner very much. The men promoted by the Commissioner have had the most important commands, and the police records show they have done their duty.

A change of Inspectors, however, might result in a marked improvement in conditions. If this were so, the Commissioner would then believe, it was said, that the men he had trusted had betrayed him. The desire to learn whether or not his confidence had been misplaced, it was said, had induced the Commissioner to consider seriously making a general change.

It was said also that the Commissioner had made a searching investigation into reports that some of the detectives sent to the Catskills to search for "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie" had let Sam Schepps get away, and that he was satisfied that the reports reflecting upon the astuteness and honesty of the detectives were untrue. The fact was that a number of men were sleeping in the room where Schepps said he was, and the detectives made every one of the men get up. All of them were carefully looked at. The detectives did not know Schepps. They were merely looking for two other men, and even if their minds had been fixed upon Schepps they certainly would not have been able to recognize him by the printed descriptions of him.

The inference that detectives connived at the escape of Schepps and that they could arrest "Gyp the Blood" and "Lefty Louie" if they wanted to greatly incensed the Commissioner and convinced him that all of the attacks upon the police were unfounded.

SPEAKERS FOR MASS MEETING.

Whitman Among Those Who Will Protest Against Present Conditions.

Allan Robinson, who is looking after the arrangements for the big mass meeting in Cooper Union to-night to protest against police conditions in the city, said yesterday that the list of speakers had been completed.

The full list contains the names of District Attorney Whitman, the Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, Rabbi Samuel Schulman, Peter Brady, Secretary of the Allied Printing Trades; Chairman Henry H. Curran of the Aldermanic Investigating Committee; Mrs. Charles H. Israels, Emory R. Buckner, counsel for the Aldermanic committee; Henry de Forest Baldwin, and Rabbi J. L. Magnes.

It was said that all the signs pointed to a crowded and enthusiastic meeting. It was explained that the purpose of the meeting was not only to utter a protest against police conditions, but to assist in the work of purifying the Police Department, to assist all committees, organizations, and persons who were working along the same lines, and especially to effect some permanent and lasting good.

Hughes Passes the Crisis.

Inspector Edward P. Hughes of the Detective Bureau, who is ill of pleuro pneumonia at his home in Brooklyn, passed the crisis of the disease yesterday, and his recovery is now confidently looked for. He is still very low and weak, and no visitors are permitted to see him. It will probably be a month or two before he will be able to resume his duties.

HADLEY GIVES HIS REASONS.

Tells Why He Will Not Leave Republicans for Roosevelt.

Gov. Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri, floor manager of the Roosevelt forces at the Republican National Convention, tells why he will not support Col. Roosevelt, in the issue of Leslie's Weekly which appears to-morrow. In the course of his statement Gov. Hadley says:

"The reasons urged by those who have joined in this movement are that the Republican Party is a sectional party, that it has outlived its usefulness, and that it is not in accord with the progressive spirit of the day on account of the fact that its machinery is in the control of men who are either conservative or the representatives of special interests.

"The only force in this argument is that, as the organization in the South is largely an office holders' organization, it is easier for special interests and those who wish to use the party for the accomplishment of selfish purposes to dominate and control it. The question therefore is as to whether the Republican Party is now dominated by men who represent special interests and as to whether it is a more difficult task to free the party from their control than it is to organize a new party and through it secure control of the Government. The action of the National Committee in passing upon the contesting delegations for seats in the convention is offered as proof that the party is under the control of such men.

"Notwithstanding the record that has thus been made, I have been unwilling to concede that the Republican Party has ceased to be a useful agency of good government. I believe a large majority of the Republican voters believe in progressive policies and principles of government, and that those voters can make their opinions effective through the existing party machinery. And I believe that the success of progressive principles can be more promptly and effectively accomplished through the Republican Party than by the organization of a third party.

"What assurance have those who join in the formation of a new party that four years from now the members of the National Committee of that party will not use, in some unfair way, their authority as against delegates selected in favor of some candidate for the Presidency? No party can claim for itself a monopoly of honest men, and no party can make itself proof against dishonest, selfish, or designing men securing positions of power or authority therein.

"I have further felt that the platform adopted by the Republican Convention this year shows that the Republican Party as it now exists is not a reactionary organization. While there were a number of planks that I should like to have seen adopted—particularly the plank declaring in favor of direct primaries—which were not adopted, the platform, as a whole, is the most progressive platform ever adopted by our party."

THRILLING SHIP LOG IN 60,000-MILE TRIP

The Lothian Looted by Pirates, Typhoon Tossed, and Frozen Up in Siberia.

CARRIED SALTED QUEUES

Officers Witnessed Finish Fight Between Sharks and a Mother Whale Off the Azores.

The British freighter Lothian arrived yesterday from Manila after being away since Feb. 17, 1911, during which period she had wandered to all parts of the world, traveling 60,000 miles and carrying all kinds of cargoes from Arab pilgrims to salted Chinese queues and sun-dried locusts. Her adventures included being captured by pirates, fighting a typhoon, and being frozen in the ice in the Siberian seas. The Lothian was commanded by Capt. William J. Lockhart. The first officer was F. W. Henry and the chief engineer Alexander Morrison. In all she had a crew of thirty-five Chinamen and eight European officers and engineers.

The story of the voyage was related to a TIMES reporter yesterday by First Officer Henry and corroborated by the Captain and engineer at intervals.

When the Lothian sailed from New York on Feb. 17 last year she went out via the Suez Canal to Kobe, calling at Perim, Colombo, and Singapore on the way, and arriving at Kobe in May, just in time to witness the manoeuvres of the combined Japanese fleets under Admiral Togo in the presence of the late Emperor.

In a Typhoon's Path.

From Kobe the steamer went to Yokohama, and then to Australia, returning in time to fall in with a typhoon between Formosa and Hongkong. It blew so hard that the Chinese crew crawled along the decks like snakes so as not to be carried away. It lifted junks clean out of the water and whirled them through the air, landing the quaint Chinese vessels high and dry on the tops of hills among the tea plantations on Formosa.

The first serious adventure happened on Nov. 12, when the Lothian was anchored off Woosung Bar waiting to go up to Shanghai to unload a cargo of betel nuts and Dutch gin from Djojakarta. The night was cold and foggy. Wang Pi, the bo'sun's mate, was keeping watch at the gangway, but did not notice a pirate junk creep alongside until it was too late. He was seized and gagged. After making the doors of the officers' cabins fast, the pirates, who were led by Chun Ho Wan, the much dreaded one-eyed pirate king from Wu Chow on the Si Kiang, 250 miles west of Canton, roused the sleeping crew and battened them down below after clipping off their queues with their keen double-edged swords.

After going through the ship and commandeering everything that was portable, including the sheet anchor and the Captain's dog, Towser, who came on deck to see what was up, the pirates pulled away in their junk, which was loaded with loot, and disappeared in the fog. When the attack on the ship was reported to Shanghai next day two Chinese gunboats were sent out to catch and execute Chun Ho Wan and his band without any tedious preliminaries, the mate said.

Frozen Up in Vladivostok.

Three weeks later, in December, the Lothian was frozen hard and fast in the harbor of Vladivostok, Siberia, for two weeks, and the entire crew was frostbitten and had to be thawed out in turns in front of the galley fire by Ho Wang, the cook. The Lothian managed to get clear of the harbor with the aid of two ice breakers, belonging to the Russian Government, used for rural purposes.

The last port of call for cargo was Manila, which she cleared on June 29 for New York, and on the voyage home, according to the Captain, first officer, and Chief Engineer, the most interesting incident occurred.

"It was just after six bells on Aug. 3, when the ship was off the Island of Santa Marta, in the Azores," said First Officer Henry, "that the Captain and myself were standing on the bridge, looking through the glasses at the shore. Suddenly, away off on the starboard bow, we saw a commotion in the water, and as the ship drew nearer we could see two sharks attacking a big whale. It is so unusual to see sharks attacking whales that the Captain stopped the ship and called up the Chief Engineer to watch the marine combat.

"For an hour the leviathan was attacked on both sides by the sharks, with their long, powerful jaws filled with big white, pointed teeth that glistened in the bright morning sun. The sea was like a millpond, except in the place where the fight was going on.

"At last, after a mighty swing of the tail, the two sharks were tossed in the air, and fell helpless back on the surface of the water wtih their backs broken. The whale had won.

"It looked from the bridge as if the whale was trying to protect some other fish from the sharks, and when we steamed up we saw that it was a female whale and that she had been protecting a young whale from the sharks, with true motherly instinct. She was cut and gashed by the teeth of the sharks."

UNION SECRETARY ACCUSED.

President of His Local Says He Is Short in His Accounts $892.96.

On the complaint of John H. Blood of 744 Madison Street, Brooklyn, President of Local Union No. 1,347 of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, William Calnan, Secretary of the organization, was arraigned in the Gates Avenue Court yesterday on a charge of grand larceny.

Calnan was accused of being short in his accounts $892.96, which money, the complainant says, the prisoner received for the organization and failed to turn in to the treasury. Magistrate McGuire held Calnan in $1,000 bail for examination on Aug. 20.

Boy Killed Stealing a Ride.

Joseph Masolian, a six-year-old boy, of 95 Morris Avenue, Jersey City, ran in the way of a street car in Newark Avenue yesterday afternoon when he was ordered by the driver to get off a truck on which he and two other boys were stealing a ride. The car wheels passed over his body, killing him almost instantly. The motorman, Michael Kline, 191 Hancock Street, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

ACCUSED ALDERMEN MENACE INFORMER

Fists Shaken and Curses Hurled at Detroit Clerk Who Made Graft Confession.

HE WILL AID PROSECUTOR

Admissions Made by One of the City Fathers Said to Confirm the Clerk's Charges.

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—Following the arraignment to-day of eighteen Aldermen and Edward Schreiter, Council Committee Clerk, Hugh Shepherd, the prosecuting attorney, announced that Schreiter, who made a complete confession after his arrest, will from now on help him in prosecuting the Aldermen.

"Schreiter is now an attaché of the Prosecutor's office; you might call him an assistant without pay," said the Prosecutor.

The arraignment to-day resulted in the cases against the nine men arrested for the first time last Friday being set for hearing on Aug. 20, on which date the nine first arrested are to be heard.

Curses mingled with threats and countercharges were heaped on Schreiter by the accused city fathers.

"You dirty dog," said Alderman Skrzycki, one of the accused, when he saw Schreiter. "How could you say that I ever exchanged words with you in regard to the Wabash deal? You know it is false. When you take a man's honor away from him you may as well take his life."

Schreiter made no answer, but started to go away.

"You dirty dog," again yelled Skrzycki.

Schreiter then walked into the Police Court Clerk's office. The first person he met was Alderman O'Brien, another of the accused.

"What you lack is a little more hair and then you would really be a dog," said O'Brien, shaking his fist in Schreiter's face.

As other Aldermen began to denounce the deposed Clerk, Mr. Shepherd and an assistant seized Schreiter by the arms and directed him into the private office of another court official, and the door was shut in the faces of the Aldermen and spectators who had crowded around.

All the accused officials declare the Schreiter statement false, despite the fact that the Prosecutor refused to give out details of the confession.

Charles Jasnowski, Assistant Prosecutor, said to-day that Alderman Thomas Glinnan, who is said to have received $1,000 from a detective in the Wabash Railroad street closing case, has repeatedly confirmed his confession, alleged to have been made to Burns, and that Glinnan's statements agree with Schreiter's in every detail.

It is alleged that nine Aldermen actually received bribes, not, however, from a railroad official, but from a detective who posed as such. The nine others, it is charged, agreed to accept certain amounts but failed to "collect" at an appointed time. According to the prosecution, the alleged trap was sprung soon after nine Aldermen were bribed and also after the time for the others to receive their share of the money had expired. Mr. Shepherd and the detective say that marked bills were found on several Aldermen after they were arrested and searched.

RED ARMY FORCING WAY TO NEW YORK

Gen. Smith's Plan to Take Manhattan by Rear Attack Is Now Disclosed.

BLUE SOLDIERS DRIVEN BACK

Important Battle to be Fought on Friday—President Taft and Gen. Wood Expected to See It.

Special to The New York Times.

STRATFORD, Conn., Aug. 13.—Gen. Frederick A. Smith's Red Army of invasion in the Connecticut war manoeuvres is steadily forcing back the Blue defenders from their position on the west bank of the Housatonic River.

There were encounters to-day between the two forces at Little Zoar Bridge north of the left flank of the Blues, and further south by peaceful Derby the troops with red hat bands poured unmolested over the broad Housatonic into the defender's country.

While the Housatonic Valley was made dusty with the marching of the troops, down at the umpires' headquarters at Stratford the men of the aviation squad were having their troubles.

The hydroaeroplane which started off at such a clip from Marblehead on Monday with Lieuts. Arnold and Kirtland aboard has been sent back to the machine shops with a smashed pontoon. The plane scooting along above Plymouth Harbor on its way to Bridgeport came smashing down into the water to-day, wrecking a pontoon. The officers, who had on life belts, had no trouble getting to shore, but they had to telegraph Capt. Henessy of the aviation squad that it would take a lot of work to get the machine in shape, and he ordered it sent back to Marblehead.

Then Beckwith Havens, the aviator who is flying for the army as a private in the National Guard, got all the spectators at the camp on their toes by coming down 1,000 feet with a balky engine. He volplaned part of the way and the crowds of visitors from the countryside, with whom the young flier is a great favorite, applauded, thinking that this was one of the circus feats which Beckwith is so fond of doing when he gets high up.

But it was a stopped engine that was bringing him down. He shot above a group of ducking, screaming women, wabbled perilously and then banged down on the tail of the Burgess Wright flier in which Lieut. Foulois had been scouting but a short time before. Both biplanes had to be tinkered with before they could get up again.

Foulois Scouts in the Air.

Lieut. Foulois's scouting early this morning made the most favorable impression upon the observers. He swung in a great triangle out over Lonk Hill, the Blue headquarters, and around by way of Derby, where the Reds were busy crossing the river.

From about two thousand feet he worked the wireless instrument attached to his biplane and sent back word of his progress to the operator at camp. He hung like a blur against the white clouds above Zoar Bridge, where Gen. Smith was sending his Red soldiers pell mell into the Blue territory. He saw a lively little fight between Col. Kirby's Blues defending the bridge and the invaders. Finally he chronicled the withdrawal of the Blues, who found that they had walked into a much larger body of Reds than they had reckoned on.

Down by Derby, too, there was sharp fighting, for here was concentrated the attack on the west bank by the Reds. All morning Red troops stirred up the dust along the quiet village roads, marching across the bridge at Shelton, to camp to-night on the other side of the river.

They call it a victory for the Reds, the close followers of this game played by 20,000 men, but it by no means follows that New York is going to fall an easy prize to the invaders. The big fighting will not come in all probability until Friday, when the Generals on both sides have men hardened by the instructional period ready to work out of the holes into which the umpires are putting them now.

Bridgeport is full of Brooklyn troops to-night. The Fourteenth, Twenty-third, and Forty-seventh, which were in action yesterday, but which, like the other New York troops, had a day of while Connecticut and Maine did the fighting, are camping in the suburbs. The streets are filled with their wagon trains and mounted men, and Bridgeport won't have to motor out to Stratford to-morrow to get a close view of the war game.

At the umpires' camp preparations are being made for the arrival of President Taft, Major Gen. Leonard Wood, and Major Rhoads the President's aid.

Reds Keep on Advancing.

The advance of the Red enemy against New York was pushed forward to-day nearly ten miles after hard and spectacular fighting. The line of the Blues has been forced back toward its base at Danbury. The intention of Gen. Smith to take the metropolis by rear attack was disclosed by creating a diversion at the north, bringing on the battle of Great Ring Hill. He found little opposition in placing his Massachusetts brigade of infantry across the Housatonic River at Derby and sending it into bivouac at Long Hill, Huntington, where he can use it against the First New Jersey Brigade of Blues, which was last heard from near there.

He left the First New York Brigade of infantry still in Orange, supported by the Twenty-second New York Engineers. The air-line distance from the Massachusetts troops is about four miles, with the river between, but if Gen. W. A. Pew, Jr., of the Massachusetts brigade, is hard pressed, the engineers can put the New Yorkers across with their pontoons or they can make a forced march.

The next defensive move of Gen. Mills is awaited with keen interest by the non-combatants. The Reds are massing for the coming encounter, as to-day's battle has made it possible for Gen. Smith to make a juncture of all his forces along the west bank of the Housatonic.

The hopes of the Blues rest in Gen. Mills's concentration. To-day he brought his second New York brigade from Naugatuck Junction under cover of Col. James Parker's provisional cavalry brigade, and he is presumed to be massing his artillery in the hills to the west, over which the Reds must go to reach the Hudson River.

The Red Army has not disclosed its weight of field guns. To-morrow all artillery can be brought into action if needed, as heretofore it has been non-combatant for the instructional period.

Blues Forced to Retreat.

The first collision to-day came on the turnpike toward Newtown, close to Great Ring Hill. Both commands were moving cautiously at the time. As the encounter continued, both commanders saw that the hill was a vantage point. Col. Kirby ordered that it be taken, and all the available companies started for it on the run. For a time it looked as if the Blues would be victorious.

As they were going up the hill, the Maine regiment (Red) and a lot of troopers were coming out of a narrow wood road. They saw the Blues, and with a cheer went into action, finally swarming up the hill. The Blues had to fall back, leaving the Reds in possession of the hill and the highway, which is an important artery across the western section of the State.

Gen. Bliss, who had watched the battle from behind the Blue line, declared afterward that the problem had worked out more successfully than had been expected.

The fight to-day around Great Ring Hill developed, as do few manoeuvre battles between the militia and regular troops, into the prettiest engagement imaginable from the standpoint of spectators, hundreds of whom viewed the fight from tops of walls, porches, carriages, and tonneaus.

Picture two opposing lines stretching over country fields for nearly a mile—the Red invading foe prone upon their stomachs in the concealing grass or behind stone walls; the Blue defenders finding security behind the high stone wall at the cross roads; imagine a steady fire spitting from the stone walls, with the Reds coming back with heavy fire in like manner; umpires and commanding officers of both sides galloping up and down behind the lines, and Gen. Bliss and staff just behind the extreme left wing of the Reds; conjure all this and you have an idea of the picturesque and stirring spectacle a moment after the two armies clashed.

Over the winding Zoar Road, between the lower Berkshires, and along the banks of the Housatonic, the Red army had moved promptly at 8 o'clock this morning and crossed Zoar Bridge.

The Blue defenders, knowing of the strength of the Reds at a northern point, also set out to take this structure, but the Reds had the shorter distance, and the Blues were not within four miles of the bridge when the clash came.

A company of cavalry from the fighting Tenth, acting as an advance guard of the Reds, had run into the advance of the Blues, and scampered back to the line with the warning. The Connecticut regiments, First and Second, under Col. Cowles, were in front of the Red army, and it took them only a jiffy to whip across the field into line of battle. The Blue commander, Col. Kirby, sent the First Vermont to the left wing, and the Fifth United States as the right wing.

Key to the Situation.

Col. Kirby, after drawing out the Red fire, saw that it was weaker toward the left flank, and directed his forces toward that point, bringing up two troops of cavalry to aid in the attempt to turn the left wing of the Red. Between the two armies, at the extreme end of the posititon occupied by each, rose Great Ring Hill, crested by a red farmhouse, which made the slope conspicuous. To the trained eye of the army strategist this was the key to the situation. Whichever side took this hill would win the day, for from its heights it could mow down the enemy with a murderous fire from behind stone walls and other points of vantage. At first its capture by the Blues seemed certain.

"Where are the Red reinforcements?" asked Gen. Bliss impatiently of an aid.

"It is reported that they left—" began the aid.

"Do you know where they are at this moment?" repeated the General.

"I do not, Sir," and as the sharp interview closed the tops of the hats of the Second Maine troops, the much-needed Red reinforcements, were to be seen. A moment later the Maine riflemen were sweeping up the hill, taking cover as they found it, and picking off the Blues at will. The Blues, taken by surprise, peppered away, and the exchange of shots was sufficiently steady and strong to give all the realism of actual war. The Blues, driven back, made a few tries at the centre of the Red line, but stubbornly withdrew, defeated.

While the battle was going on Gen. Mills was changing his forces to the south. Gen. Eddy, with the Fourteenth, Twenty-third, and Twenty-seventh New York, quietly left camp at Naugatuck Junction, crossing the Washington Bridge and burning it behind him, marched through Bridgeport to a point on the western outskirts. Col. Parker, with the provisional brigade of cavalry at Milford, made a roundabout march and then southwest along the railroad, going into camp late in the afternoon north of East Bridgeport. Both movements were unopposed, and were made in preparation for a hot battle with the Reds to the northward to-morrow.

Extreme heat made the hikes of these commands severe, and in passing through Stratford and Bridgeport storekeepers found amusement in turning the hose on the overheated men, much to their satisfaction.

MANOEUVRE FLIGHT ABANDONED

Army Aviators from Marblehead Have Bad Accidents Near Plymouth.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Aug. 13.—With their hydroaeroplane damaged as a result of an accident to-day, Lieuts. Kirtland and Arnold of the United States Army abandoned the proposed 200-mile flight from Marblehead to the army aviation fields on the banks of the Housatonic River in Connecticut. The aviators took a train to Bridgeport, Conn., this afternoon. The hydroaeroplane was shipped to Marblehead.

The aviators left Marblehead yesterday in an attempt to fly to Connecticut, but engine trouble necessitated their landing in Duxbury. In a light air the officers resumed their flight early to-day. They had gone only a few miles when they attempted to negotiate a turn. The hydroaeroplane began to descend, and the aviators volplaned to the surface of Plymouth Bay. The machine landed in shallow water near the shore. The propeller and a pontoon were broken and other parts were damaged.

JERSEY DESERTER IS CAUGHT.

Hungry Private Found at Dinner Table, Making Up Lost Time.

Special to The New York Times.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 13.—The war game proved too strenuous for Walter Atterbury, 23 years old, of 34 North Sixteenth Street. Going without anything dainty to eat from Friday, the day he left home, until Sunday noon was more than he felt he could stand, even if the safety of New York was at stake, so he left the field yesterday and got home last night. A telegram from his commander, Capt. Lambie, notified the police that he was probably back within their jurisdiction.

Detective Wendel arrested Atterbury at the dinner table. He will be held awaiting the orders of the Government.

The deserter said that by the time the army rations were set before the soldiers the rain had taken all of the flavor out of them. He said he was sick of soldiering in the field.

WOOD TO SEE FINAL OPERATIONS

Chief of Staff Will Investigate Questions of Army Efficiency.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Major Gen. Wood, Chief of Staff, will leave Washington Thursday for Connecticut to attend the closing operations of the army manoeuvres and make personal observations as to the efficiency of the army units. Gen. Wood takes the keenest interest in evolutions in the field. During the mobilizations of the army corps on the Mexican frontier it was a great disappointment that his duties in Washington prevented his taking command.

Dix Calls on Injured Soldier.

DANBURY, Conn., Aug. 13.—While passing through Danbury Gov. Dix of New York, accompanied by members of his staff, it was learned to-day, called last night on Charles H. Mullins, the Binghamton artilleryman, who is suffering in the hospital from a fractured skull. Mullins was injured at Bethel last Saturday, when he was thrown from his horse.

NAMES J.G. SCHURMAN MINISTER TO GREECE

Cornell's President Rewarded by Taft for Services at Recent Chicago Convention.

HAS HOBBY FOR ANTIQUES

New Minister Will Have Opportunity to Study Excavations in Greece—Succeeds G. H. Moses, Resigned.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—President Taft sent to the Senate to-day the name of Jacob Gould Schurman, President of Cornell University, to be Minister to Greece, vice George Higgins Moses, resigned. The nomination comes as a distinct pleasure to Senator Root, and as a reward for important labors done in the past by Mr. Schurman. He was a prominent figure at the Republican Convention in Chicago, where he attended as a delegate at large. As a member of the Committee on Resolutions he played an important part in drafting the platform on which the President is now making his fight, and before that Mr. Schurman had served the party with distinction.

Mr. Schurman's predecessor has resigned to take charge of his business after serving at Athens for three years. Mr. Moses has extensive business connections in New Hampshire. Concord is his home, and four years ago he was a delegate at large to the convention that nominated Mr. Taft. Recently he had expressed a desire to return to this country.

The appointment of Mr. Schurman comes almost entirely as a personal affair. This is the Sabbatical year of the President of Cornell, and he found himself with twelve months of holiday on his hands. Before that period is up Mr. Taft's term will have ended, and if he is not re-elected the Ministers and Ambassadors in the Diplomatic Corps will be expected to offer their resignations under the old spoils system. That would allow Mr. Schurman to return to this country just in time to resume his duties at Cornell.

Mr. Schurman has long been interested in antiques, and the excavations in Greece have been one of his peculiar hobbies. Mr. Schurman is well known as a scholar. Philippics are his especial chair at Cornell, and he has written books on philosophical subjects. As far back as 1881 he published a book on "Kantian Ethics and the Ethics of Evolution," and since then he has written many books on philosophical and religious subjects.

Mr. Schurman was born in Freetown, P. E. I., May 22, 1854, of Dutch descent. He received his higher education at the University of Edinburgh and various German universities. Later he studied in California, at Yale, and other American institutions. For a while he specialized on political economy and psychology, and in 1886 became Professor of Philosophy at Cornell. He was made President of the university in 1892.

The only official position ever held by Mr. Schurman was that of President of the first Philippine Commission in 1899.

No opposition to his confirmation is expected in the Senate.

ITHACA, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The nomination of President Schurman as Minister to Greece caused great surprise in this city. Dr. Schurman is spending his vacation at his Summer home, East Hampton, L. I.

Dr. Schurman has been President of Cornell University for twenty years. He is a prominent Republican, and in the recent factional fight was a warm supporter of President Taft, speaking for him in the Pennsylvania primaries and contributing several articles in his behalf in the magazines. Since 1908 he has been a bitter opponent of Col. Roosevelt, though at one time an admirer and supporter.

Just before the election of 1908, President Schurman came out with a vitriolic interview denouncing Mr. Roosevelt's policies of centralization, imperialism, and Caesarism, and since then he has been identified with the conservative wing of the Republican Party. His name has been mentioned as a candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket and for the Senatorship. It is said that for a number of years President Schurman has been in a receptive mood for a foreign mission, preferring it to any political office. Should he enter the Diplomatic Service he would be following in the footsteps of the first President of Cornell University, Dr. Andrew D. White, who became Minister to Russia and Ambassador to Germany after he left the Presidency of Cornell.

President Schurman entered the Cornell Faculty as Professor of Philosophy, and when Charles Kendall Amada retired from the Presidency, Dr. Schurman, although then a young man, was selected for the position. During his administration Cornell has emerged from a minor position in the collegiate world to one of the greatest universities in the country. The student population which, when he came, was less than 1,500, has now passed the 5,000 mark, and the university has prospered throughout his administration. He has a vigorous personality, is a man of culture, a forceful speaker, and has been a popular executive.

Moses' Resignation Unexpected.

CONCORD, N. H., Aug. 13.—Announcement of the resignation of George H. Moses as United States Minister to Greece and Montenegro came as a complete surprise to friends of Mr. Moses here. He was expected home about Sept. 1 on leave of absence, and in his last letter, written from Montenegro a short time ago, he gave no intimation of his intention to resign.

Mr. Moses is editor and part owner of The Concord Monitor and was appointed Minister to Greece and Montenegro by President Taft early in 1909.

ROOT-LA FOLLETTE CLASH.

Wisconsin Man Withdraws Harsh Language as Post Office Bill Passes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—After an all-day session, the Senate late this afternoon passed the Post Office Appropriation bill, carrying several important provisions. The parcels post plan as enacted yesterday remained despite the efforts to strike it from the bill in the last stages. A modified eight-hour law was adopted permitting postal clerks to work overtime, but providing that instead of receiving extra pay they may take time off in compensation at the end of the week.

The passage of this bill clears up every bit of legislation in either House, with the exception of the comparatively unimportant General Deficiency Civil bill. There are many bills in conference or awaiting action, following a veto.

A feature of the discussion to-day was a clash between Senator Root and Senator La Follette over whether the latter favored legislation in the Post Office Appropriation bill which would sanction a strike of Government employes. When Mr. Root asked the Wisconsin Senator a direct question, Mr. La Follette shouted that he "refused to be trapped by the Senator from New York."

Mr. Root insisted that La Follette withdraw the remark, saying it was offensive.

"If the remark is offensive, I will modify it," said La Follette.

"It is offensive," returned Senator Root. "I have asked the Senator a direct question: 'What is his position in regard to the right of postal employes to strike?'"

"I do not sanction legislation that would in any way authorize strikes by postal employes," replied the Mr. La Follette, and the squall blew over.

The attempt to amend the bill to prohibit postal employes from joining secret organizations outside the department was defeated, 31 to 20, after a sharp fight in which the possibility of a strike against the Government was freely discussed.

The Senate finally agreed to the House provisions, with two amendments, by Senator Reed. One would allow the department to remove employes who were members of an organization affiliated with any outside organization which imposed an obligation or duty to strike or assist in a strike against the United States.

The second declared that the rights of any individual in the Government service to petition Congress or furnish information to committees of Congress should not be interfered with.

GIRL, WHO VANISHED IN AUTO, BACK DAZED

Doctor Says Miss Gray Was Drugged and Maltreated in Week's Absence.

CAR FOUND; MAN DISAPPEARS

She Creeps Home in Hysterical State Just as Police Drive Car Up to Her Relatives' House.

Edna M. Gray returned yesterday to her home at 791 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, from which he has been missing since last Tuesday morning, when she drove away for an afternoon at Coney Island with a young man who called for her in an automobile. She wandered home, and she was hysterical when her grandmother took her in her arms. Dr. H. W. Casey, who was called in from his office across the street, declared that the girl had been drugged and maltreated, but she was too weak to tell anything of what had befallen her since she left home.

The girl's return was dramatic, and followed the discovery by the police of the car in which she had driven away the week before. It was on Tuesday morning that the young man called in an automobile. When her grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Devitt, questioned the wisdom of the girl's going, Edna assured here that it was all right; that she had met the man a few days before; that he lived near by in Jefferson Avenue, and that it was his own car. And then she tripped down the steps and was gone.

But her aunt, Mrs. James Devitt, had seen the car, and when the girl did not return and a fruitless search was made among her friends, the description of a gray touring car was furnished the police. Yesterday morning they found such a car in the Travelers' Garage, at 1,108 Throop Avenue, Brooklyn. It was the property of Solomon Siegel of that address, and he said that last Tuesday it had been taken out by a canvasser in his employ named Jack Christmas.

According to the story they learned at the garage, the car was not returned that night, but was seen next day in Coney Island by Edward C. Shinnock, whose father owns the garage. Shinnock reported that he had seen Christmas driving it along Surf Avenue, with several girls in the rear seat, and that when he shouted to stop, Christmas put on speed and started for Sea Gate. Shinnock found it later in the Indiana Garage, far down the street, and brought it home, where it was found yesterday by the police.

Feeling pretty sure that they had the right car, the detectives climbed in with Mr. Siegel and another man and drove around to the Devitt home in Greene Avenue. The girl's aunt was standing on the steps making the identification, when a girl walking down the street stopped short, looked at the car, and then ran toward it, moaning, as though to herself:

"That's the car. There it is. Oh, why didn't I kill myself?"

Before the police could comprehend that this was the missing girl, the grandmother was down the steps and had the girl in her arms.

When Edna left home she took no bag with her, and when she returned yesterday she wore a peculiarly dotted shirtwaist, by which the police hope to trace her wanderings during the week. They went in search of Christmas, anxious to question him, but, beyond learning that he had dropped into the garage on Saturday evening to pack up his belongings and depart again, they could find nothing of him. They were informed that he lived somewhere in Jefferson Avenue, and that he had a wife and child in Asbury Park.

THE TIMES'S DAILY WIRELESS AND CABLE DISPATCHES

SAYS HE HAS FOUND CANCER MICROBE

Dr. Odin of Paris Also Believes He Has Obtained a Vaccine Which Will Act as a Cure.

HAS BEEN WORKING 10 YEARS

Describes the Cancer Parasite and Talks of a Preventive—Doctors Here Skeptical.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Dr. Gaston Odin of this city makes the announcement that he has discovered the microbe of cancer and has succeeded in isolating and cultivating it. He hopes before long to supply tubes containing a vaccine which will cure cancer or act as a preventive.

In an interview with THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-day Dr. Odin said his researches dated back ten years. Only six months ago were they crowned with success. He added that Prof. Matruchot, who occupies the Chair of Botany at the Sorbonne, had verified his discovery and asserted its genuineness, and that Prof. Lannois of the School of Medicine had pronounced it important.

"I succeeded," said Dr. Odin, "in cultivating the microbe in conformity with the most rigorous Pasteur methods, and I have in my tubes of cultures formal proof of my claim. The cancer microbe is a parasite blood amoeba, that is to say, a protoplasmic mass, an inferior living organism, which transforms, develops, and reproduces itself. The variety of its forms surpasses imagination. The cancer amoeba is flat and gelatinous in composition, with irregular torn edges surrounding a central kernel—that is, when it is in a static or primitive form. When, in consequence of the modification of its environment, the amoeba is able to develop, it spreads shoots forth in all directions."

Questioned as to the consequences of his discovery, Dr. Odin said he hoped that his vaccine would enable him to do for cancer what Dr. Roux did for diphtheria and Jenner for smallpox. "Whether or not I have discovered a means to prevent or cure cancer," he remarked, "it is already established that by the aid of my discovery we can tell with certainty whether an individual is cancerous or not. An examination of his blood will reveal the fact. The active element already at my disposal enables me to kill the cancer microbes when the disease is not too far advanced, and a culture of cancer microbes which I obtained a few days ago results in the attenuation of cancerous lesions."

Dr. Odin closed his statement with the assertion that his vaccine might be applied with beneficial results in cases of smoker's cancer.

A physician of the New York Skin and Cancer Hospital, to whom the foregoing dispatch was shown last night, said:

"The importance of this announcement for physicians in the United States will depend on the medium through which it was made. If it was made to a reputable medical society, and properly authenticated, it is in a position to be investigated by the medical fraternity. Its merits may then be determined by investigation and debate. But if it was made simply through a newspaper in Paris, its value is problematical.

"Announcements of cancer cures, cancer vaccines and cultures, and the isolation of the cancer microbe have been very frequent recently. Any number of physicians in Europe have made assertions that they have isolated the cancer microbe and made cultures of it. One of the points of uniformity among these various announcements is that the cancer microbe is a low form, a protoplasmic degenerate, or an undeveloped form of cell life, and that it may exist harmlessly, in a static state, or in an active and reproductive and expanding state, creating pathological conditions in the body where it lives.

"That cultures of the germ may be used for diagnosis is interesting if true, and has an analogy in a similar form of diagnosis now generally in use for another group of maladies."

The names of the French physicians mentioned in the dispatch, he added, were not known to him.

AIRMAN FENWICK KILLED.

Machine of Well-Known English Aviator Suddenly Turns Turtle.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—R. C. Fenwick, one of the most experienced English airmen, while competing in War Office tests over Salisbury Plain this evening, fell with an aeroplane of his own design from a height of 200 feet and was killed. The machine suddenly turned turtle.

Mr. Fenwick, who was the sixteenth airman killed in England, had boasted that, with the exception of the engine, he had made his machine in his native village with the help of a carpenter.

Mr. Fenwick was the second aviator killed this month. The other who lost his life was Charles Lindsay Campbell, an Australian, who fell at Byfleet, England, on Aug. 3, while making a flight from Brooklands to the Byfleet aerodrome.

The number of airmen killed in each month of the present year is as follows: January, 3; February, 5; March, 6; April, 4; May, 11; June, 16; July, 15, and August, 2.

Last year 73 aviators were killed by falls in aeroplanes. This year 62 have been killed.

The death of Mr. Fenwick yesterday brings the list of those killed in aeroplane accidents since 1908, when aeroplane flying began on an extensive scale, up to 171, including four women.

CAIRO PLOTTERS SENTENCED.

Three Youths Who Planned to Kill Kitchener, Get Long Terms.

CAIRO, Aug. 13.—The trial of three youths who were arrested on July 2 for being concerned in a plot to assassinate Viscount Kitchener, the British Agent and Consul General in Egypt, took place to-day. All of them were found guilty.

One was sentenced to fifteen years hard labor, while the other two were sent to prison for fifteen years without hard labor.

It was stated in the course of the hearing that the reading of seditious literature had incited them to the conspiracy.

DISCREDIT COTTON 'CORNER.'

Big German Bankers Know Nothing of Alleged $200,000,000 Deal.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—German financial circles are much interested but take no stock in the report telegraphed from Macon, Ga., to the effect that George Wadley, President of the Southern States Cotton Corporation, is en route to Germany for the purpose of "financing the cotton crop to the extent of $200,000,000."

According to the report, German bankers have looked into the project and have expressed their readiness to carry it out. The basic condition is said to be a "field price of 15 cents for cotton."

Nothing is known of this colossal scheme in competent financial quarters. Neither the Deutsche Bank nor the German National Bank of Bremen, which has close affiliations with the cotton trade, has heard anything of a deal of such magnitude, which is described as fantastic. In their present state German finances, though fairly satisfactory, are in no respect in a condition to bear so enormous a burden. Some commentators on the report, which was circulated by the official German Wolff Telegraph Agency, declare it a "fake" sent out for speculative purposes.

ALLAN SUTRO GOES TO JAIL.

Ex-Lieutenant in British Army Broke Police Station Window.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Ex-Lieut. Allan Sutro, who achieved notoriety some time ago by his attacks on the British Army system, appeared at the Bow Street Police Court to-day charged with throwing a stone at a police station window.

Sutro made a rambling statement about the "moral convictions" which got hold of him while he was in the army and which had been the cause of his "material ruin."

The Magistrate said: "You are not justified in breaking a window in order to air a grievance," and sentenced Sutro to pay a fine of 10s. ($2.50) or to twenty-one days' imprisonment.

"I will take the twenty-one days," said the prisoner.

"His project for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways still rankles somewhat."

SIX KILLED BY FIREWORKS.

Auburn Marshal Says Prohibited Explosives Were Used.

AUBURN, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Six are dead as a result of explosion of fireworks, which were being prepared in the Italian colony this morning for a celebration of the feast of the Assumption by the Congregation of the Church of St. Francis di Assisi.

The dead are Cosimo D. Carmelengo of Fairview, N. J., manufacturer of the fireworks, and Mrs. Mary Cheche and three children—Emma, 11; Armando, 9, and Carmela, 7, and an unidentified man about 60 years of age. Carmelengo, the manufacturer of the fireworks, was regarded as an expert and had supervised displays here in the past.

Fire Marshal Coneybear is positive that prohibited explosives were used. He found a bomb in the ruins.

Twin Sisters Insane at Same Time.

Both became insane at the same time. The two were examined as to their sanity at the same time, and ordered taken to the asylum together.

Stabs Wife, Thinking Her a Thief.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Aug. 13.—Thinking his wife a burglar, Harvey Troyer stabbed her in the back early to-day, and she probably will die. According to their statements, they were awakened by a noise as if there were an intruder in the darkened room. Both arose, and the husband, armed with a butcher's knife, stabbed the wife when they ran against each other.

ITALIANS' ACCUSER HELD FOR HOMICIDE

Lieut. Montagu, Formerly of the British Army, Kills English Merchant in Constantinople.

HIS SANITY IS QUESTIONED

He Declares the Affair Was an Accident—Made Sensation by Stories of Atrocities in Tripoli.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 13.—Great mystery surrounds the killing of a Manchester merchant named Dayan in a hotel here on Sunday night by Lieut. Herbert G. Montagu, formerly of the British Army.

Residents of the hotel heard the report of a shot and saw Montagu run into the street partly dressed. He was at once arrested and taken back to the hotel, where Dayan's body was found lying in one of the rooms.

Montagu declares that the affair was an accident, and has asked to be tried by a Turkish court. The British Consul is investigating the matter and making an inquiry into Montagu's sanity.

The prisoner was dismissed from the British Army for joining the Turks in Tripoli, where he acted as a war correspondent without obtaining leave from the British War Office.

It was largely owing to the statements of Lieut. Montagu, formerly of the Fifth Fusiliers, that the reports of atrocities on the part of the Italians in Tripoli obtained wide currency nine months ago. Montagu was in Tripoli when the Italian-Turkish war began. He joined the Turkish forces and volunteered his services as a war correspondent to a London paper. His dispatches described atrocious acts of barbarity, including the indiscriminate slaughter of Arab women and children, by the Italian soldiers, following the treachery of the Arabs in firing at the Italians from the rear after professing friendship for them.

A great sensation was created by Montagu's charges. The British Army authorities, however, were less sympathetic than the public, and he lost his commission as a result of his action in joining the Turks and taking a position as a newspaper correspondent without obtaining leave. One of his telegrams, sent on Nov. 2, 1911, read:

"I feel it my duty to send to you the following telegram, and I beg you in the name of Christianity to publish it throughout England. I am an English officer, now voluntarily serving in the Turkish Army here. As you know already about the ferocious resistance which the Turks and Arabs are offering the Italians, I can only express my admiration for their bravery and fortitude, which would warm the heart of any Englishman or of any true soldier in the world.

"Imagine my feelings when, on entering and driving the Italians out of Arab houses which they had fortified and were holding, we discovered the bodies of some 120 women and children with their hands and feet bound, mutilated, pierced, and torn. Later on at (the name of the town was lost in transmission) we found a mosque filled with bodies of women and children, mutilated almost beyond recognition. I could not count them, but there must have been 300 or 400.

"In this European war are such crimes to be committed? Cannot England do something to stop such horrors? Even now we are getting news of further massacres of women and children who were discovered on different farms lately occupied by Italians. The idea of the Italians when they slaughtered the innocents obviously was one of revenge for their heavy losses in battle."

OBJECT TO DR. MORRISON.

Native Officials in Peking Say People Won't Tolerate Appointment.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 14.—The Chinese advisers of the Peking Government and the chiefs of the Presidential Secretariat have protested collectively against the appointment of Dr. George E. Morrison as political adviser of the Chinese Government, according to the Peking correspondent of The Daily Telegraph.

The officials argue that the country would not tolerate the intrusting to an alien of the political affairs of the nation.

TO SUE STEAMSHIP LINES.

Port Health Charges, Unpaid, Are Turned Over to Attorney General.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Dr. Joseph J. O'Connell, Health Officer of the Port of New York, has reported to Gov. Dix that he has placed in the hands of the Attorney General for collection claims against various steamship companies aggregating $6,359.

In Dr. O'Connell's letter to the Governor he says tht when he was appointed to succeed Dr. Alvah H. Doty, who was removed as the result of an investigation, he was instructed by the Governor to collect as promptly as possible the accounts which that investigation showed were due to the State for fees from steamship companies. He says that the confused condition of the department's books made this a matter of some difficulty. When he assumed office the total of the claims was $13,171.45. He has collected $6,562.45 and canceled $250. The balance uncollected he has turned over to the Attorney General to be collected, as the companies refuse to pay.

GEN. BOOTH IS WORSE.

Aged Head of the Salvation Army Asks Prayers for Himself.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The doctor attending Gen. Booth of the Salvation Army reports that the improvement in the General's health has not been maintained. Nervous symptoms have developed, due, doubtless, to persistent insomnia.

The vital functions are otherwise unimpaired, but the general condition of the patient, it is stated, causes a certain amount of anxiety.

Gen. Booth is now quite blind.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Bramwell Booth, chief of staff of the Salvation Army, and a son of the aged Salvationist leader, prints the following announcement in The War Cry, the Salvation Army organ:

"I deeply regret to say that our beloved General is not well. His doctor reports, 'I regret that the improvement in the General's health has not been maintained.'

"The General's heart is not strained, and if only his sleep were restored he would quickly regain much that is now in danger of being lost. The General, speaking of his own weakness and pain last Saturday, said: 'Ask the people who love me to pray for me.'"

LIPTON LIKED AIR TRIP

But Still Holds That There's No Sport Approaching Yachting.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Sir Thomas Lipton was one of the passengers whom Claude Grahame-White carried in his aeroplane at Cowes. In response to a request from THE NEW YORK TIMES, he telegraphs from the steam yacht Erin at Ryde, Isle of Wight, as follows:

"Flying to me was most enjoyable. Looking at the aeroplane from the ground was to me more terrifying than when I was actually flying, although when I was up there was a good breeze blowing. I consider that with such a good pilot as Mr. Grahame-White it is a perfectly safe sport, and I am looking forward to my next flight with pleasure.

"You ask me how it compares with the sport of yachting. During the racing season yachting is a sport that is always enjoyable, but aeroplaning as a sport is no use except under favorable conditions.

"Although I firmly believe the day will come when passengers will book from London to New York by aeroplane, and that is also the opinion of Mr. Grahame-White, for health's sake and exciting sport there is nothing in the world to approach yachting."

FIRST GERMAN MOTOR SHIP.

The Monte Pedro's Builders Congratulated by the Kaiser.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—The motor ship Monte Pedro, one of the two vessels ordered by the Hamburg-South American Steamship Company from the Howalt Yards at Kiel, in her trials last Saturday attained a speed of twelve knots.

This is the first German motor ship, and the Kaiser telegraphed his congratulations to the Howaldt firm.

The freight capacity of the Monte Pedro is about 6,500 tons. In comparison with a steamer of the same size, the gain in storage accommodation is stated to be between 800 and 1,000 cubic meters. She requires a personnel of ten men fewer than a steamer, representing an economy of about $250 a month.

The ship is fitted with Diesel motors.

THOUSANDS NOW IN JAIL IN PORTUGAL

Convents and Monasteries Are Turned Into Prisons for the Royalists.

ANOTHER INVASION PLANNED

More Plots Discovered—Brazil Reported to Have Offered Asylum to Refugees Now in Spain.

LISBON, Aug. 13, (Via the Frontier.)—The authorities continue to discover fresh Monarchist plots against the Government.

Thousands of persons have been arrested, and the convents and monasteries have been converted into prisons.

It is stated that Brazil has made an offer to the Spanish Government to provide an asylum for the Royalist refugees now in Spain, and that the Portuguese Monarchists consequently will make Rio Janeiro their headquarters.

The Royalists are reported to be planning another attempt to enter Portugal by sea.

A TITANIC WIDOW SUES.

White Star Line Denies Contract of Service with Ship's Barber.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Klein, widow of the Titanic's barber, has brought an action in a Southampton court against the White Star Line for compensation for the loss of her husband.

The company has paid $750 into court, but contends that there was no contract of service with it, and that Klein merely signed the ship's articles to satisfy the Board of Trade requirement.

ENGLISH BISHOP DISGUSTED.

Will Resign if Money for Work in South America Is Not Subscribed.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Bishop Blair of the Falkland Islands, which is the largest diocese in the world, embracing the major portion of the Continent of South America, who attempted to raise $500,000 for church work in those countries, has succeeded in getting only $30,750. He announces that he will resign unless there is an adequate response before September.

The Bishop says he has made thousands of appeals to members of the Church of England having South American interests, by letters, and also personally.

"The opportunity for religious, educational, and medical work," the Bishop declares, "will be greatly intensified by the opening of the Panama Canal, and the only method of preventing conditions like the atrocities perpetrated against the Indians in the Putumayo rubber gathering district of Peru is by church organization.

"I refuse absolutely to acquiesce in a deplorable system which assigns a man to a magnificent field, and there leaves him impotent for the want of men and means. Bitterly and deeply though I shall feel it, both on principle and as a protest against such apathy on the part of the church and the people, I must resign my bishopric."

The Bishop says that such a course would not be in order to lead a life of ease at home, as it would leave him stranded without means.

The Bishop of the Falkland Islands is the Right Rev. Lawrence Frederick Devaines Blair. His commission gives him jurisdiction over all the English Episcopal clergy and congregations throughout Chile, Bolivia, Peru, Ecuador, Colombia, the Falkland Islands, South Georgia Island, Terra del Fuego, and Southern Patagonia.

FIND BANDIT'S $10,000.

Hidden in House Where He Slept After Robbing Missouri Bank in 1868

LIBERTY, Mo., Aug. 13.—Ten thousand dollars in gold believed to have been hidden by William Anderson, a bandit who terrorized Central Missouri immediately after the civil war, has been found in the old Manor House on the plantation of William Burch in Howard County, Mo., now the property of C. F. Yancey of Liberty. Employes of Mr. Yancey are remodeling the old house.

According to those familiar with the story of the death of Anderson in 1868, he was wounded after robbing a Central Missouri bank and stopped that night in the manor house of the Buch plantation, dying several days later. It was in the room in which the bandit slept that the mgoney was found.

ELENA LEADS FLEET IN FINAL DAY'S RUN

New York Yacht Club's Cruise Ends with 37-Mile Race Under Clear Skies.

CONTEST FOR ASTOR CUPS

Sloops and Schooners in Annual Event—Winsome Captures Prize for Sloops.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 13.—The last squadron run of the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club was made to-day from Vineyard Haven to this port, and as a result of the contests in the various classes for the four Vice Commodore Cups, Elena, Princess, Winsome, and Dorello II. won. It was a perfect day for the power section of the fleet, but the sailors had their work cut out for them as they slipped back and forth across the slanting decks as their charges hitched and tacked again and again with the most windward work the yachts have been called on this far in the cruise.

Elena came into her own again to-day after another encounter with her old rival Irolita, but nothing like the closeness of Morday's race happened to-day, for the Plant schooner had plenty to spare at the finish.

The Princess showed a protest flag as she finished. The explanation brought forth this condition. Elena was on the starboard tack near the middle ground. Princess was to windawrd of her and Muriel to windward of Princess; Elena's skipper called for room and Princess called on Muriel for room and tacked. Muriel failed to give way and Princess almost fouled her headstay, just missing the end of Muriel's boom, so that the Lloyd boat was left under Muriel's lee and blanketed.

While the run down from Vineyard Haven to Newport is only thirty-seven miles, the yachts to-day did easily fifty miles, calculating the many tacks they made, and this through mostly a choppy sea nearly all the way. Some of yesterday's fog was still hanging around the harbor at Vineyard during the very early morning hours, but when the first signal went up on the flagship it was perfectly clear, though outside there was still lots of it, but it was very thin and scattering all the time. A fine southerly breeze was blowing when the yachts made for the starting line for the closing day of the cruise and for fully half an hour they hovered about, darting back and forth, carrying the better portion of their canvas and making a pretty picture for the Summer residents of the neighborhood, who were out in boats of various types to see the white fliers make their annual start from the Vineyard.

As on the previous runs, the little fellows of the thirty-foot class were sent away first at 10:15 o'clock, all on the port tack, and with just enough wind to keep their rails slicing the surface of the water. The victorious Rowdy flashed across, and for a brief period was the leader of the fleet. Phryne, which was following, naturally thinking that Rowdy knew her business piled after her. Next was Windward, and then Alva, followed by Carlita, Juarita, Banzai, and Joyant.

As the latter racers were going over the recall was hoisted on the Committee and Rowdy's and Phryne's numbers megaphoned again and again. The two rivals kept merrily on, however, apparently oblivious of the fact that anything was wrong, and they never knew until after they had berthed here that their day's work had gone for naught. After the "thirties" started the sloops in K, L and M classes got away with Winsome in the van and Shimna close up. Medora was next in order, then the yawl Phantom, Hermes, Aurora, Istalena, Adventuress, and Avenger. Istalena was first to seek a windward position, while the rest were on the port tack as they had gone over the line. Phantom followed Istalena's example, as did most of the sloops in a short time.

Aurora, Adventuress, Winsome, and Dorello kept right on the port tack on a reach toward Woods Hole, and as they approached Job's Neck they indulged in a series of short tacks with the idea of getting positions for the rounding of the Vineyard Sound Lightship. Schooners of the F and D classes were next over the line with the catboat Miladi well to windward and to the fore. Taormina went bowling after Miladi across the line with Muriel, the Vanderbilt boat Vagrant, Princess, and Iris following in order.

The big boats of the fleet, the Class A schooners, were almost on the line when they received the signal to go. Elena got over first with very little on Irolita, which was just to leeward of her and in the same position to the wind, but astern of Endymion. Sea Fox lost several minutes breaking away too early, so she had to go back and start over.

Far down to the southward Winsome, Aurora, Dorello, and Istalena were well bunched, then Winsome drew away. At noon Winsome was off Robinson's Hole, with a good big lead over Aurora. Both were well over toward the north shore.

Istalena was keeping the centre, in the best position for the final rush to Brenton Reef Lightship; Dorello, second, was close astern of Istalena. The first vital mark of the course, Vineyard Sound Light vessel, was reached by Winsome, 1:21:45. Elena went around at 1:28:20, Aurora was timed at 1:30:50, Istalena 1:32:55, Irolita 1:3[illegible]:24, Shimna 1:38:10, Dorello 1:41:41, Medora 1:44:00, Avenger 1:46:30, Adventuress 1:49:05, Princess 1:51:11, and Muriel 1:51:50.

The next seventeen miles was close reaching and little change was made in the order. Winsome maintained her position as leader in her class, Elena drew further away from Irolita, and Shimna kept her position. Dorello held her lead to the finish. She had outsailed Medora in the last part of the windward leg by getting a better wind and favoring slant. Summary:

HELD AS BANK SWINDLERS.

Three Men Under Arrest In Newark Thought to Have Operated Widely.

Three man are being held in the Newark Police Headquarters on a suspicion that they are members of a gang who have been swindling banks all over the country. The men were docketed as Jacob Luban, 33 years old, of 351 Forty-sixth Street, Brooklyn; Morris Luban, 30 years old, of 902 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, and Samuel Friedman, 26 years old, of 56 Second Avenue, New York. According to the police Jacob Luban and Friedman talked with Meyer Leibowitz of 254 Springfield Avenue, Newark, about starting in business in that neighborhood, and got Leibowitz to introduce them to the officials of the near-by American National Bank, where Friedman at once deposited a check for $116.25 drawn on the National City Bank of New York. A few days later Friedman drew $85 from the bank, at the same time depositing another check drawn on a Pittsburgh bank for $75.

Detective M. H. Mayer of a private detective agency, who was chiefly instrumental in rounding up the three men, says that the $116.25 check was stolen from a letter box in New York. He says the men have prison records for swindling.

ROBIN STARTS SUIT FROM TOMBS CELL

Attempting Now to Throw Fidelity Development Company Into Bankruptcy.

SOME MIXED-UP LAND DEALS

Convicted Bank Wrecker Under Suspended Sentence Busy Overhauling His Old Promotions.

Joseph G. Robin started bankruptcy proceedings yesterday against the Fidelity Development Company. He initiated them from the Tombs, which has been his home since March 1, 1911, when he pleaded guilty to grand larceny, on one of the indictments found against him after the collapse of a chain of banks and trust companies under his control.

The Fidelity Development Company was one of the corporations founded by Robin in a vast scheme of operations which embraced traction and real estate, as well as banking, ventures. Yesterday's proceedings follow a number of other actions by Robin undertaken from his Tombs cell and an office in the suite of District Attorney Whitman in the Criminal Court Building, which has been at his disposal during the period sentence upon him has been postponed at the request of the District Attorney.

Robin's petition alleges the company owes him $76,428 on notes. John L. Gerety of Brooklyn, who claims $2,979 for services, and the Chambers Printing Company with a bill for $32, join Robin in the bankruptcy petition. Robin charges that the company has liabilities of $500,000 and only $25,000 assets. It has an office at 25 Broad Street.

Robin's figures are at variance with those contained in an adjudication of the company's affairs on March 3, 1911, by Supreme Court Justice Guy, who approved steps taken to conserve its assets by Supt. of Banks Orion H. Cheney. Supt. Cheney was interested in saving the company's property, because a large amount of its stock was owned by the Northern Bank, a Robin concern, which was in his hands at that time.

The company's property at that time consisted of 325 acres, 251 of which were unimproved, in the Morris Park section of the Bronx, and thirty-one acres in Westchester Heights East. Of the Morris Park lots, 150 acres, appraised at $2,100,000 by Joseph P. Day, were turned over to the Morris Park Estates Company. There was a mortgage of slightly more than this amount, $2,218,480, against the whole Morris Park property, held by the Van Nest Land and Improvement Company, and a mortgage of $95,000 against the Westchester Heights East property. An arrangement by which the mortgages were to be paid off in small amounts was approved by Justice Guy.

Robin alleges that some of the transfers made by the company, which was capitalized at $4,150,000, were preferential. These transfers he charges were made in the past four months, and amount to more than $1,000,000.

The proceedings of yesterday recalled the charges which Robin made on May 20 in the Appellate Division against Supt. Cheney, Anson G. Beard, Philip A. Rollins, James M. Gifford, Roswell S. Nichols, and other attorneys. Robin appeared in court to press this charge, and on May 31 Austen G. Fox, representing the accused attorneys, declared that it was a public scandal that Robin should be allowed to go freely about the city.

District Attorney Whitman on Dec. 1, 1911, admitted that he had allowed Robin to use a room in his offices, but declared that he was always under surveillance and returned to the Tombs at night. He said Robin's services to the District Attorney's office and his effort to conserve the assets of his bank and companies made the extension of office facilities desirable.

Robin has frequently appeared in the County Court House as a witness during the past six months. He has also been present at numerous hearings before United States Commissioner Alexander and before Stanley W. Dexter, referee in bankruptcy. In most of these hearings he has acted as his own attorney, showing much skill in examination and learning in the law.

Robin was arrested in December, 1910, after disappearing and going to a sanitarium at the time the Northern Bank was closed. His counsel, former District Attorney Jerome, arranged to have him plead insanity. Robin refused to make this plea, and was pronounced sane by a jury on Feb. 28, 1911. Since then he has been active in the affairs of his various enterprises, all of which were involved in the failure of his banking ventures.

KILL NEGRO SEIZED IN COURT.

Georgia Mob Overpowers Officials After Man Receives Short Sentence.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Aug. 13.—Holding up officials in the Court House this afternoon, a mob of about forty men took T. Z. Cotton, alias T. Z. McElhenny, a sixteen-year-old negro, just sentenced, and lynched him just beyond the city limits. The negro was accused of killing Cedron Land, a white boy, near town two months ago.

The court guards were overpowered a few minutes after Cotton had been sentenced to three years in prison. A jury had just brought in a verdict of "guilty of unlawful manslaughter."

The Court House was packed during the trial to-day. As soon as court adjourned many of the officials left. When deputies started out with the prisoner on the way to the jail they were surrounded and disarmed and held in the Court House while a score or more of men took the prisoner out to a street car. On reaching the negro quarter of town the passengers were ordered off the car, which then proceeded a few hundred yards. Then the negro was taken off and his body filled with bullets. The body was left there.

Land, the white boy whom Cotton shot, was found in a field, his face riddled with birdshot. He had had trouble with the negro, who was soon arrested. It is said Cotton partially confessed.

The members of the mob were not masked, and many of them were recognized. An inquest was held to-night, and there will be an investigation of the lynching on Wednesday.

CONVICT BANCROFT ROBBER.

Jury Takes Only Six Minutes to Agree on a Verdict Against Yates.

The hold-up and robbery of the aged broker, Aaron Bancroft, at the Produce Exchange Building of $85,000 in securities more than a year ago had its culmination yesterday when Chester Yates was convicted of robbery in the first degree as a second offender before Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions. He is the fourth man to be convicted for participation in the robbery. He will be sentenced later in the month.

The prosecution was represented by Assistant District Attorney Buckner, who has just been appointed to act as counsel in the graft investigation to be conducted by the Board of Aldermen.

Charles Ross, a confederate, who was brought from Sing Sing Prison to testify, told the prosecution that he feared he would be killed if he testified. Yates, who went West after the robbery, was arrested at San Diego, Cal., early this Summer. The jury convicted him after only six minutes' deliberation.

HOUNDS TRAIL HIGHWAYMEN.

Three Men Held Up Southold Druggist and Took $60 and Jewelry.

SOUTHOLD, L. I., Aug. 13.—Sheriff Brush, Warden Furey, and a pack of bloodhounds are on the trail of three men who held up and robbed Millard W. Golden, a druggist, as he was crossing Jockey Creek Bridge, about a quarter of a mile from his home, last night.

Golden closed his store shortly before 11 o'clock and started home with about $60, the day's receipts, in his pocket. He was crossing the bridge in a lonely part of the road when three masked men appeared, and while one held him up at the point of a revolver the others searched him and departed with his money, watch, chain, diamond ring, and scarfpin. Half a dozen farmers responded to Golden's cries for help, and an unsuccessful search was made for the highwaymen. Warden Furey of the River Head Jail and the dogs reached the scene about noon to-day, and the dogs were put on the scent of the three robbers.

STOPS HEARING FOR DRINKS.

Referee Invites Everybody Out, Then Case Goes On.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Aug. 13.—Declaring an intermission in a hearing in bankruptcy here to-day, Referee Capt. James Parker of the United States District Court surprised his audience, consisting of the bankrupt, lawyers, reporters, and spectators to the number of about a dozen, with an invitation to come out and have a drink.

"If you want a drink, now's your time," said the Captain as he started for the door. The response was generous. In a few minutes the Captain and his guests reappeared, apparently much refreshed, and resumed business.

Capt. Parker is an old naval officer, having commanded gunboats in both the Mexican and civil wars. He was associated with Isidor Rayner, now United States Senator from Maryland, as counsel for Rear Admiral W. S. Schley when the latter was court-martialed in 1901.

Dr. Stewardson Leaves Hobart.

GENEVA, N. Y., Aug. 13.—President Langdon C. Stewardson of Hobart College has tendered his resignation, to take effect Sept. 30, it was announced to-day. President Stewardson resigns owing to the ill-health of his wife. He came here in 1903 from Lehigh. Dean William P. Durfee has been elected acting President until a successor to Dr. Stewardson is named by the Board of Trustees.

CROTON WATER FREE OF TYPHOID GERMS

Safest of All Waters for Drinking Purposes, as Shown by Recent Tests.

IS TREATED WITH CHLORINE

Daily Tests Made to Insure Freedom from Infection—Typhoid Increase Due to Other Sources.

That no water is safer for drinking purposes or more wholesome than Croton water is shown by the daily analysis made under the direction of Dr. D. D. Jackson, Director of Laboratories for the Water Supply Department. During the last five weeks the percentage of bacteria per cubic centimeter has varied between 27 and 55, showing that the condition is normal for the general presence of bacteria. On the other hand tests have been made for bacteria coli, or the infecting bacteria, in .1 cubic centimeter, 1 cubic centimeter and 10 cubic centimeters of water, with the result that there was found to be no presence of the infecting bacteria coli. The condition of the Croton water is otherwise shown to be very good.

The Croton water is being treated every day with chlorine as a precaution against typhoid infection, as was stated yesterday by Dr. Jackson, notwithstanding the fact that no unusual conditions exist along the watershed at the present time. He explained that .5 part of chlorine in a million parts of water infected with the typhoid germ was sufficient to purify the water.

"We are at the beginning of the usual Summer rise in the number of typhoid cases," said Dr. Jackson. "It is a fact that practically all the cities of the United States experience an increase in the typhoid rate just at this time of the year. Frequently the source of infection can be traced to the water supply, but there is really no reason why the water supply should not always be kept free of infectious germs."

With charts showing the typhoid rates in the various cities of the country, Dr. Jackson called attention to the fact that generally the Southern cities have been able to greatly reduce the prevalence of typhoid by passing ordinances, with the object of keeping the water and food supplies free of contamination. In each of the cities, however, the rate of typhoid cases is shown to have increased, beginning in October and ending in September and November.

The typhoid epidemic in Brooklyn, Queens, and elsewhere in Greater New York, will become more prevalent, according to Dr. Jackson, during the next few weeks. It is his belief, however, that the infection comes from the food or some other supply, and not from the water supply.

Tests were made under the direction of Dr. Jackson of the spring water said to have caused a typhoid epidemic among the employes in various Wall Street establishments, and the water used for drinking purposes, Dr. Jackson stated, was found to be absolutely free from typhoid infection. Nevertheless, he strongly favors the use of Croton water for drinking, inasmuch as the daily tests during the last five or six weeks, and even for longer periods, have shown that its quality is excellent.

During the last four weeks the temperature of Croton water has run between 71.50 degrees Fahrenheit and 69 degrees. The average turbidity has been 2 per cent., while the microscopic organism per cubic centimeter has averaged from 1105 to 1465, and the amorphous matter from 675 to 875. The percentage of chlorine has varied but little from 2.9, while the alkalinity fluctuated about 38 and 36, and the hardness also about 38 and 36.

WOMEN GET SEATS IN ALL PARTY COUNCILS

Republicans, Democrats, and Progressives Alike Seek Their Aid in the Campaign.

WORK FOR THEM TO DO

Col. Roosevelt Offers Important Places and Announces Himself "Flat-footed for Suffrage."

With the appointment yesterday of Miss Helen Boswell and Miss Mabel Boardman to responsible positions in the management of the Republican National campaign this Fall, the last of the three important political parties has recognized the value of women as vote getters. From now on the three parties—Republican, Democratic, and Progressive—will compete in efforts to interest the women to get out and work hard for their respective candidates, and from now on the women in authority at the various headquarters will have much to say regarding the campaign.

Miss Boswell is to have charge of the bureau for women's work at the headquarters of the Republican National Committee in the Times Building, and Miss Boardman is to be Advisory Chairman of the Campaign Committee of the Woman's National Republican Association. Miss Boswell is President of this association. Others connected with the Advisory Bureau will be Miss Mary C. Frances, Miss Mary Woods, Miss Margaret Roberts, Mrs. Krebbs of California, and Miss Florence King Sears of Seattle.

Miss Boardman is a sister-in-law of Senator Winthrop Murray Crane of Massachusetts, and is described as a woman of great ability and energy as a manager and organizer. She has long been identified with the International Red Cross Association, and she induced President Taft to become President of the American Red Cross Society, of which she was Secretary. She is said to have great influence with the President. In 1905 Miss Boardman went to the Philippines as a member of the Taft party, when Mr. Taft was Secretary of War. She is a leader in the Washington social set and has been actively connected with several important relief expeditions.

In recognition of her work at the time of the Messina earthquake the Italian Government decorated her with a production in gold of an ancient Roman civic crown.

Miss Boswell has been active in woman suffrage work. Recently she returned from a trip through the six States which have woman suffrage—California, Washington, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, and Wyoming. She also has done considerable work in the States where the question of the adoption of a constitutional amendment giving the suffrage to women will be voted on this Fall. These are Michigan, Kansas, Oregon, and Wisconsin. The Woman's Advisory Committee of the Republican organization will start vigorously at work at once, and women everywhere will be asked to take an active part in the Taft campaign.

The women already have been organized to help along the Wilson campaign. The Woman's National Wilson and Marshall Organization has been hard at work for the past week at its headquarters on the tenth floor of the Fifth Avenue Building. Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, the Chairman and founder of the organization, is at her desk there every day, and a corps of women workers are doing everything possible to convince voters all over the country that their interests will be best served by the election of the Democratic ticket. Among the women actively engaged there are Mrs. Archibald S. Alexander, Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander, Mrs. A. S. Burleson, Mrs. Josephus Daniels, Mrs. Joseph F. Davies, Mrs. J. B. Eustis, Mrs. Thomas P. Gore, and Mrs. Oswald G. Villard. Their slogan is "Win with Wilson" and "Cut the cost of living."

The Bull Moose Party has gone further than either of the other two parties in giving women the chance to do active campaign work. This party strongly urges the granting of woman suffrage, and women have been elected to the National and State Committees. Miss Elinor Carpenter and Miss Frances A. Kellor are in charge of the Bull Moose Campaign Bureau, and they have a corps of assistants. Just what the status of the women is to be in the Bull Moose Party was set forth in a telegram which Col. Roosevelt sent to Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, who seconded the Colonel's nomination. It was given out last night by Miss Kellor, and is as follows:

> Aug. 8, 1912.
>
> Dear Miss Addams: I wished to see you in person to thank you for seconding me. I do it now instead.
>
> I prized your action not only because of what you are and stand for, but because of what it symbolized for the new movement. In this great National Convention, starting the new party, women have thereby been shown to have their place in full precisely as men have, and on an absolute equality. It is idle now to argue whether women can play their part in politics because in this convention we saw the accomplished fact, and, moreover, the women who have actively participated in this work of launching the new party represent all that we are most proud to associate with American womanhood. My earnest hope is to see the Progressive Party movement in all its State and local divisions recognize this fact precisely as it has been recognized at the National Convention. Our party stands for social and industrial justice, and we have a right to expect that women and men will work within the party for the cause with the same high sincerity of purpose and with like efficiency. I therefore sincerely hope that in the campaign now opened we shall see women active members of the various State and county committees. Four women are to be put on the National Committee, and I trust there will be a full representation of them on every State and County Committee. While I am now addressing you I desire that this shall be taken as the expression of my personal hope and desire by all members of such State and County Committees, and I believe that I express the feeling of the great majority of Progressives in making this request. I have Judge Hotchkiss's assurance that it will be done in the State of New York, and I very much hope that it will be done in the other States. With great esteem, I am faithfully yours,
>
> THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

The Colonel forgot to say where he stands on the suffrage question, so he sent Miss Adams this additional telegram:

> Did I put into the telegram the flat-footed statement without qualification or equivocation that I am for woman suffrage, that the Progressive Party is for woman suffrage, and that I believe within half a dozen years we shall have no one in the United States against it?

The Housewives' League, described as "a National movement of federated housewives, with members in nearly every State in the Union," through its President, Mrs. Julian Heath of 6 West Ninety-first Street, has written to Mr. Wilson, Mr. Taft, and Mr. Roosevelt, asking them if they will endeavor to have the tariff removed from meat in the event of their election.

WILSON MEETS CLASSMATE.

Recognizes Him in Capitol and Learns All About Democratic Row in California.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Aug. 13.—While Gov. Woodrow Wilson was strolling through the corridors of the New Jersey State House at Trenton this afternoon he noticed a man waiting patiently on a bench. The Governor looked casually toward the man on the bench and the man looked back at him. Then a sudden flash of recognition passed between them.

"Why, hello, Lynd," called out the Governor, and "Hello, Woodrow," replied the visitor. The two had been classmates at Princeton University away back in 1879 and in the intervening years while one was working his way into the Presidency of his alma mater and to the head of his political party, the other was practicing law in the Golden West.

From his former classmate, whose full name is Lynd Helm and whose home is in Los Angeles, Cal., Gov. Wilson heard in a long and intimate interview all about politics beyond the Sierra Nevada Mountains and just what things would be necessary in order to turn the tide to Wilson.

Mr. Helm brought word that California might be Wilson's, but it would be absolutely necessary to iron out the large factional row now splitting the Democrats asunder throughout the north and south of California. This row is over Bryan. When the men from California who supported Clark at Baltimore returned to their home State they did not condemn Wilson because he won, but they did condemn Bryan because of what he said about Clark.

Many of these men were Missourians before they were Californians, and their feeling about Bryan was especially bitter on account of their intimate personal regard for the candidate from their former home.

"I did not come East especially to tell our troubles to Gov. Wilson," said Mr. Helm. "I came to attend a meeting of the American Bar Association, and was on my way back home. I happened to be in Philadelphia, and, hearing Gov. Wilson was in Trenton, I called over to see my former classmate. I found him, however, to be keenly interested in the California situation, although, of course, he will not take sides there, allowing the National Committee and the people to work out the problem.

Mr. Helm said he had been prevailed upon to remain over and go to New York to go over the California situation with Senator Gore's Committee on Organization. He said the Wilson men in California were not trying to oust the former Clark adherents from control of the organization, although there were many who felt that the original Wilson men should take command of the campaign. He intimated that many Republican votes might be expected for the Wilson column because the Roosevelt-Johnson forces had so arranged matters that there would probably be no opportunity for Republicans to vote for President Taft. They can vote only for Taft, he said, provided 11,500 people who did not vote in the primaries sign a petition asking that Taft's name go on the ballot. Mr. Helm said he had heard from hundreds of Taft men, who said they proposed to vote for Wilson.

How the vote will probably go, he said, was suggested in a straw vote taken on a train running from San Diego to Los Angeles. Of 378 voters 152 expressed a preference for Wilson, 149 for Roosevelt, and 77 for Taft.

Gov. Wilson started out this morning to have a quiet day, attending to State business in Trenton, but on the way over in an automobile a rear tire enlivened matters by blowing up. After that the hats of various members of the party blew off and there were long chases back after them. With Gov. Wilson in the automobile were his Secretary, Joseph Tumulty, and Joseph R. Wilson, his brother, who is city editor of a newspaper in Nashville, Tenn., and is spending his vacation at Sea Girt.

Senator Thornton of Louisiana called at the State House and he had a tired look when he mentioned Congress and Washington. His only political hope about which he cared to be quoted was that Congress would soon adjourn and let him go back home for a rest.

At noon Gov. Wilson drove to the Mercer Country Club, where he ate Southern fried chicken with Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The New York Evening Post, and Joseph Tumulty, his Secretary.

"Oh, we just had a talky-talky time," smiled Gov. Wilson after motoring back to the State House. "My good friend, Mr. Villard, and I hadn't had a chance to hold a good confab since the Baltimore Convention, so we 'talky-talked all over the field.'" The "talky-talk" phrase caught on with the State House crowd, and everybody was repeating it for the rest of the day.

Gov. Wilson added another speaking date to his already increasing string late in the afternoon when a telegram arrived from Pennsylvania asking him to attend an outing of farmers and Grangers to be held in a few weeks. He accepted.

Reports from the Campaign Committee Headquarters that Col. McCombs was still confined to his room caused Gov. Wilson much concern.

"McCombs has overworked himself," said Gov. Wilson. "I hope he will recover soon."

John Purroy Mitchel, President of the Board of Aldermen of New York, has an appointment with Gov. Wilson to-morrow. As Mr. Mitchel is a possible candidate for Governor, much interest is being felt in the political aspect of his visit.

Plans for Jersey Day at Sea Girt, next Saturday, received an impetus in popularity to-day when it was made known that the daughters of Gov. Wilson and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman and Mrs. Thomas P. Gore, the wife of Senator Gore, would head a reception committee for women visitors.

At least six brass bands will be on the grounds, and 10,000 visitors are expected to see the Governor.

DEMOCRATS SOLICIT DIMES.

Committees to be Named Everywhere to Gather Funds.

A plan to organize committees in every State in the Union for the purpose of collecting small subscriptions for the Wilson-Marshall campaign has just been worked out by the Finance Committee of the Democratic National Committee. Each committee will appoint sub-committees. The committee for New Jersey was made yesterday, when four leading business men of that State were named to round up subscriptions. They are Congressman Thomas J. Scully, M. A. Rice, William L. Saunders, and Joseph E. Bernstein. Their office will be in the Union Trust Company Building in Jersey City.

Small-sized subscriptions have begun to flow into the National Committee's headquarters in the Fifth Avenue Building. "The headquarters will look like a mint if this keeps up," smiled Vice Chairman William G. McAdoo, as he surveyed an enormous heap of nickels and dimes on the desks of Treasurer Wells and Henry Morgenthau, Chairman of the Finance Committee. Mr. McAdoo will be in charge of headquarters until William F. McCombs, the National Chairman, who is sick at his hotel with nervous indigestion, returns. It was said at the headquarters yesterday that Mr. McCombs was not seriously ill, and that he would be on his feet again within a few days.

Gov. Judson Harmon of Ohio telegraphed the National Committee from Charlevoix, Mich., where he is spending his vacation, that he expected to write on various topics and to make a number of speeches in support of Wilson and Marshall.

R. H. De Witt, Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of California, sent this message:

"All differences in the Democratic Party have been amicably adjusted in California. Everybody in harness and at work. California in Wilson column."

ROOSEVELT DEMANDS A SIZZLING CAMPAIGN

Colonel Wants Action, and Plenty of It, Put Into Fight at Once.

CONFERS WITH MANAGERS

Perkins at Oyster Bay with Big Box of Documents—Bull Moose Tangles Force Another Talk To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, Aug. 13.—The many problems which are facing the new party movement and plans for the coming campaign were gone over at length to-night at a conference at Sagamore Hill, attended by Col. Roosevelt and his managers, including Senator Dixon, George W. Perkins, Medill McCormick, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, and F. W. Bird, ex-Appraiser of the Port of New York. Mr. Bird is the new Chairman of the Roosevelt New York County Committee.

Col. Roosevelt wants action and plenty of it put into his fight without further delay, feeling that the few months which intervene before Election Day make a whirlwind campaign necessary if any success is to be won. It was midnight before the council of war came to an end.

The situation as it relates to the Democrats whom Mr. Roosevelt and his followers hope to win over and the tangles which have arisen in several of the States where leaders who are Roosevelt men want to hang on to the control of the Republican Party were taken up. The final advice of the Colonel in regard to the selection of men for places on the third tickets in some of the States was also sought and given. Mr. Roosevelt, it is said, was for a straight third party fight wherever he could make the final decision.

All those at the conference seemed to be in the highest spirits, but there was not any attempt to hide the fact that it was a serious council, and that the fight ahead was one which needed much careful study.

Perkins Brings Big Box.

Col. Roosevelt had Judge Lindsey and Mr. Bird as his guests at dinner, and Mr. Perkins, Judge Dixon, and Mr. McCormick, and O. K. Davis arrived at 9 o'clock. Mr. Perkins had a large box of campaign documents, which were carried into the conference room. They were often consulted in framing up the "war map" which the Roosevelt forces will use in their fight.

On one point Col. Roosevelt was very outspoken when seen by the newspaper men, and that was that he had promised political positions to no one in return for their support of the third party. He brought the subject up himself, referring to a story from Omaha that he had told Gov. Aldrich he would trade a Federal Judgeship for his support.

"That report is absolutely preposterous," declared the Colonel, shaking his clenched fist. "No one ever suggested such a thing to me, nor ever thought of it, as far as I know. I have not promised any political position to Aldrich or any other man, and have never even thought of doing so.

"I didn't even know that Aldrich was a lawyer. If you can make it any stronger than that, then please do."

Another story to the effect that Medill McCormick would support Gov. Deneen in Illinois and would not fight for the third party State candidates was laughed at when it reached Sagamore Hill. The presence of Mr. McCormick to-night was pointed to as pretty conclusive evidence as to where he stood in the fight. So were stories that there was a decided lull in the third party movement. On the other hand, the enthusiasm was gaining rapidly, it was asserted.

The details of the invasion of Vermont were worked out also, and the plan to "tear the State apart" indorsed. It is going to be the hardest fight that State ever saw, according to what has been outlined.

Mr. Roosevelt spent the entire day until dinner time taking a long walk and holding a picnic with members of his family.

When the conference at Sagamore Hill broke up Mr. Perkins and Senator Dixon started for New York in their automobile. They went through Oyster Bay, and when the reporters attempted to hold them up the chauffeur merely slowed down, but did not stop.

"Everything's fine," yelled Senator Dixon.

"Anything else?" some one shouted.

"Well, it was a formidable line-up."

"Anything else?"

"We'll all be back to-morrow."

It was later learned that no agreement had been reached on a number of important topics and that the Colonel had asked his visitors to come back this afternoon for another discussion.

TEXAS REPUBLICANS SPLIT.

Two State Conventions Held, Bull Moosers Keeping the Original Hall.

DALLAS, Aug. 13.—As a sequel to the split of the Republican Executive Committee yesterday two State Conventions were held here to-day. Roosevelt delegates met in the hall where it had been announced the State Convention would be held, and the Taft forces assembled in another hall.

The break started from the fight against Cecil Lyon yesterday on the ground that he and his followers had no right to participate in the Republican meeting because of their activities in behalf of Theodore Roosevelt. Lyon, who is Chairman of the State Committee, refused to yield.

It is probable that two State tickets will be named, with William H. Atwell as candidate for Governor on the Taft ticket and Edward C. Laseter as the Progressive leader.

REPUBLICANS REPORT TAFT'S CHANCES FINE

Campaign Opens with Promises of Success and a Statement from Barnes.

ADVISORY COUNCIL NAMED

Many of the Old Standpatters In It, and Barnes Is Chairman—Root One of the Members.

The National Republican campaign got started yesterday. Chairman Charles D. Hilles of the National Committee announced the appointment of the Advisory Committee that is to do the actual work of trying to re-elect President Taft, and then, accompanied by James B. Reynolds, secretary of the National Committee, went to Chicago to open headquarters there. By the end of the week the campaign will be in full blast throughout the country.

William Barnes, Jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, is Chairman of the Advisory Committee, and his associates will be United States Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, State Senator Austin Colgate of New Jersey, Thomas H. Devine of Colorado, Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Governor of Maryland; John Hays Hammond of Massachusetts, Joseph B. Kealing of Indiana, former United States District Attorney; Adolf Lewisohn of New York, United States Senator Henry F. Lippitt of Rhode Island, David W. Mulvane of Kansas, Col. Harry S. New of Indiana, Herbert Parsons of New York, former Congressman Samuel L. Powers of Massachusetts, United States Senator Elihu Root of New York, John Wanamaker of Pennsylvania, George R. Sheldon of New York, former Treasurer of the Republican National Committee; Otto F. Stifel of Missouri, and Fred W. Upham of Illinois, Assistant Treasurer of the National Committee in 1908. The Old Guard, or stand pat element, is strongly represented on the committee.

Mr. Hammond is President of the National League of Republican Clubs, and will remain permanently at the headquarters of the National Committee in the Times Building. He will have personal charge of club organization. Mr. Hammond had this to say of the work in hand:

"I have been in communication with the Presidents of the league's clubs in the different States and find that all of them, so far as heard from, are ready to start an aggressive campaign for President Taft. Even those who opposed Mr. Taft before the Chicago Convention have announced their intention to remain in the Republican Party and heartily support the President."

Barnes Reasons for Taft Votes.

Before Mr. Hilles left for the West there was a meeting of the Advisory Committee at which there was a general discussion of plans. It was then announced that the complete organization for the campaign having been perfected, work would immediately follow. Mr. Hilles said he was very much encouraged by the reports submitted by Gov. Dubois of Indiana and others, who told of growing sentiment for President Taft's re-election. Chairman Barnes made this statement:

There ought not to be a voter in the United States, unless he is so steeped with prejudice that he has not an open mind, who at this time would refuse to vote for William H. Taft for President. These are the reasons:

First—He is the only candidate in the field who can be relied upon to protect individual liberty, first enunciated in this world in the Declaration of Independence. For it the War of the Revolution was fought and won. It was then established in the organic law of the United States by the adoption of the Constitution.

Secondly—His public experience, his knowledge of the needs of the country, his clarity of purpose, are perfectly defined. Mr. Wilson is a candidate who has shown a capacity to accept varying winds of error as they come along. He stands upon a platform which was framed, presumably, upon consultation with him, because he was nominated before the platform was adopted, and his statement that "the platform is not a programme" simply discloses the attempt of the Democratic Party to elect a President through evasion.

Thirdly—The charge is made against President Taft that he is not enough of a politician to be President, and this, curiously enough, at a time when the proverbial attack upon politicians is at its height. The statement is entirely correct that Mr. Taft is not a politician, in the sense that a politician must deceive and lead the voter mentally astray.

Fourthly—The mental happiness and material welfare of the people are deeply involved in every Presidential election. These two concrete things are desirable: No nation is mentally happy if it is unbalanced; neither should the channels of trade be interfered with and material suffering ensue for the purpose of advancing the political fortunes of a candidate. If Mr. Taft is re-elected, the prosperity of the United States, now growing every hour, and the hope for the future, which was never more brilliant, will continue. If he is not elected, the prosperous conditions that are now impending will be halted through political uncertainty and the hope for the future will again be immolated on the altar of political aspiration. Business depression means half time or worse.

I have perfect confidence in the outcome of this campaign. That belief rests upon the intelligent desire of the people of this country to lead their lives in mental security and without financial distress, which, under the benignant care of President Taft will be assured. President Taft has withstood the test of abuse, slander, and a well organized and financial conspiracy. The voters themselves are now on trial. Each man, in justice to his own self and his citizenship, should reason with himself and not be controlled by prejudice or passion. He should vote for the protection of the individual liberty of each man in America as he would for his own liberty, and for what he believes to be for the mental and material welfare of all.

That spells Taft.

"Fighting Chance" in Maryland.

Gov. Goldsborough of Maryland told Chairman Hilles that the Republicans had a good fighting chance in that State, regardless of the fact that it is normally Democratic.

"It is difficult to make an accurate prediction in August of what may happen in November in a State like Maryland," said Gov. Goldsborough. "Maryland has a normal Democratic majority of from 10,000 to 20,000, but the people of Maryland are exceedingly conservative. They are not quick to let go their moorings and sail into new and uncharted waters. It is no exaggeration to say that there are 30,000 independent voters in the State. Many place the number much higher. It is my judgment that the conservative position of Mr. Taft will appeal to these voters in Maryland. The agriculturists of the State have been very prosperous during the last ten years, and it may be said that they are better off now than ever in their history.

"I believe that a large proportion of our industrial workers believe in a protective policy, as do a large proportion of the intelligent farmers of the State."

Mr. Stifel predicted that Mr. Taft would carry Missouri.

"The Republicans will not forget their many trials and vicissitudes for forty years in combating Democracy," said he. "They cherish their well-earned victory with Gov. Hadley as a standard bearer four years ago too highly to desert at this time."

Chairman Hilles is expected back from Chicago Friday. He expects to be able then to announce the name of the Treasurer of the National Committee.

PLANNING JERSEY FIGHT.

Fort Resigns from Roosevelt National Committee—Named State Body Chairman.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—A meeting of the Bull Moose State leaders was held here this afternoon to arrange the Progressives campaign in New Jersey. Ex-Gov. Fort, whose selection at Chicago as National Committeeman from this State caused considerable friction and threatened a split in the new party, resigned, and it is understood that Borden Whiting of Newark, who was elected a member of the Republican National Committee by the Roosevelt delegates from this State, and who subsequently announced that he would not serve because he was not in favor of President Taft's nomination, will be elected as the Progressive Party's representative from this State to the National Committee.

Mr. Fort's friends were appeased by his selection to-day as Chairman of the new party's State Committee.

Other officers selected were Frank B. Jess, Camden, Vice Chairman; Frank J. Higgins, Jersey City, Secretary, and Irving J. Taylor, Orange, Treasurer. Chairman Fort appointed the following members at large of the committee: Everitt Colby, Essex; Frank B. Jess, Camden; John E. Gill, Mercer; E. B. Bacon, Hudson; Harold J. Howland, Essex; George W. V. Moy, Union; Henry M. Bailey, Bergen, and Henry C. Whitehead, Passaic. The Chair was authorized to appoint an Executive Committee to conduct the campaign, and the members will be named later.

The plan of the State Committee is that the fight for Presidential electors, Congressmen, and members of the Legislature be made in the new party, but that local fight involving offices which do not carry principles may be conducted as the respective candidates wish.

BULL MOOSE STATE CALL.

To Name Straight Third Party Ticket in Every County.

Provisional State Chairman Hotchkiss of the Progressive Party issued yesterday the official call of the party to its County Chairmen, giving them instructions to call conventions to nominate a straight third party ticket in every county in the State. The Chairman also sent a personal letter to each County Chairman telling him to make a careful selection of the men they are to name as candidates on the Bull Moose ticket.

In anticipation of the granting of suffrage to women and in keeping with the terms of the new party's platform recognizing the rights of women, the Chairmen are urged to allow women who are willing to enroll in the party to participate in such primaries as may be held, and also to see to it that women are on all delegations to both State and local conventions. The Chairmen must also see that the delegations to the State and local conventions are made up of former members of both the old parties. These instructions, too, are added:

"No voter in the Progressive Party should enroll in any other party, or take part in any other party's primaries from now on. Any man who does is apt to lose his right to join in the petitions which we will later circulate, or, if he does so join, is liable to have his name stricken therefrom."

WOMEN GIVE TO THIRD PARTY.

Many Contributions Received at the Chicago Headquarters.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Leaders at the Chicago headquarters of the Progressive Party to-day declared that the support which was being given their cause by women was taking a decidedly substantial form. Scores of letters have been received in the last few days from women extending good wishes, and in nearly every case containing campaign contributions of $1 to $50. Miss Elizabeth Wroe of Chicago headed to-day's list with a fifty-dollar contribution.

The Progressive managers plan to place at least two women on their Finance Committee as a result of the unsolicited contributions already received.

Hail Johnson as 1916 Leader.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 13.—Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, Progressive Party nominee for the Vice Presidency, was proclaimed last night as the party's logical candidate for the Presidency four years from now. This prophecy was made by Chester H. Rowell of Fresno, a speaker at a mass meeting called to welcome Gov. Johnson home from the Progressive Convention.

48 Engineers Built this HUDSON as a Four-Cylinder Masterpiece

Howard E. Coffin and His Specialists Now Offer the HUDSON "37"

It is Here Now—Come, See It

These 48 Engineers—Gathered From Everywhere—Have Had a Hand in Designing Over 200,000 Cars of 97 Well-Known Makes

There are more high salaried, widely experienced automobile engineers on the HUDSON Engineering Board than in any similar organization in the world.

At the head of this body—now 48 in number—is Howard E. Coffin, America's leading designer and builder of six famous cars.

No one disputes his pre-eminent position as the leader of automobile engineering progress.

His associates have been gathered from nearly every important automobile engineering organization of the world.

There are men on this Board who were the chief engineers of leading concerns. Every automobile building nation has its representatives here.

There are representatives from Germany, France, England and Italy, as well as from America.

Combined they have had a hand in building more than 200,000 cars of 97 well-known makes.

They Are Specialists—Every One

No one man can ever hope to know as much about automobiles as these men, working in unison, know.

Each is stronger for being associated with so many other experts.

Each is a specialist. Each possesses a knowledge and an ability not possessed by his fellows.

In the same way that a base ball manager in building a strong team chooses specialists who excel at certain kinds of play—at pitching, catching, batting, and base running—so Howard E. Coffin, four years ago, set out to organize the strongest body of automobile engineers to be had.

The world was his field. If a man had shown that he could get more power out of a motor than any other man had been able to get, or if one proved he could simplify work others had more crudely begun, he was induced to join this organization.

Still, there are men here who know nothing about automobile chassis designing but who know everything about creating beautiful body lines. Some who know how to make comfortable seat cushions and backs with soft upholstering that will retain their easy qualities and not break down, were added to the organization.

Never before in any other car was so much thought given to these important items of comfort. It is a dominating characteristic of the New HUDSONS.

Worked Two Years

The result of two years' work—the master work of all these men—is shown in the New HUDSON cars.

As the experimental cars were completed, they were sent with a corps of experts and drivers who knew all road conditions, over every imaginable kind of road.

The cars were tried out last winter over roads practically impassable to other vehicles. Snow and mud and the worst weather did not interrupt these tests.

Officers of the company rode on these test trips. They demanded more emphatically than any owner can ever demand, that the quality of the New HUDSON cars should be thoroughly known to them.

The Allegheny mountains became our testing ground.

No road was too rough, too steep, too dangerous or too long for these cars to be driven over at maximum speed.

A driver—winner of many road races in America and abroad—who knows no fear—drove at top speed up rough mountain paths, through bottomless roads of mire and over every conceivable surface that a vehicle can be sent, to prove that the car has the stamina, the power and the comfort to do the work and do it with minimum fatigue to the passengers.

Consider the Stake

In reading the claims which are made for this car, consider how much is at stake on it.

The HUDSON Company has millions at stake. The future of the HUDSON will depend entirely on this car's performance.

Howard E. Coffin, now the leading American designer, has all his present prestige and future fame tied up to the car which represents his idea of perfection.

And 48 engineers in the front rank of this industry have all agreed that the HUDSON "37" represents their highest accomplishment. The future of all of them depends on this car's making good.

There was never a car on which so many men had so much at stake as the HUDSON Staff has on this. There was never a car of which so many big men said, "There is no part of this car which we know how to build better."

Consider these facts when you read the claims we make for this, the latest of the HUDSON cars.

Every HUDSON a Success

Such a body of experts render mistakes next to impossible. A dozen men check every move of each individual.

Your knowledge of American automobile history tells you that every HUDSON car of each model has been a brilliant success.

There is not the slightest question about that. The secret of such constantly increasing quality as has been shown each year in HUDSON automobiles is due to the fact that the best engineering brains in the world are used in their building.

We regard it as the most essential part of an organization. Forty-eight experts are bound to think faster, are bound to create more new features, are bound to build a more thoroughly proportioned car than any one man can ever hope to do.

No one man's personality, no one man's experience, can overshadow that of either of the other 47 except in the details which he knows better than the others know.

Such is the pedigree of the New HUDSON Cars. It is nothing short of a romance of engineering achievement. No other automobile ever so completely represented what many trained men could do. None other ever bore such unmistakable evidences of advancement and quality.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 14, 1912.

DEBS ON ROOSEVELT.

It was not to be expected that Eugene V. Debs would extend the right hand of fellowship to Theodore Roosevelt, and give him cordial welcome as a brother Socialist. Mr. Debs is a candidate himself, the candidate of the party that openly, frankly, and honestly calls itself Socialist. Naturally, he looks upon the Bull Moose as an interloper, and treats him as such in his letter to The Times this morning.

But upon matters of Socialist doctrine Mr. Debs is a qualified expert. He identifies as the property of the Socialists "the really progressive planks in the Progressive platform." These, he affirms, were taken bodily from the Socialist platform. Mr. Debs's point about the red flag is not well taken. The Roosevelt bandana is red, but it has quite another significance. The dispatches did say that during the cheering in the convention Mr. Roosevelt waved a red flag. Undoubtedly he thought it was a bandana.

Mr. Debs's letter has one quality of real and serious value. It is its insight. Socialist Debs sees far into the humbug of the "hybrid aggregation" that has appropriated many of the principles of Socialism and dedicated them to the service of the Bull Moose. He detects and points out the hypocrisy and false pretenses of the Progressive candidate. Pledges and promises he makes by the score, he casts anchors on both sides of the ship and throws tubs to all the whales. But these are the time-worn tricks of the vote hunter. His real principles are to be inferred from his administration of the office of President, when he granted indulgences to offenders against the laws who happened to be personal friends, and exempted from prosecution certain trusts from which support and service were to be expected. His campaign is made on money of the trusts. It is not without good reason that Mr. Debs says that the Colonel "has baited his platform like a trap to catch the votes of "the discontented people."

WHO COOKED THE PANAMA MESS?

President Taft has too many troubles of his own to have unloaded upon him the responsibility for the Panama proposals which the country has rejected so generally. It is now recalled that in his message last year he recommended equality of treatment of the ships of all nations regarding tolls, and added that subsidies might be voted to American ships out of the tolls collected from the ships of other nations. This is neither the entire action taken by Congress, nor the first appearance of the idea. There is no record of its birth in the form expressed by the President, although there can be no doubt that the interests concerned began their work almost as soon as the construction gangs at Panama. They knew from the beginning what they would do with the canal if they could, and left indecision to the Government.

The first public and official expression of the President's idea was in an address by the Secretary of War in Kansas City almost two years ago. In that form it attracted little attention, and there seemed no reason why it should not be made official. Accordingly the Secretary put the passage into his annual report, and thus it found its way into the President's mind, and later into his message just now revived as though the conception were his. In like mganner it has been claimed that even the anti-railway passages had his favor. This has been denied in testimony before committees of Congress, and the idea has no present basis, if it ever had any.

There is no official basis for the anti-railway sections of the Panama bill. They have scant relation to the canal in their extremest form, and need no explanation beyond the delusion of the politicians' mind that it is popular to strangle railway traffic. The strongest statement of the case for the discrimination in favor of the American marine is that originally made by Secretary Stimson. He argued that if the United States is debarred by its treaty obligations from thus favoring its merchantmen it is the only nation thus restricted from a practice which is common regarding Suez Canal traffic. But there are several distinctions. The Suez tolls are collected by a private corporation for use of a waterway which was not constructed with tax money. And the Suez Canal was not constructed, like the Panama Canal, under any pledge for equality of treatment in consideration of engagements by others.

If the United States should enact discrimination it would be an act by the same hand that constructed the canal under a pledge against it. The grievance is against the Government, the signer of the treaty, and not against any private trading corporation which has a free hand, and even so the Suez Canal management has not taken the action now pending at Washington. It is not contended that such discrimination as exists via Suez—and its extent has been challenged—is a good precedent, and it does not appear that the United States ought to follow a bad precedent. Particularly it ought not when there is an easy remedy against such discrimination against us as we are planning against the rest of the world. The sure and simple protection of equality lies in our power to make the rules which govern admission to the benefits of the canal. If we enact discrimination of course we provide discrimination by others. But if we make rules excluding traffic favored by discrimination the result would be equality, and the carriage of freight on a lower basis for all nations. The only effect of discrimination is to raise costs for all, and that is not desirable at a time when the cost of living is the enemy in every land.

THE RIGHT NOT TO STRIKE.

We have received from the Anti-Socialist Union of London a broadside containing the following statement:

> Of the 16,000,000 workers in this country [England] 2,500,000 are members of trade unions.
>
> The majority are loyal and law-abiding citizens, but Socialists have obtained control of the funds, and by bullying and tyranny dictated the policy of the unions.
>
> Thus organizations which might be of the greatest service to the workers and the cause of social reform are being utilized for the selfish ends of revolutionary visionaries.

This sentence follows:

> We uphold the right to strike, but equally the right not to strike.

The right to strike and the right not to strike are passing in this country, also, out of the hands of the unions and into the power of professional manipulators, who have succeeded the old-time union leaders. The anarchistic heads of the Industrial Workers of the World are of the new order. Their aim is not to better the condition of the workingmen, but to carry on a revolutionary propaganda.

MERCHANT MARINE FANTASIES.

It is a curious picture of the hopeless confusion in the minds of our politicians as to a merchant marine that is presented in the Panama Canal bill. Apart from the shocking proposal to violate the public faith, that bill gives a bounteous subsidy to the coastwise shipping interests, which already have a monopoly of an immense business, and then provides for the purchase of foreign vessels for international trade by Americans. The two policies are diametrically opposed to each other, and it is hard to imagine the reasoning that got the Senators to take both.

The purchase of foreign vessels by Americans, with the privilege of American register, is sound policy. It may do some good and it can do no harm. Even the coastwise shipbuilding interests would not be injured, since the ships would be confined to international traffic. It is the policy earnestly and concisely advocated by Gov. Wilson in his speech of acceptance. But we doubt that it would have the great effect he expects from it. We have laws as to equipment and management which will hardly be repealed, that make the operation of American-owned ships more costly than that of the foreign ships, especially those of Great Britain.

That, however, is not so serious a matter as it seems. An American merchant marine has great attractions for the American imagination, but its actual advantages would be found to be very much less than they are usually painted. What foreign commerce wants is cheap and plentiful means of transport. If we can get that through the despised tramp steamers on better terms than we can get it from American-owned vessels, commerce would do better to take it, and would take it. Gov. Wilson's utterances on the subject are eloquent and undoubtedly sincere, but they are tinged with the patriotic sentimentality that inheres in the subject.

Of course the Governor does not take the leap that most advocates of an American merchant marine do take, from the assumption that such a marine is necessary to the Nation to the assumption that subsidies will fetch it. Gov. Wilson would simply open the markets of the world to those of our people who wish to own ships and leave to native enterprise the use of such opportunities. That is absolutely the only way in which we can ever get American ships, and we can get them in that way if we really need them enough to make them profitable. Until we take that practical and businesslike course we shall continue to use such ships as are offered to us by foreigners for such commerce as our repressive and foolish laws permit us to have.

We note that The London Times, in the timely and moderate article quoted in our cable dispatches, is of the opinion that the passage of the Panama Canal bill would seriously injure British shipping and commerce. Certainly whatever injury is done by a departure from national good faith is a good ground for protest and for summoning our Government to arbitration. But it is the cause of the injury, not the amount of it, that would be important. We think The Times somewhat exaggerates the latter. It is doubtful if the remission of tolls would be a complete offset to the greater cost of operating vessels under American laws and conditions. The suggestion of our contemporary that British shipowners would not consent to give up their vessels to the United States Government if required is hardly pertinent. Under the terms of the bill vessels bought abroad would, in order to have the benefit of the remission of tolls, have to be owned entirely by Americans. There would be no British owners. The error of interpretation is not important, but in the discussion of this matter it is well that it should be kept free from anything that would look like misrepresentation. The case of our foreign friends would be strong if we are called to The Hague. It should not be weakened by claims that cannot be justified.

IS FLINN IN PERIL?

In Chapter 4 of the Compiled Statutes of the United States, concerning "Offenses Against the Operations of the Government," Section 39, this language is used:

> Whoever shall promise, offer, or give, or cause or procure to be promised, offered, or given, any money or other thing of value, or shall make or tender any contract, undertaking, obligation, gratuity, or security for the payment of money, or for the delivery or conveyance of anything of value, to any officer of the United States, or to any person acting for or on behalf of the United States in any official function, under or by authority of any department or office of the Government thereof, or to any officer or person acting for or on behalf of either house of Congress, or of any committee of either house, or both houses thereof, with intent to influence his decision or action on any question, matter, cause, or proceeding which may at any time be pending, or which may by law be brought before him in his official capacity, * * * shall be fined not more than three times the amount of money or value of the thing so offered, promised, given, made, or tendered, or caused or procured to be so offered, promised, given, made, or tendered, and imprisoned not more than three years.

This provision of the law is quoted here because it has a very direct bearing upon the case of Boss Flinn, if it be true, as the news stories allege, that he has served notice on the Republican members of Congress from Pennsylvania that they must do certain unlawful things in order that they may retain the continued confidence and support of the Bull Moose Party in that State. Boiled down, the "demands" of Flinn are that the candidates for Congress in his bailiwick shall pledge neutrality between Roosevelt and Taft, shall promise to support all Progressive measures in Congress, which being interpreted means that they shall not support anything that is favored by Senators Penrose and Oliver, and, third and last and most important of all, that they shall, in the event of the election for President being thrown into the House, "support "the Republican candidate obtaining "the greatest number of votes in his "district."

It is the duty of the members of Congress from Pennsylvania to establish the fact that Flinn has made any such "demands," and then to proceed against him on the criminal side of the Federal courts. If he has laid down any such course, he is liable to indictment and prosecution and the members of Congress and the prosecuting officers of the courts will be negligent of their duty if they do not make cause against him. Their duty is plain as the law is clear. It means both fine and imprisonment; fine in three times the amount involved in the case and imprisonment for the term of three years. This would mean, upon Flinn's conviction of trying to influence the election of Congressmen in the way noted, a fine of $45,000 for each Congressman, that being three times the salary of a Congressman for two years, and three years' imprisonment. If it can be proved that Flinn has made the "demands" with which he is charged, and that any of the Republican members of Congress have been influenced, or have promised to be influenced, in the manner he has stated, they as well as he would be liable to indictment, prosecution, and punishment as provided in the statutes as aforesaid. The Republican members ought to appeal to the courts for their protection.

THE FRENCH IN MOROCCO.

Mulai Hafid, Sultan of Morocco, has given up his title, and, by way of Mecca, is about to join the fluctuating colony of "Kings in exile" in Paris. He has had a brief and inglorious career. He began by overthrowing his brother as a traitor to the faith of his fathers, and a tool in the hands of foreign infidels, and he ended by surrendering to the French Protectorate. If he has managed to save enough from the public treasury and from French subsidies, he will make a picturesque figure wherever he resides. He is a man of unusual mental alertness, fairly educated, fond of European ways, a verse writer and an amateur of art. But his political influence is doubtless exhausted.

If an infant is chosen as his successor, which is probable, the task of the French will not be materially changed, and will remain excessively hard. The real authority of the last two Sultans has been slight. That of an infant under French control will not be important in the work of defense and pacification. In the latest debate in the French Chamber of Deputies it was stated by the Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs that the situation in Morocco was "grave" and admitted by the Premier that it was "serious." Gen. Lyautey, who has already some 48,000 troops at his disposal, has asked for 30,000 more, and his authority and experience are such that the request can hardly be denied. His theory is that it will be far cheaper in the long run to work with ample force than to risk a check. His first task will be the occupation of strategic points and the prevention of concentration among the hostile tribes; the second will be the gradual extension of order and the beginning of civil administration; then will follow the long and trying process of winning over or subduing the natives. Unless interrupted by disturbances in Europe, there is little doubt that the French will succeed in Morocco as they have in Algeria and in Tunis, but it is a matter of many years.

When he reached Charleston the other day with a cargo of coal Capt. Cochran of the schooner Charles Noble Simmons protested that his ship was "always reported with the Captain's name as Flynn," and that was a hoodoo he wished to have removed. There seems to be a good deal in a name, after all.

That Congress has fallen into a condition of legislative anarchy has become increasingly apparent during the last few weeks, but the final proof was furnished yesterday when a Senator from South Carolina insisted upon conferring by law upon the employés of the Post Office Department the right to strike against the Government.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Big Profits Derived from Poems. In the report—straight from Indianapolis and therefore at least possibly correct—that James Whitcomb Riley has just deposited in a bank there to the credit of his private secretary and as a wedding present to that fortunate servitor, a check for $50,000, there is startling confirmation of statements as to the earnings of poets made by one of them in an article printed by The Times last Sunday.

That article was itself sufficiently surprising to most of us, for, of all common assumptions, that as to the scanty earnings of poets and their lack of business ability has probably been considered the safest by the greatest number of people. Yet our contributor told us from his own experience and information that a well-trained and industrious versifier can make an income of from $3,000 to $10,000 a year, and that not a few of them do it. Not so very few, that is. Even the largest of these incomes, however, in these days when it costs so much to live, would hardly permit of accumulations large enough to inspire the giving away of $50,000 presents to a private secretary, no matter how faithful and efficient.

Of course, Mr. Riley is a poet of no ordinary talent. His well-earned popularity is so great that it doubtless gives him an exceptional earning power. But $50,000 is itself a whole lot of money to be in the hands of any man whose earnings come from his own exertions instead of from those of people who work under and for him, and to give it away implies the existence of accumulated capital at least five times as much, at the very lowest computation that can be called reasonable or even sane. Such generosity, indeed, would become only slightly plausible after a multiplication of $50,000 by twenty.

In considering this point one must remember, first, that Mr. Riley is a poet, and that therefore his mind does not work just as do the minds that are built along prosaic lines, and, second, the chance that the story of the gift, though from Indianapolis, may be either false or an exaggeration. "Paradise Lost," according to the legend, brought to its author, in addition to fame, only a five-pound note or the equivalent thereof in coin. "The Raggedy Man" or "Little Orphant Annie" must have commanded a higher reward—in money—and though it is necessary to admit their inferiority to "Paradise Lost," several of us are more likely to read them over again than once more to labor through that magnificent production.

Sorrowing for the Murderers. Almost as disquieting as the existence among our Italian immigrants of a criminal class particularly hard to control is the fact that when the members of this class come to deserved punishment at the hands of the law so many others who do not belong to it, instead of showing satisfaction, manifest something like mingled grief and resentment.

Really shocking illustration of this peculiarity was to be observed in Mulberry Street yesterday, where, in an undertaker's chapel, the bodies of the five men who were put to death on Monday for the murder of Mrs. Hall were lying in a sort of state and receiving an amount and kind of attention indicative that by hundreds and hundreds of the fellow-countrymen whom they had disgraced they were regarded as martyrs, worthy of honor and grief.

The suspicion with which the law and its representatives and executors are regarded by Italians of a certain grade, and their almost invariable refusal to assist its operations—these things have historic explanation in what the law had meant for the ancestors of these people. They are, therefore, more or less excusable. Excuses and explanations fail, however, in a case like this, for the crime committed was so particularly cowardly and atrocious that any trace of sympathy for its perpetrators is in itself little less than criminal. The public expression of such sympathy is nothing less than that, and the attempt making yesterday to raise money with which to give the dead murderers a great funeral, with four horses for each hearse, it would not be easy or safe fitly to characterise.

That the men died protesting their innocence is inconsequential. Their guilt was beyond question, and if they had friends while alive it was the duty of those friends to get them under ground as quickly and quietly as possible. Theirs is not a memory to honor or to perpetuate. They have paid the last penalty, and further denunciation of them would be useless, but surely it would have been the part of wisdom as of decency to place them at midnight with simplest rites in unmarked graves. To have done more tends to justify that use of the racial name in describing crimes against which protest is so often made by our Italian citizens.

Jewelers Make a Mistake. That one jewel rather than another should be regarded as mysteriously linked with one month rather than another, and that it should be held the "birthstone" of all babies born in that month, is superstition of the sort made interesting if not venerable by age. Of astrological origin, the "birthstone" idea has survived as a mere pretty fancy.

At least that was the supposition of most people, but it seems that the jewelers take the matter more seriously. It is not that they believe in the occult influences of jewels over anything except pocketbooks, but so many people buy "birthstones" for so many babies that the jewelers have deemed it worth while to revise the old list and to substitute for the cheap and ugly gems put there by the mystics of old others handsomer and more expensive.

That, now, is a wildly absurd proceeding, even from the standpoint of profits, for it attacks the superstition in its most vital element. The men who invented or evolved the "birthstone" gave reasons for the selections they made, and the reasons were at least appealing to simple minds. The gem protected the wearer or gave him luck. But a modern jeweler has no right or authority to do anything of the kind, and his one motive for the changes he has suggested has too obviously nothing to do with the stars in their courses or the sympathies of the elements. Even the most guileless will see that, and the chances are that not only the new "birthstones" will henceforth be scorned as such by everybody, but that the old ones will also fall into disfavor and disrepute.

THIS IS THE LYING AGE.

At Least Lurana Sheldon Finds Evidence of It in Politics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the evoluting of order from universal chaos there has been an age for pretty nearly everything that goes to form the curriculum of human education, and it has dawned upon the writer that the present might properly be called the lying age.

Thanks to the unaffected truthfulness of Theodore Roosevelt we have seen that innumerable falsifiers occupy the high places, and as the days go by and the lie is passed in every political session, from Senate to saloon, without arousing more than a smile, it strengthens the belief that prevarication is an accepted part of the order of the day, a necessary adjunct to it, if one is to hold one's own in the struggle for existence.

I would like to ask the reader to point out one statement of great public interest here of late that has not been contradicted, and by an authority claiming equal veracity. Where can truth be found? Is it in the pulpit, where, day after day, some preacher fails to disguise his true attitude toward the Bible and the Church? Is it in the newspaper whose policy is not to offend the great mass of readers? Is it in the shop where the whip of competition is flaying the proprietor? Is it in the home where love stalks like a ghost and the skeleton in the closet rattles its bones continually? Is it in the heart of the woman who marries for wealth or the mind of the man whose comfort and position are purchased with a woman's money?

Do ostracism, defeat, business failure, and poverty follow in the wake of absolute honesty to-day, thereby making it imperative to protect one's self by falsehood?

Idealism, sentiment, illusion aside, is there a trade, a vocation, a profession, where lying is not essential to success in at least some part of the undertaking? By success we mean the success of money—much money—the amount needed for procuring even modest comfort today. Must we understand that the people prefer untruth to truth, that they are not deceived by it, but have cultivated the condition by way of variety? P. T. Barnum said that we like to be "humbugged"; do we also like to be misled? And, in turn, is it a pleasing pastime to try and mislead others? Has civilization come to such extreme of methods that it requires deceit as a stimulus for further effort?

To read the daily papers, especially the political news, we should say it had, and an intimate acquaintance with society and business only increases the evidence.

The primitive man fought tooth and nail to accomplish his purpose; a little later he used gunpowder and steel. To-day, armed with civilization, he rolls the words "strategy," "diplomacy," "subterfuge," and "legislation" under his tongue, but the real weapon of the multitude appears to be the trick of avoiding the truth, and, apparently, because existence is thereby made easier. Among myriad sharks what chance for a minnow? So many honest men have asked this question after they were swallowed that it may be well to repeat it here. The outcome of the coming election may help to answer.

League Recreation Pier.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the interesting interview with Mrs. Nelson H. Henry printed in yesterday's issue of The Times there is an error which it would greatly oblige this organization if you would correct.

The Recreation Pier conducted by the league for the benefit of its industrial membership is situated at the foot of West Twenty-third Street, in the old Pennsylvania Railroad Ferryhouse, not at East Twenty-second Street, as stated in the article. The league must also disclaim the credit of putting the pier in repair and in proper condition for the work. All that was done by the Dock Department, which has shown a most generous and public-spirited attitude in helping the league to help others.

A Square Issue in Pennsylvania.

From The Philadelphia Inquirer.

Since the combined wisdom of Bill Flinn and Theodore Roosevelt has determined that there is to be a distinct Roosevelt ticket in Pennsylvania, under the title of the Washington Party, let the issue be a square one.

At the Billflinn convention Electors were named for the regular Republican ticket. These Electors will have their names printed—if they remain candidates—under the Republican heading, together with the words: "For Taft and Sherman." And yet it has been the boast of Billflinn that about thirty of the thirty-eight, if elected, would vote for Roosevelt.

Of course, every Roosevelt supporter among these Electors who is not lost to all sense of decency and common honesty will withdraw from the Taft ticket. We confidently expect all of them to do so. Let them go on the Billflinn-Roosevelt ticket, where they belong. The regular Republican ballot is entitled to bear the names of regular Republican Electors, not Electors of the third-term organization, now the bitter foe of the Republican Party.

When they do withdraw, the Billflinn State Committee will be put to a thorough test of its decency. Under Billflinn law, this committee has the right to fill vacancies on the regular Republican ticket.

If it is honest, this committee will permit the Taft Republicans to name a satisfactory Electoral ticket.

If it is not honest, it will seek to cheat the regular Republican voter by naming men who will, if chosen, betray the Republican Party.

And if it is not honest, the Republican State Convention will have to be reconvened in order that justice may prevail.

LEGIBLE SHORTHAND NOTES.

Gov. Wilson's, Though Abbreviated, Could Be Read by Other Writers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter of Rupert P. Sorelle anent your editorial article on the subject of "Gov. Wilson's Champion Typist" is of great interest to stenographers generally. The Times's comment, however, shows that it does not agree with Mr. Sorelle that shorthand is an exact science, if we may call it a science.

About the very first thing we learn when we go to shorthand school is that there is a separate, distinct, and definite symbol for every vowel, consonant, and diphthong in the English language. Longhand writing can boast no more. True it is that in fast writing we generally omit the vowels for the sake of speed, and in the case of very long words we sometimes also omit some of the consonants. But this in no way interferes with legibility or precise reading.

The New York World on the morning of the 8th printed a facsimile of Gov. Wilson's shorthand notes. I had not much difficulty in transcribing those notes, although they were much abbreviated and omitted all vowels. That goes some distance toward proving that shorthand outlines are not "merely hints of recorded speech," or "at best, a method of mnemonics."

Gov. Wilson's shorthand, incidentally, shows him to be an expert of the first water, and I shall be very much surprised if he is not made an honorary member of the National Shorthand Reporters' Association at their convention to be held at the Hotel Vanderbilt in this city next week. And if he is made such no doubt the question that has been raised can be put up to him and he would, no doubt, solve it for you.

Perhaps, however, the idea of greatest interest to all stenographers is that shorthand writing is fast developing into a profession, and that the fact that there is as much difference between the attainments of the ordinary office stenographer and the expert as there is between night and day is fast gaining currency.

POTATOES, FOR INSTANCE.

If Supply Is Short, the Tariff Shoots a High Price Higher.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

That a tariff tends to make times hard is easily seen. Take one item, potatoes. Think of a dozen nations, all of whose people like potatoes, fried, mashed, boiled. The total crop for the year may be enough for all, but the crop in two or three countries may be a failure. Why should the potato-hungry people refuse to buy? Why should their wonted food be made unduly dear? The cost is already higher than usual, owing to the freight and other charges incident to transit from abroad.

If you tax the foreign potatoes you raise the price all around, and, therefore, give to the growers of all home-grown potatoes an extra amount per bushel equal to the tax. That may be pleasant to the owners of potato lands, but it is very expensive to the Nation at large; for, suppose that 10 per cent. of the consumption is imported, then the other 90 per cent. gets the tax amount added to the potato price and the cost of living has been increased; some of the rich become richer, the many poor get less for their money and have less to spend for other necessaries.

If objection is made that we should buy home-grown food—well, let the farmers grow next year what is needed and take all possible precautions for the future. But to demand famine prices is too much. They get all they had expected for what they had to sell. They must bear losses sometimes and be content with their run of profits, as other people have to. It would generally be cheaper to pay the farmers for their losses than to tax the foreign product. As with potatoes, so with the rest of the long list.

KILLING BUBONIC RATS.

Work on Incoming Ships at This Port Is Thorough.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Little do the people of New York and Brooklyn know what the Quarantine officials and the Board of Health are doing to keep out the bubonic plague. At all docks, and on all ships coming from an infected port, men are sent by the Health Board to set traps to catch rats. Each morning the traps are taken up and on every rat caught a tag is tied to his leg, with the date, name of dock, and steamship line.

These rats are placed in a bag and sent to the Board of Health and examined for bubonic disease. Every ship from an infected port after being discharged is thoroughly fumigated by men from the Quarantine Station. On all lines leading from the ship to the dock are placed circular tins to prevent rats from leaving the ship or coming aboard. Passengers from an infected port undergo a thorough examination before embarking. At Quarantine Station, New York, all undergo a rigid examination before passing Quarantine.

Never in the history of the Port of New York are such precautions being taken to prevent the bubonic plague from entering this port as there are to-day.

Suggests a "Home Town" Club.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Noting the plaint of "Hopeful" a dormant idea was roused, and I would appreciate expression of opinion from "Hopeful" and others concerning the worth of it. A great majority of people of Manhattan is composed of lonely people—very lonely people—and I am one of those who have felt what a great deserted village this island of ours can seem. And I am and always have been a very busy woman, who numbers acquaintances by hundreds and am greatly blessed by the possession of tried and true friends. However, in this season those of us who remain in harness must be content with wafting our thoughts to our friends at seashore, mountain resort, or even across the sea.

My thought has been that "home town" clubs would provide the social contact missed by those of us who have come from cities or towns where our mothers, grandmothers, and great-grandmothers have established social circles of their own through the years.

DEBS CLASSIFIES THE NEW HYBRID

Reactionary, Capitalistic, and a Mere Trap for Votes, Is the Bull Moose Party.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The most significant thing about the Roosevelt Progressive Convention is that it represented hundreds of thousands of men who have voted the Republican ticket all their lives, and who have now quit the Republican Party forever. The progressive tendency here manifested can never be checked, but will become more and more pronounced until it finds expression in socialism.

So far as the Progressive Party itself is concerned it contains too many diverse and conflicting economic elements, and its platform is too much of a hodgepodge to give it the character and stability of a great National party. It is built largely upon the personality of one man, and no great party has ever been reared upon that kind of a foundation.

The really progressive planks in the Progressive platform were taken bodily from the Socialist platform, and even the red flag of socialism was appropriated, or at least imitated, by the red bandana of the Roosevelt followers.

As the leader of the Bull Moose Party Mr. Roosevelt must be judged by his performances and not by his pledges. He was President almost eight years, and how he dealt with the trust evil is well known to the country. It is especially well known to the trusts themselves, who financed his campaign for the nomination and are now financing the campaign for his election.

The Progressive Party as a party is not only not progressive but it is reactionary. In the aggregate it is a middle class protest against trust domination. The middle class will furnish the votes, and the trusts, in the event of Roosevelt's election, will take care of the administration.

There is no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt and his new party will start off with a great hurrah and make considerable noise during the campaign. There will be plenty of trust funds available, and with such substantial inspiration any kind of a campaign could be made a howling success. But men and women who do their own thinking and who know why political parties are organized and what they stand for, will not be deceived by the Bull Moose Party, which is neither fish, flesh nor fowl. At one end it is going to head off the trusts, and at the other end it is going to head off socialism. As a matter of fact Mr. Roosevelt has shrewdly seized upon the prevailing popular unrest and has baited his platform like a trap to catch the votes of the discontented people.

There is no room in this country for such a hybrid aggregation as the Bull Moose Party. It corresponds to the Liberal Party of Great Britain, which professed to be organized to represent the common people, and especially the working class, and turned out to be the most reactionary party in that country. If the workingmen of this country would profit by the bitter experience of workingmen in the old country, they would better give a wide berth to Mr. Roosevelt and his Progressive Party.

At bottom the Progressive Party is a capitalist class party. It stands for the present capitalist system, aiming only to mitigate some of its most glaring evils. There is nothing in the record of Mr. Roosevelt, its candidate for President, and nothing in the platform upon which he stands, some of the planks of which he denounced as treason and anarchy when he was President, that will appeal to Socialists, or to the intelligence of the working class.

GEN. SHARPE ON MEDAL.

120th N. Y. Infantry to Celebrate Its Fiftieth Birthday.

The survivors of the One Hundred and Twentieth New York Infantry, which took part in all the battles of the Army of the Potomac, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its organization at Kingston, N. Y., on Aug. 22. Its Colonel was George Henry Sharpe, a lawyer of Kingston, who entered the army in 1861 as Captain in the Twentieth New York Infantry, and the following year assumed command of the 120th New York Infantry. He served under Gens. Hooker, Meade, and Grant, and was brevetted Brigadier General in 1864 and Major General in 1865.

As United States Marshal for the Southern District of New York he took the census that demonstrated the great election frauds of 1868 in this city which led to the enforcement of the Federal election law for the first time in 1871. In 1880-81 he was Speaker of the State Assembly.

In commemoration of the anniversary bronze medals are being prepared under the direction of Major E. S. Turner, who is President of the Anderson Auction Company, and who served under Gen. Sharpe. On the obverse of the medal will be a bust of Gen. Sharpe and on the reverse an appropriate inscription. Time has thinned the ranks of this regiment. To each of the survivors one of these medals will be given.

WICKERSHAM STARTS SUIT.

As Trustee He Seeks Settlement of F. B. Cutting Estate.

A technical suit for an accounting was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court by Attorney General George W. Wickersham, who is partial trustee of the estate of Francis Brockholst Cutting. The suit is being brought against Mrs. Marion Cutting of the Hotel Vendome, Paris, who is the executrix of her husband's estate.

By the will of their father, a trust fund was left to Francis Brockholst Cutting, Jr., and William Cutting, and Mr. Wickersham was appointed trustee. It is for the purpose of obtaining a judicial accounting of this fund that the action was begun.

Henry W. Taft of 40 Wall Street, attorney for Mr. Wickersham, was out of town yesterday, and could not be reached; but his office made the statement that the litigation would be of a purely technical and amicable nature.

FLOOD REFUGEES ASK AID.

ST. MARTINVILLE, La., Aug. 13.—Despite the relief work done by St. Martin and neighboring parishes, suffering among the flood refugees in this vicinity has become so acute that Government aid is needed.

A petition was wired to Congressman Broussard. Residents declare that the aid rendered by the Government several weeks ago was withdrawn before provision had been made for anything like the total number of sufferers. Large numbers of persons have not found work.

JULES MASSENET DIES SUDDENLY

Famous Composer Had Long Suffered from Cancer, but Was Not Thought to be Dying.

WAS A PROLIFIC WORKER

Born 70 Years Ago, Massenet Became Celebrated Early in Life—His Operas Favorites in New York.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—Jules Emile Frédéric Massenet, the composer, died at his residence this morning at the age of 70.

He had been suffering for a long time from cancer, but his death was sudden and unexpected.

Jules Massenet was the most popular of modern French composers and the most prolific, if one excepts Camille Saint-Saëns. New York knew Massenet chiefly through his operas, although some of his songs have been popular here and some of his orchestral excerpts, particularly the music he wrote for "Les Erinnyes," have been played.

Several of his operas have been performed here many times, and eleven of them altogether have been produced in New York, a record probably which no other composer besides Wagner could boast of in recent years. "Manon," his masterpiece, when it was sung here by Sybil Sanderson and Jean de Reszke, did not achieve great success. "Le Cid" was a failure. "Werther," perhaps his most popular work in Paris, has never been a success here.

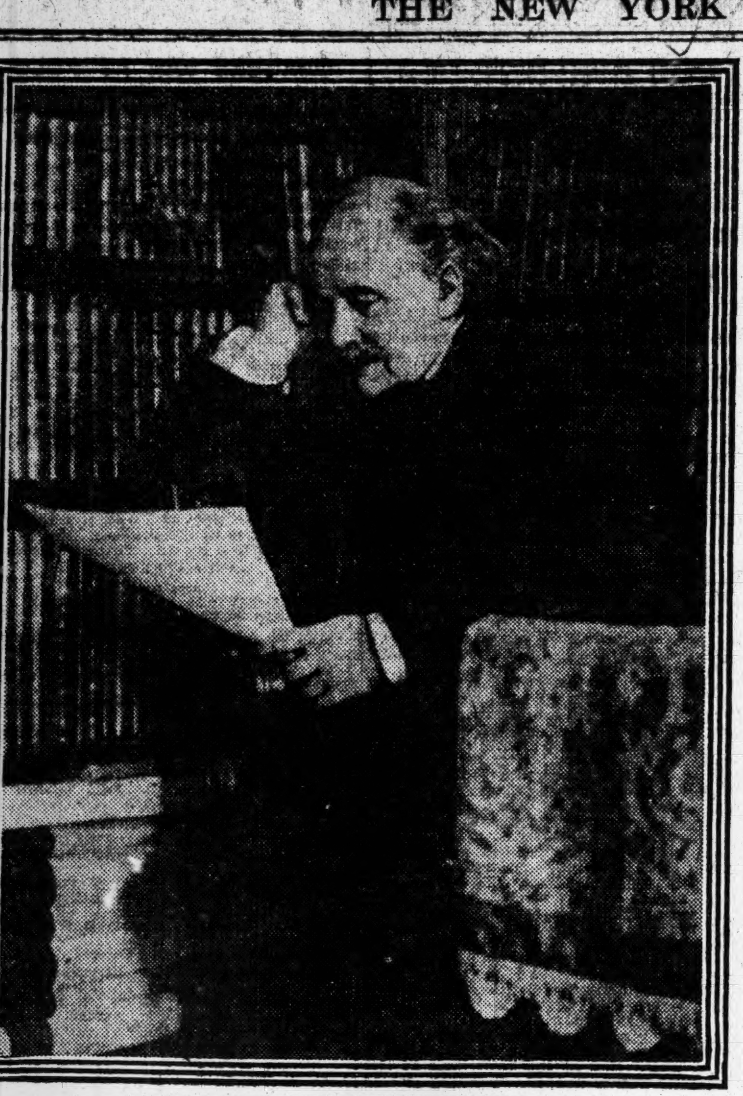
It was really "Thaïs," which was first performed by Mary Garden and Maurice Renaud at the Manhattan Opera House, which made Massenet's vogue certain here. The "Meditation" from this opera has become very popular. Later Mr. Hammerstein produced several other of the Frenchman's operas, including "Griselidis," "Sapho," "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame," "Herodiade," and "La Navarraise," which already had been heard at the Metropolitan Opera House. "Le Portrait de Manon" has been sung in New York, and so has "Cendrillon" on a single occasion, and the revival of "Manon" at the Metropolitan Opera House last Spring, with Geraldine Farrar and Caruso in the chief parts, made one of the signal successes of the season.

It has been said of Massenet that he could write opera in any style demanded of him. He always managed more or less to keep abreast of the times. It has been suggested that "Cendrillon" was written because of the success of "Hänsel und Gretel," and, although this has been denied, there is a certain amount of truth in what the story implies. When the Italian veristic school produced its two short operas, "Pagliacci" and "Cavalleria Rusticana," Massenet brought out "La Navarraise," also short, with an intermezzo, and so violent in style that the composer could scarcely be recognized except through the airs which occur in the piece.

Celebrated singers have also been the inspiration for this composer's pen. "Esclarmonde" and "Thaïs" were written for Sybil Sanderson, then the idol of Paris. "Sapho" was written for Emma Calvé. "Don Quichotte," "Thérèse," and "Roma" were all written with the contralto voice and the personality of Lucy Arbell in mind. And once, when some one in Paris said that Massenet could not compose an opera without a woman as its central theme, he wrote "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame," which contained no woman's part at all until Mary Garden sang the tenor part in New York.

He had a very great effect upon the modern French school, although most of the composers of the day are now entirely out of his influence. His "melodic line," as it is called, is easily recognizable, and to a certain extent other composers have found it useful. In the music of Reynaldo Hahn, for instance, one may trace much of Massenet's influence.

He was the most prolific of composers. Even now "Roma" has just been performed at the Paris Opéra, and several more of his works have been announced for production. It is said that his "Cléopâtre" is entirely completed, and possibly one or two more of his works are ready for production.



THE LATE JULES MASSENET.

Jules Emile Frédéric Massenet was born near St. Etienne on May 12, 1842, and he gave proof almost before he had learned his letters of the possession of musical talent of a high order. He could play a sonata of Beethoven on the piano at four, and became, barely five years later, a pupil at the Paris Conservatoire, with Laurent, Reber, and Ambroise Thomas as his teachers. In 1862 he won the much-coveted Prix de Rome. At the age of twenty-three he returned from Italy to Paris to marry one of Liszt's most accomplished pupils, to publish the "Requiem Mass" and the oratorio, "Mary Magdalene," he had composed while traveling in Italy, and to prepare for the production of "David Rizzio." After this his career was a march of triumph.

In 1867, through the influence of Ambroise Thomas, his "La Grand 'Tante" was produced at the Opéra Comique. Later several orchestral suites performed at the concerts populaires attracted some attention. It was not, however, until after the Franco-Prussian war that he rose to the first rank among the young French composers by the production of the opera comique "Don César de Bazan," a work which has just been revived in Paris. That was in 1872. His music for "Les Erinnyes" appeared in 1873. The oratorio "Eve" followed in 1875. Then followed more orchestral music, including the overture to "Phèdre."

It was with "La Roi de Lahore" in 1877 that the composer achieved a real success. Then followed "La Vierge," sung at the opera concerts, and regarded as a failure. It has become a success since. At Christmas in 1881 Massenet went to Brussels to produce "Herodiade." Afterward this work was heard in Paris and since has been performed in London and New York.

"Manon" was produced in January, 1884, and on Nov. 30, 1885, all Paris assembled at the first performance of "Le Cid." In 1886 Massenet provided the incidental music for Sardou's play, "Le Crocodile," and in the Spring of 1889 "Esclarmonde" was launched at the Opéra Comique. Two years later he returned to the Opéra with "Le Mage." This was succeeded by "Werther," which received its initial production in Vienna, and "Le Carillon," a ballet. Then followed "Thaïs," 1894; "Le Portrait de Manon," and "La Navarraise," in the same year; "Sapho," 1897; "Cendrillon," 1899; "Griselidis," 1901; "Le Jongleur de Notre Dame," 1902; "Cherubin," 1905, and "Ariane," 1906. Since then the composer had produced "Bacchus," "Therese," and "Don Quichotte," (one of the most popular of his operas,) and "Roma." Many of these works were heard in Monte Carlo before they were heard in Paris. "Don Quichotte" found its way to London through Oscar Hammerstein, who always remained faithful to Massenet.

Massenet himself told the story of his first successful opera. "One day in 1876," he says, "I was walking on the boulevards, when I met Halanzier, at that time director of the Opéra. 'I have heard your "Marie Magdeleine" and your "Eve,"' he said. 'As you can write like that, why don't you write an opera?' 'But I have written an opera,' I answered. 'I have a complete opera in my drawer at home.' 'You must let me hear it,' he said. I was dumfounded. On the next day, July 9, 1876, I went to his house in the Place Vendôme, together with Louis Galbert, who had written the libretto, and found Halanzier waiting for me and the piano ready. So I sat down and played and sang the first act right through. Then I stopped, waiting to hear what he would say. 'But that isn't all,' he cried. So I played and sang the second act, and then the third, and so on, till it was finished. Halanzier had never said a word. I thought that his silence meant disapproval, and, exhausted with fatigue, was about to go away, when Halanzier said, 'You must leave me your opera.' I could hardly believe my ears. 'What,' I cried, 'you meant to say that?' 'There's your contract,' said the director, holding out his hand. The opera was 'La Roie de Lahore.'"

To the list of Massenet's music already given are to be added many songs and three orchestral suites, "Scenes Napolitaines," "Scenes Alsaciennes," and "Scenes de Féerie."

In October, 1878, Massenet replaced Bazin as Professor of Advanced Composition in the Conservatoire, holding the position until 1896. In 1876 he was decorated with the Legion of Honor, becoming an officer in 1888, and in 1878 he was elected a member of the Académie des Beaux Arts in place of Bazin, and to the exclusion of Saint-Saëns, who was generally expected to be the new member. This was one of the rare occasions on which the entire Academy has not observed the order of presentation established by the section to which the new member belonged. Massenet was only 36 at the time,, and was the youngest member ever elected to the Académie des Beaux Arts, for Halévy, who was the most remarkable previous example of what may be called "academic precocity," was 37 when he entered the Institute in 1836.

DR. FURNESS, NOTED SCHOLAR, IS DEAD

HONORED BY UNIVERSITIES

His Variorum Edition the Standard Work of Its Kind—Owner of Shakespeare's Gloves and Other Relics.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Dr. Horace Howard Furness, the noted Shakespearean scholar, died to-day at his home in Wallingford, near here. He was 79 years of age. Death resulted from pneumonia.

Dr. Horace Howard Furness was born in Philadelphia, Penn., Nov. 2, 1833. He was the son of the Rev. William Henry Furness, himself a noted Shakespearean scholar. Dr. Furness in his preface to the "Variorum Edition of Shakespeare" acknowledges the debt due to his father.

Dr. Furness was graduated from Harvard University in 1854. Early in his life he had begun the study of Shakespeare and the collection of materials which were used in the Variorum Edition. The first volume, "Romeo and Juliet," appeared in 1871 and was warmly received by the leading Shakespearean scholars of the United States and England. "Macbeth" followed in 1873, and then "Hamlet," "King Lear," "Othello," "The Merchant of Venice," "As You Like It," "The Tempest," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "The Winter's Tale," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Antony and Cleopatra," and "Love's Labor Lost."

The Variorum Edition is accepted by students of all nationalities as the standard work of its kind. Each volume contains everything of value that has ever been written about the play it contains by the best English and French commentators and critics.

In his home are the famous gloves of Shakesspeare—the gloves said to have descended from the poet to John Ward, the grandfather of Mrs. Siddons, passed on from Ward to Garrick, from Garrick to Mrs. Siddons, from Mrs. Siddons to her daughter, Mrs. Combe; from Mrs. Combe to Mrs. F. A. Kemble, and finally presented by Mrs. Kemble to Dr. Furness.

Other relics in the house are the Shakespeare mask, an old payroll of David Garrick, the skull over which Kean, Macready, Forrest, and Booth had successively exclaimed, "Alas! Poor Yorick!" and specimens of all the editions of Shakespeare.

Dr. Furness's labors were recognized by degrees from many of the great universities in this country and abroad. In 1910 he was presented with a medal for his services to the stage by the founders of The New Theatre.

Two-base hits—Chase, Sweeney. Stolen bases—Daniels, Sweeney, Chase, (2.) First base on error—New York, 1. Left on bases—New York, 4. Double plays—Daniels and Simmons; Bush, Louden, and Onslow. Struck out—By Lake, 2; by Warhop, 3. Bases on balls—Off Fisher, 1; off Lake, 3. Hits—Off Fisher, 1 in one-third inning, (at bat, 2;) off Warhop, 2 in eight and two-thirds innings, (at bat, 26.) Umpires—Messrs. O'Loughlin and Egan. Time of game—One hour and thirty-five minutes.

A cleverly executed double steal by the Yankees on the Hilltop yesterday tied the score with Detroit in the eighth inning and a lucky Texas Leaguer by Hal Chase sent Bert Daniels over the plate with the run which defeated Detroit by a score of 3 to 2. It was as fast and snappy a little game as has been pastimed by Wolverton's unfortunate crew on the Hilltop this season.

In addition to the fine baseball programme, there was a side attraction of real trouble between the players and the umpires, several of the athletes being banished from the ball lot. In the very first inning Pitcher Ray Fisher, who started the game for the home club, was exiled from the scene because he questioned Umpire Egan's decision on Ty Cobb's infield hit. Perhaps it was a good thing that Fisher was sent away, because Jack Warhop, who succeeded him, held the Tigers to two hits.

Manager Wolverton objected to Egan's judgment in the sixth, when he called Paddock out stealing second. If Wolverton's speech to the umpire were taken down it would fill several columns, agate type, for he talked himself out of the game, never letting up on the oratory until he was out of the umpire's earshot. Wolverton sat himself in the centre field bleachers, and "Silk" O'Loughlin held up the game for several minutes until Wolverton disappeared.

Little Owen Bush, the Detroit short stop, kicked so hard when Egan called Hal Chase safe after stealing second in the eighth inning that Bush was side-tracked. And that was only part of the fun.

The most difficult thing that Ty Cobb has to do is to keep his name out of the papers. It's almost impossible. He was dirked in the back by a desperate yeggman in Syracuse Monday, but the said yeggman found in Ty one man he couldn't yegg. He was very busy yesterday, and in the second inning made a one-handed catch of Stump's fly which was labeled all over with brilliancy. Then again in the seventh he ran back a distance and pulled down a smash from Hartzell's bat which had all the appearances of a home run. Ty also got two of Detroit's three hits, his remarkable speed each time beating out infield taps.

While the spotlight is in working order, it might be well to turn it on Ed Sweeney, the Yankee catcher, because he made a catch in the ninth which demonstrated his nerve. Kocher, batting for Lake in the ninth, hoisted a high foul fly over the field boxes. Sweeney bumped right into a box, leaned over on to the spectators, and caught the ball just as it was about to flatten the new blue bonnet of Paul Armstrong, the play architect.

Detroit did all its scoring in the first inning. Fisher passed Davy Jones for a starter and Bush was thrown out at first. Cobb then tapped an infield grounder toward first which Chase romped after. Fisher, covering first, believed that the ball had beaten Cobb, but Umpire Egan called the runner safe. Fisher kicked so strenuously that he was put out of the game. Warhop took up the mound duty and threw Crawford out at first, Jones scoring on the play. Louden then hit a Texas Leaguer to right, scoring Cobb. Louden was out stealing second.

After that only one hit was made off Warhop, and Cobb got that—a swift infield smash to third in the seventh inning. Joe Lake, a former Hilltopper, was very stingy to his former clubmates, and held them to eight hits.

Daniels walked in the first inning and went to third when Chase doubled to right. Daniels scored while Paddock was being thrown out at first. Sweeney got a two-base hit in the second, but it went for naught.

The Yankees won the game in the eighth. After Lake had tossed Stump out at first, Sweeney walked. Warhop singled, sending Sweeney to third. Daniels then forced Warhop at second. Sweeney and Daniels worked a double steal, Sweeney scoring on the play.

Chase lifted a high fly back of the short field. Bush and Cobb both went after it, and there was a difference about who should catch it. The delay was disastrous, and the ball fell between the two players, Daniels scoring. Chase then stole second and third, but Paddock couldn't produce the hit to score him.

PATHFINDER AT CORINTH.

A. A. A. National Tour Car Has Difficulty Over Mississippi Roads.

Special to The New York Times.

CORINTH, Miss., Aug. 13.—Consternation reigned to-day along the stretch of so-called road covered by the pathfinder for the A. A. A. National tour in their Flanders electric coupé from Iuka to within three miles of Corinth. The pathfinders passed through the country and over a different route than that laid down for the Glidden tour of 1910. On this route automobiles were unknown. The pathfinding car, plunging over washed-out roads and gullies, frightened horses and their drivers. The run to-day was accomplished with satisfaction to the pathfinding party.

Hills that were steep and washed out, roads that were through running streams and swamps, and flooded by recent rains conspired with soaked red-clay roads to make the day notable on this trip. Dry weather will greatly improve the roads, but of late it has been very wet in these parts. There is yet one hundred miles to Memphis, of which sixty miles is said to be good going, but after the experience of the last three days the pathfinders are skeptical and no predictions are made as to when Memphis will be reached.

NEW TOURING GROUND.

Territory in Northern New York Will Be Surveyed.

Thousands of tourists who are in search of a new touring ground in the East will follow with interest an announcement from the Touring Club of America regarding the opening up to motorists of hundreds of miles of new routes throughout the Champlain Valley, the most remote sections of the Adirondack Mountains and the St. Lawrence Valley.

One of the official cars has just left New York on an extensive pioneering trip through this touring country. Hundreds of miles of roads will be carefully charted for the benefit of those who wish to tour in these sections, where heretofore only the main traveled highways, which are often not the most alluring to the tourist, have been known.

In connection with this mission the club's representatives will confer with the officers of the Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, Good Roads Associations and State and county highway authorities with a view to boosting the "better-roads-everywhere-for-everybody" slogan and learning where new roads are to be built and which old ones are to be improved, prior to the opening of the next touring season.

FAREWELL GAME AT WASHINGTON PARK

Next Brooklyn Game at New Field, President Ebbets Says—Superbas Defeated.

With no signs or ceremonies to mark what was perhaps the last game of major league baseball at Washington Park, Brooklyn, the Superbas and Pirates closed their series yesterday afternoon. The Pirates won by the score of 3 to 1, and thereby made it three victories in four games.

Although the work on Ebbets Field has not progressed enough to make it a certainty that it will be ready for baseball on Sept. 4, President Ebbets declared yesterday that he feels confident that everything will be in readiness. It was originally planned to open with the Cubs on Aug. 27, the anniversary of the battle of Long Island, but it would have been necessary to transfer the game to Brooklyn, as the Superbas are scheduled to play at Chicago on that date. With this date out of the figuring, the Brooklyn owner has picked Sept. 4, and sees no reason why the game cannot be played. Much work has been done on the new stands, and the grounds may be opened before they are completed. The date is an open one, but will be filled in with a postponed game.

Farewell or no farewell, the Superbas gave the Pirates the hardest kind of a fight all the way, and it was not until the eighth inning that the visitors jumped to the front. In this inning, with one out and two Pirates anchored on the sacks, George Gibson drove the ball to the fence in right-centre field and chased home the two runs which decided the game. The game was one of the shortest of the season at Washington Park, and was marked with considerable fielding of the spectacular variety. Cutshaw at second base for Brooklyn pulled down several prospective hits by his nimble work, and Max Carey did some high-class fielding that kept Brooklyn from getting real dangerous.

The batting of Byrne, Donlin, Wagner, and Smith and the fielding of Cutshaw, Carey, and Wagner were the features. The score:

Cincinnati Bunches Hits.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—The home team failed to take full advantage of its hard hitting and lost to-day's game to Cincinnati by 7 to 6. The visitors bunched eight of their safeties with passes in three innings, when they did all their scoring. Lobert and Paskert were hit in the face by fouls, which glanced off their bats, the latter being compelled to leave the game. The score:

Giants Win Exhibition Game.

Special to The New York Times.

GOSHEN, Ind., Aug. 14.—The New York Giants, en route to Chicago for the first series of their last Western trip, stopped off here to-day and played an exhibition game with the Goshen team, winning by the score of 10 to 4. Several of the New York regular players were not in the game, their positions being filled by second string men.

St. Louis Buys Lowell Player.

LOWELL, Mass., Aug. 13.—Second baseman Miller of the Lowell Club of the New England Baseball League was sold to-day to the St. Louis American League club for $2,000. Miller will report to St. Louis at the close of the New England League season.

$10,000 from Benefit Baseball Game.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—The Philadelphia American League baseball team played an exhibition game here to-day for the benefit of the Church of the Holy Spirit, of which the Rev. J. P. McCloskey, who accompanied the team on its Southern training trip, is the rector. Fifteen thousand people saw the regular Athletic team defeat the Yanigans by 7 to 3. Nearly $10,000 was realized for the benefit of the church.

New York Cricketers Win.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—An overwhelming victory by an inning and 36 runs was scored to-day by the visiting New York Veterans in their cricket match against the Ottawa team. Exceptional bowling on the part of F. F. Kelly and A. Hoskings brought about this result, and with the exception of Rankin the Canadians failed to solve the deliveries of the two New York trundlers. Hoskings captured 5 wickets in the first innings and 4 in the second innings, while Kelly secured 3 wickets in the first and 4 at the follow-on. The score: New York, 201; Ottawa, 100 and 6.

Philadelphia Cricketers Defeated.

SITTINGBOURNE, England, Aug. 13.—The Philadelphia Cricket Club team was defeated by 132 runs in a match here to-day against J. R. Tilden's XI., which includes several first-class cricketers. The Philadelphia players scored 73 runs in the first innings and 153 in the second, making a total of 226. The combined score of the local team was 358. The top scorers on the visiting team were George Conyers, who made 31 runs, and J. L. Evans, who obtained 29.

BADEN WINS AT FORT ERIE.

Bingara's Son Takes Feature Event Before Record Attendance.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The first day's racing of the Grand Circuit stars at the Fort Erie (Ontario) track was ushered in with a banner attendance, the largest since the old days of the Hamlin track here. Four stirring races were witnessed, three going to the favorites. The track was fast, and one horse made a new mark and another equaled his record.

The feature of the afternoon was the King George V. stake ($5,000) for 2:12 trotters. It resulted in an upset, Esther W., winner of the Tavern "Steak" at Cleveland, losing the race to Baden, a brown stallion by Bingara. Five heats were trotted to get a winner.

Dr. Mack, favorite in the 2:16 class trot, lost the first heat to Funny Crank, driven by Geers, the veteran reinsman. Funny Crank, a bad actor, could not get near the Doctor in the next three heats.

AHEARN-GRAVES DRAW.

Brooklyn Welterweight and Wisconsin Boxer Clash at Royale A. C.

"Dancing" Jake Ahearn, the elusive Brooklyn welterweight, had his work cut out for him last night in order to get home on even terms in his ten-round bout with Kid Graves of Wisconsin at the Royale A. C. last night.

Graves, since he has invaded the East, has been coming along in leaps and bounds, annexing a number of noteworthy victories, and more than proved a surprise to the ardent followers of Ahearn. It was probably one of the closest calls the Brooklynite has had in many months, and had his adversary showed more ability to stand off and box Ahearn he would have won. As it was the Westerner depended largely on his strength and ability to mix matters at close range. At this style of work he proved up to the standard, and got in some good licks on Ahearn's body, but when it came to standing off and boxing the "Dancing Master" proved too agile for Graves.

In the first five rounds the Brooklynite led the way in four by steady left jabbing and occasionally crossing his right to the body. Graves was puzzled at the fast attack of his opponent, and missed many well intended blows. Toward the end he started to bore in and work close, with the result that he tallied some good body and face smashes, but never had Ahearn in danger. In the eighth chapter Graves made his best showing, and after rushing his man three times landed a telling left hook to the point of the chin in a clinch. He dove in again head first, and both men were in a fast mixup as the bell sounded, the round slightly favoring the Westerner. When the bell sounded both were mixing and disregarded the signal, continuing to smash away at each other for a short time.

The ninth found Graves again rushing, and when he drove Ahearn back to the ropes the latter turned on his ankle and was forced to slow up, but managed to get an even break at the end.

In the final round Graves was overanxious to score, while Ahearn was cool and collected, getting over the best blows. The crowd which witnessed the fray was one of the largest this season, despite the heat of the clubhouse.

ANOTHER CHAMPION HERE.

Dave Smith, Holder of Two Australian Titles, Issues Defi.

"Dave" Smith, the Australian middleweight champion, who has victories to his credit over "Billy" Papke, "Jimmy" Clabby, "Jack" Lester, and other American boxers, arrived in New York last night on the Hamburg-American liner Cincinnati, ready for an active campaign in the ring. Smith was accompanied by his manager, Richard C. Klegin, and "Johnny" Hayes of London Marathon fame, who has been secured to act as his trainer. Smith will leave in a few days for a camp outside Philadelphia, where he will begin hard training for any bouts that may present themselves.

This visit is the first that the Australian champion has made to America, but he is well known by reputation to followers of boxing here. He first sprang into prominence by beating "Billy" Papke in Australia when the latter was generally regarded as the middle-weight champion of the world. Papke later evened matters after a hard fight. Smith has fought three bouts with "Jimmy" Clabby, winning one bout, getting a draw in another, and the decision against him in another bout in which the papers generally credited him with a draw. He also fought "Cyclone Johnny" Thompson in Australia, and he defeated "Jack" Lester, the protégé of "Tommy" Burns, in a bout for the heavy-weight championship of Australia. He has had considerable experience with boxers of recognized class, and he stands ready to take on any middle-weight in America, none barred.

Smith weighs close to 160 pounds, and his manager declared last night that he was ready to accommodate Frank Klaus, "Billy" Papke, "Eddie" McGoorty, "Jimmy" Clabby, Frank Mantell, "Johnny" Thompson, or any other American middle-weight with a match. He will be ready to box within ten days after articles are signed. Smith will remain here as long as he can secure matches.

Jack Johnson Will Sign.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—"I expect to sign papers to-morrow that will close arrangements for a ten-round bout with Joe Jeanette in New York City," said Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight pugilist. Johnson weighs 247 pounds, just three pounds less than when he started to train for his fight with Jim Flynn at Las Vegas.

Sharkey Challenges Burns.

Spurred to action by the announcement that Tommy Burns has already returned to the ring, Tom Sharkey, a noted heavyweight of a dozen years ago, has come out with a declaration that he would like to arrange a match with Burns under any fair conditions, which the latter may name. In a lengthy letter Sharkey says that Burns never fought Jeffries nor was he ever looked upon as a likely opponent of the big fellow, whom he styles "real champion of all champions." Sharkey also recalls the fact that he fought Jeffries "twenty-five of the hardest rounds he ever engaged in" at Coney Island, and insists that he should have received a draw decision. Tom adds that he is confident a course of strict training will fit him to re-enter the ring and defeat Burns.

Bouts at St. Nicholas A. C.

Three ten-round bouts between boxers of note make up the card arranged for to-night at the St. Nicholas A. C. In the main event "Gunboat" Smith of California, who recently defeated Hughey McGann and Andy Morris here, will clash with "Porky" Flynn, the Boston heavyweight. Flynn returned from an Australian trip a few weeks ago, and only last week showed that he is in fine condition by his work against Jim Barry at Boston. In the semi-final of the ten-round bouts Frank Picato, the California lightweight, will hook up with Willie Beecher of the east side.

MOTOR CYCLISTS IN TWO BAD MISHAPS

Chapple Dislocates Shoulder and King Burns Leg at the Brighton Stadium.

Painful accidents to Arthur Chapple of this city and Freddie King, the Kansas City motor cyclist, marked the competitive proceedings last night at the Brighton Beach Stadium Motordrome, when the first named sustained a dislocated left shoulderblade and contusions, and King a severe burning on his lower left leg.

King was the victim of a peculiar and painful accident during the progress of his match race against Johnny Albright of Denver, being badly burned as the result of his left puttee taking fire from a spark of the exhaust. The mishap came in the first heat of the four-mile contest, and from the outset King's machine was flashing flame with almost every other explosion.

He failed to shut off the spark, and as he approached the two-mile mark his clothing became ignited, causing a flame to run up his left leg, which was burned severely, causing him to fall from his wheel. Dr. Thompson, the track physician, patched up the injured rider and enabled him to finish out his engagement.

This was followed by the Chapple spill, in which New York's greatest rider was separated from his machine after he had ridden but a quarter mile in an attempt against the two-mile record. He was thrown, through the front tire of his machine blowing out, which bowled the rider from the track to the infield, dislocating his left shoulder and causing other contusions. Dr. Thompson announced that Chapple, in addition to his dislocated shoulder, had torn the ligaments in the shoulder as well, and that it was possible that he would be unable to ride for several weeks.

Howard Wray, a young amateur, was suspended for the night's racing after a rather weird ride in the first heat of the three-mile amateur race, in which it was ruled he had endangered the lives of his opponents by suddenly dropping down to the line from the top of the bank. Ferdie Mercier accounted for two of the three heats in the six-mile professional race and annexed the big end of the purse. The summaries:

Three-Mile Race, Amateur.—First Heat—Won by John W. Constant, New York; Howard Wray, New York, second; James B. French, Brooklyn, third. Time—2:50 3-5. Second Heat Won by Constant; French, second. Time—2:23 3-5.

Eleven-Mile Race, Handicap.—Won by Johnny Albright, Denver, (scratch;) W. W. Wray, New York, (2 laps,) second; Ray Hoffstetter, Indianapolis, (2 laps,) third. Time—7:59 4-5.

Match Race, Four Miles, (Johnny Albright, Denver, vs. F. A. King, Kansas City.)—First Heat—Won by Albright. Time—2:57 3-5. Second Heat, Three Miles—Won by King. Time—2:10 2-5. Third Heat, Three Mils—Won by Albright. Time—2:12 3-5.

Six-Mile Race, Professional.—First Heat—Won by Ferdie Mercier, Brooklyn; Wray, Brooklyn, second; Ray Hoffstetter, Indianapolis, third. Time—4:32 3-5. Second Heat—Won by Hoffstetter; William Shields, Syracuse, second; Wray, third. Time—4:36 4-5. Third Heat—Won by Mercier; Wray, second; Shields, third. Time—4:30 3-5.

Intercity Motor Cycle Match.

Two teams of stars from New York and Philadelphia will hurl their motors over fifty miles in the feature event at the Stadium-Motordrome at Brighton Beach to-morrow night. This will be the second intercity duel that has been staged at the Brighton Beach course this season. To-morrow's contest will have Arthur Chapple, Johnny Albright, and Billy Wray, the three long-distance event winners, on the New York team. The second appearance Saturday of Eddie Hasha, the Texas star, will be against the toughest man that can be found for him. King, the Kansas City rider who met Albright last night, is in line for the match.

Won't Enjoin Vailsburg Motordrome.

Vice Chancellor Stevens yesterday filed an opinion denying a preliminary injunction against the operation of the new motordrome in the Vailsburg section of Newark, asked for by residents of that neighborhood. The Vice Chancellor based his denial of the temporary restraint asked for on a finding by the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals in the case of McMillan versus Kuehnle, but for which, he says, he should have thought that the prior decisions of that tribunal would have warranted a temporary injunction.

PATRICIA LEADS MICHICAGO.

Canadian Yacht Wins Third Race—Motor Boat Kitty Hawk Sinks.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—The Canadian sloop Patricia won by nine seconds to-day's race in the series of five being contested with the American yacht Michicago for the sailing championship of the great lakes. To-days victory in is the second for the Canadian. The American boat has one victory to its credit.

Only a third of a boat's length separated the contestants at the finish of to-day's race. The official elapsed time for the winner was 2:33:05 for eighteen miles.

During the fifteen-mile race for twenty-five foot motor boats, which was won in 24:15 by Chicago, owned by E. J. Richards of Chicago; Kitty Hawk, owned by R. H. Timkin of Detroit, caught fire and sank about a mile and a half from shore. She was the second motor boat to sink during the carnival. Baby Reliance sank yesterday. Freeman Monroe, driver, and Fred Joseph, mechanician of Kitty Hawk, were picked up in a few minutes after to-day's accident. Débutante, owned by Noel Sampson, London, England, finished second, and Beat It, owned by L. P. Mills of Chicago, was third. This was the only motor boat race finished to-day.

Monroe said to-night that Kitty Hawk caught fire in the bow, due probably to some of the ignition wires becoming short-circuited. The entire bow was in flames when he first noticed the fire, Monroe said. He warned his mecanician, and they both jumped as the boat sank.

Aquatic Sports at Coney Island.

The aquatic sports which will be held in the swimming pool, Brighton Beach Park, Coney Island, to-night are as follows: Handicap swimming race for girls, canoe tilting, obstacle races, water polo game between the Brighton Beach team and the Cortelyou Athletic Club, which game was postponed from last Wednesday, and exhibitions of swimming and diving by Elaine Golding and Elsie Hanneman. A large entry has been received for the girls' swimming race, and the competitors include Gladys Kelly, Eva Lewin, Irene Lowe, Ethel Edison, Agnes Grogan, Orpha Huyck, Bessie O'Neil, Margaret Wagner, Thelma Bowne, Margaret Roache, Florence Lu Chasey, Wilhelmina Shultz, Anna Meining, Ruth Violar, and Ethel Strauss.

QUAKERS WIN AT POLO.

Bryn Mawr and Freebooters Score Victories at Narragansett Pier.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 13.—Philadelphians were in the limelight at the Point Judith Polo Club to-day, and, besides a special match won by the Bryn Mawr team from Dedham first, the Philadelphia Freebooters smothered the Meadow Brook Canaries in the opening round for the Atlantic Cup by 15 to 7, after conceding two goals. H. W. Harrison, borrowed from Bryn Mawr, and young E. Lowber Stokes were the particular stars, each scoring five goals, while A. C. Schwartz made 3 and T. Stokes 2. E. D. Morgan, Jr., had three goals for the Canaries, while Morgan Belmont and A. S. Burden had singles.

There was a terrific finish between the Westchester Perroquets and the Camdens in their game for the trophies. Each team had the help of English visitors and it was a free scoring game, played with much dash and spirit. The summaries:

Ridder, Treasurer of the Reception Committee appointed by Mayor Gaynor to represent the citizens of New York City at the official welcome home of the American Olympic athletes, yesterday announced that the following contributions toward expenses had been received: Edwin Gould, $100; Gen. George W. Wingate, $25; Augustus Schermerhorn, $50; Herman Ridder, $100; James Douglas, $50; Charles Whittemore, $10; Martin J. Dolan, $10; Robert J. Kammerer, $25.

It was announced at the Mayor's office yesterday that the Mayor had added to the membership of the Reception Committee the Rev. Mallick J. Fitzpatrick, rector of the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin for Homeless and Destitute Children. Father Fitzpatrick takes a lively interest in athletics and offered a battalion of 250 trained cadets and a full band from his institution. The offer was accepted.

The National Olympic Committee, of which President Taft is the honorary head, will take care of Olympic athletes now in New York and those arriving from now on, until the night of the 23d inst., when the Reception Committee appointed by the Mayor and the Plan and Scope Committee appointed by the Metropolitan Association of Athletic Clubs will open the reception with a theatre party. Fleischmann's Baths has offered to entertain all of the athletes over night at the baths on either the 23d or the 25th inst.

JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIPS.

New York A. C. Will Have Hard Task to Retain Trophy.

The New York Athletic Club will have a hard fight for the trophy this year in the junior track and field Metropolitan Association championships, which will be held at Celtic Park, L. I., Saturday afternoon, Aug. 31.

The Winged Foot organization captured the championship last year and wants to annex it again, but their road is not as smooth as it was last year, as many good men have sprung up in smaller clubs and the fight promises to be very interesting.

Engineers on Baltusrol Links.

A variety of competitions marked the monthly tournament of the Golf Club of the Engineers' Club yesterday at Baltusrol, and prizes were offered in plenty. Foursomes occupied the early part of the day, and the result of this contest was a tie between the teams composed of F. E. Donohoe and J. G. Wright and W. F. Zimmerman and W. M. Wampler, their respective combined scores being 188, 25—163, and 202, 39—163. The deadlock was decided by a draw, in which Donohoe and Wright became the winners. H. A. Halligan, who ordinarily plays at Montclair, returned the best gross of the day with a 91. In the afternoon there was a handicap in three classes, in which H. T. Shriner, with 90, 12—78, and C. Young, with 87, 8—79, were the two prize winners in the first division.

M'LOUGHLIN OUT OF TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 13.—Three of the survivors, Edward P. Larned, W. F. Johnson, and G. P. Gardner, Jr., won their places in the fifth round of the singles to-day in the lawn tennis tournament on the turf courts of the Meadow Club. The younger brother of the National champion was in rare form. He began the day with disposing of C. F. Watson, Jr., at 6—3, 6—3, and finished up with Shaw McKeen at 6—3, 7—5.

The stalwart Johnson, the former intercollegiate champion of the University of Pennsylvania, experienced a lively session with George M. Church of Princeton in getting to the round before the semi-finals. The overhead smashing of Church was superb. He made a gallant fight, but lost at 6—4, 8—6. Church brought off a lot of clever place shots against the Pennsylvanian, but the latter's chop strokes always bothered him. Previous to engaging Johnson, Church had defeated Joseph R. Carpenter, Jr., the former Pennsylvania State champion at 6—3, 6—0, as he outvolleyed Carpenter and blocked off his returns at the net.

Gardner in coming through practically had another walkover, as he has had all the luck of the draw. He smashed his way through C. Fisher to the score of 6—1, 6—1.

There were a number of other matches which stood out prominently on the day's card, and chief of these was the victory of Thomas C. Bundy, who took the limit of three sets at 8—6, 5—7, 6—2, to defeat W. M. Washburn of Yale. Watson's peculiar whipping wrist stroke by which he covers up direction bothered Bundy considerably. R. Norris Williams won easily against S. Beardsley at 6—3, 6—2, and meets Karl H. Behr to-morrow morning in the starred match. Maurice E. McLoughlin, who is here, defaulted his place in the tournament. The summaries:

Meadow Cup Singles.—First Round—A. Thayer defeated J. Lawrence, 6—2, 6—2.

Hopping, 6—1, 4—6, 6—1; H. W. Slocum defeated H. Torrance, Jr., 6—2, 6—2; S. Beardsley defeated C. Hatch by default; M. E. McLoughlin defeated S. Henshaw by default.

Inman by default; E. P. Larned defeated C. F. Watson, Jr., 6—3, 6—3; S. McKeen defeated M. Hamilton, 8—6, 6—2; H. Nickerson defeated H. A. Plummer, 7—5, 0—6, 6—1; A. S. Dabney defeated H. N. Tifft, Jr., 6—3, 6—1; H. W. Slocum defeated F. M. Hyde, 6—2, 6—1; G. M. Church defeated J. R. Carpenter, Jr., 6—3, 6—0; W. F. Johnson defeated A. Codman, 6—1, 6—0; K. H. Behr defeated A. H. Man, Jr., 8—6, 6—2; R. N. Williams defeated S. Beardsley, 6—3, 6—2; G. P. Gardner, Jr., defeated M. E. McLoughlin by default; C. Fisher defeated R. Huntington by default.

Fourth Round—E. P. Larned defeated S. McKeen, 6—3, 7—5; W. F. Johnson defeated G. M. Church, 6—4, 8—6; G. P. Gardner defeated C. Fisher, 6—1, 6—1.

RECORD BUSINESS FOR REPUBLIC STEEL

Output Exceeds That of 1907, but Value Is Less, Owing to Price Reductions.

EARNINGS OF 5 PER CENT.

Only 3½ Applied to Dividends and Balance Goes Into Surplus—Prices Have Recovered.

The report of the Republic Iron & Steel Company, issued yesterday, for the fiscal year ended June 30, covers twelve months of the worst conditions experienced in the steel trade since the organization of the company. The output reached a new high record, exceeding that of 1907, the previous largest year, by 27.5 per cent, but owing to the very low prices which prevailed the total value of the company's output this past year was 7.6 per cent less than in 1907. Notwithstanding these unfavorable conditions the income account shows net profits applicable to dividends of $1,273,262, equal to a little more than five per cent. on the $25,000,000 of preferred stock. Only 3½ per cent. was paid, the remaining surplus for the year, amounting to $389,262, being carried to the surplus account.

Gross earnings, net earnings and other items in the report compare as follows with the figures for the previous year:

Gross earnings	$28,983,055	$24,071,771
Gross profits	2,484,417	3,845,000
Net profits	1,273,262	2,422,519
Dividend	875,000	1,750,000
Balance	398,262	672,519
Chg. to surp. (depr., &c.)	420,817	264,734
Total surplus	5,339,891	5,302,445
Prod. finished and semi-finished products (tons)	879,617	684,553

Sharp price cutting began in May, 1911, and continued throughout the balance of that year, the low point in the prices of delivered products being reached in March this year. As orders were booked several months ahead, it was not until the last month of the past fiscal year that the Republic Iron & Steel Company derived any benefit from the upturn in prices which began last April and which has been in progress ever since. The company's report shows that unfilled orders on June 30, 1912, were 454,961 tons, compared with 481,125 tons at the close of the previous fiscal year. The fact that the tonnage on the books was smaller this year than last is in keeping with the policy of reserving as much as possible the company's capacity for orders at improving prices. It is understood that since the first of July orders have materially increased and these, of course, have been taken at a considerably higher level than the quotations at which the company's output last year was sold.

The Republic Iron & Steel Company expended a total of $8,798,160 for labor in the past year and employed on the average 11,723 men, compared with 11,588 the previous year. From the report it appears that the tonnage output this past year was 43 per cent. greater than the tonnage produced in 1911, indicating that the larger volume of output and the improvements put into effect during the year made possible much greater efficiency in production.

In his statement to the stockholders, Chairman John A. Topping points out that the general weakness and demoralized condition of the iron and steel market referred to in the Semi-Annual Report of December 31, 1911, was decidedly intensified by the introduction of new factors of business disturbance, which had the effect of causing a further loss of business confidence. Under these conditions, he says, producers of iron and steel, in order to stimulate an economic volume of business, offered further price reductions, the low ebb in values being reached during March. Under the influence of bargain prices and improvement in business sentiment, due in part to lessened activity of investigating committees and also to improved crop prospects, the volume of business was rapidly increased, reaching such proportions during April that general price advances were stimulated.

McCORMICKS IN CONTROL.

Have Sufficient Stock to Swing Election of Harvester Company.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Prominent Western stockholders in the International Harvester Company refused to-day to confirm rumors concerning important changes in the control and management of the Harvester Company incidental to the expiration of the voting trust.

"The termination of the voting trust is hardly a new feature," said a leading official. "As to whether the restoration of the voting power to the general stockholders will result in any new alignment which might cause a change of management I do not know, and I do not see how any one else would at this time."

For ten years the International Harvester Company has been managed by a voting trust which elected Directors of the company and was the final court for settling disputed questions. Cyrus H. McCormick, William Deering, and George W. Perkins were the three members of this body. Mr. Deering represented the Deering interests, which were taken into the combination, and Mr. Perkins stood for J. Pierpont Morgan, fiscal agent of the concern.

The ten-year agreement has expired, and it now devolves on the stockholders to elect a new voting trust or to choose Directors. It is understood that the McCormicks, Cyrus H. and Harold F., sons of the founder of the McCormick Company, control sufficient stock to enable them to swing the election. Much of the stock is held by employes to whom it has been sold during the last ten years at the suggestion of the McCormicks.

Being in full control, the McCormicks can do away with a voting trust and even reorganize the Board of Directors so that the Eastern financial interests will not be represented. It is not reported that they intend to go to that extreme, though in financial circles it is definitely understood that the financial headquarters will be removed from New York to Chicago.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

Sulphonated Derivative of Orchil Is a Vegetable Extract.

The Berlin Aniline Works protested yesterday before the Board of United States General Appraisers against the ruling of the Collector at Philadelphia that a sulphonated derivative of orchil was a "non-enumerated manufactured article." The importers held that the merchandise came under Paragraph 22, which provides for "all extracts of vegetable origin, suitable for dyeing, coloring, staining or tanning, and not containing alcohol and not medicinal." The Government chemist testified that the commodity was derived from the roots of seaweed. The board sustained the protest.

S. I. Hyman & Brother paid duty on 12 lots of ostrich feathers on Aug. 12, 1911. Several days later they discovered that one lot was missing, the goods having been delivered to their customer from the dock.

The importers contended that they should not pay on the lost case. Judge Waite overruled them because no protest was filed at the time.

DRY GOODS MARKET ACTIVE.

Western Buyers Selecting New Season Lines—Trade Improving.

Buying continued to improve in the New York dry goods market yesterday, and the total volume of business done was the largest in some time. The influx of out-of-town buyers continued, additional arrivals of retailers from the western part of the country augmenting the number already in the city for the selection of the new season's lines. Mail orders did not play a very prominent part in the day's business, although reorders of Fall merchandise from wholesalers were received in fair numbers in the primary market.

Wash goods trading in the secondary market showed little, if any, recession from the levels of the preceding day, individual orders having been for the most part of good size and well diversified. Fall lines of dress goods continued to keep up the rapid movement that has characterized them so far this season.

Silks and ribbons were in generally satisfactory demand, trading in the former having been somewhat heavier than on Monday. Laces, neckwear, and notions received a good share of the attention of buyers, but embroideries were apparently little wanted. Ginghams, both staple and dress, moved well, and gave promise of still better business later in the week.

Fall lines of hosiery and underwear met an improved demand. Floor coverings were also reported to have shown improvement. Spring worsteds and woolens have shown a great deal of activity in the primary markets of late, but have been slowed up a little in the last few days by the withdrawal of several lines of staple dress goods because of an oversold condition. The primary market for cotton goods was generally active yesterday, and prices held close to former levels.

SPEAKS FOR IRISH GOODS.

Sydney Smith Says We Are Imposed Upon in Laces.

In an endeavor to enlarge the American market for products of Irish manufacture, Sydney Smith of Dublin, a representative of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland, is in New York studying business methods and conditions.

"The object of my visit to the United States," he said yesterday, "is not only to enlarge, if possible, the American market for the well-established Irish manufacturer, but to create a market for the products of the smaller concerns of that country.

"At the present moment Irish lace is one of our principal exports to this country, but the Irish industry is suffering severely from competition here with lace that is called Irish by the various foreign makers and sold as such over the counters of a large number of American department stores. The United States is the principal market of the Irish lacemakers, and with this illegitimate competition cutting into the business the situation is really becoming serious. The Government is spending a considerable sum of money endowing convents and schools throughout Ireland for the instruction of young girls in the art of lacemaking, but the earning power of the workers is being materially lessened. Balbriggan hosiery and Donegal tweeds are also misrepresented here to a considerable extent.

"Next in importance to laces comes the traffic in Irish pickled mackerel between the two countries. Until a few years ago the traffic in this commodity with the United States was a very large factor in Irish commerce. Of late, however, a good part of this trade has been secured by Norway through superior packing and grading. In an endeavor to win back this lost trade, I have been trying to get American buyers to demand better grading and packing of the Irish fish. The department has established two curing and packing stations in the South of Ireland, and has placed an expert Norwegian packer in charge, to instruct Irish packers in the proper methods of curing and grading their fish. All work of this kind done under the supervision of the department is branded with the harp and crown, and guaranteed by the Government."

GOOD TRADE IN QUILTS.

Not Quite a Boom, but the Prospects Are Pleasing.

The Fall season has so far been productive of some very good business in quilts, according to a statement made yesterday at the local office of a prominent New England manufacturer of these goods. Buyers have been generally active in selecting their new season's merchandise, and prices have been well sustained by the general strength of the cotton goods market. While business done to date has in no way assumed the proportions of a boom, conditions in this market are for the most part satisfactory, and the outlook for the future is said to be particularly pleasing. Some unusually handsome jacquard effects in counterpanes are shown this season, and the amount of business booked on these goods is the source of considerable satisfaction to the manufacturing end of the trade.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

Large feather wings, with an edging of ostrich or crepe ruching, are extensively shown for Fall millinery garniture.

There is strong evidence in the notions and fancy goods trade that back combs will be generally worn this Fall and Winter. A good business in these articles is anticipated in consequence.

Dress linens are beginning to slow up in the principal jobbing circles from all accounts. Household linens, on the other hand, are meeting a generally good demand.

There appears to be no let-up in the call for velvets and velveteens. It is predicted in certain quarters of this market that the coming season will witness the heaviest buying of them in years.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The Compania Jabonera de la Laguna, located at Gomez Palacio, Durango, Mexico, claims to have the largest soap factory in the world. This company, capitalized at $1,500,000, was founded in 1898, has a plant covering 200,000 square meters, and gives employment to more than 800 men.

It is stated that practical experience with gas mantles made of artificial silk has proved them to be far superior to those made of cotton or ramie. This superiority is more noticeable where the mantles are exposed to excessive vibration. Several German towns are said to be obtaining exceptionally good results from these new mantles used in conjunction with pressure gas, and it is asserted that the mantles are in good condition after being in use for seven or eight weeks.

None of the wool shipped from Syria to America comes here direct, as there are no direct steam communications between the Syrian Coast and the United States. All these shipments must, in consequence, be sent first to other European or British ports, and there be transshipped into vessels sailing for America.

The Third Zone, comprising a vast area in northeastern Congo, was opened to free trade July 1, 1912. This zone, which is the last, embraces nearly all of the district of Uele, one of the most healthful regions in Congo. Uele contains valuable mineral deposits, including the Kilo gold mines.

LAST WEEK'S EXPORTS.

Shipments to England Far Ahead of Next Highest Country.

Statistics issued yesterday by the Custom House show the value of exports, exclusive of specie, forwarded from the Port of New York in the week ended Aug. 10 to have been $16,472,871, against $14,651,472 in the previous week and $13,667,459 in the corresponding week in 1911. Exports to England, valued at $4,127,740, headed the list, with shipments to Germany, valued at $1,611,846, second.

Shipments of beef forwarded during the week amounted to 1,074 barrels and 356 tierces, while wheat exports aggregated 408,979 bushels. Other exports of important commodities follow:

RUBBER GOES SLOWLY.

Market Here Awaits Effects of London Auction.

According to cable advices received in the New York crude rubber market at 2:45 P. M. yesterday, only 231 of the 750 tons of Ceylon rubber offered at the regular fortnightly auction in London had been taken. Closing prices for smoked sheets showed a decline of ¼d from opening figures, final quotations on this grade having been 4s 9½d. This figure was also quoted for pale crêpe at the close. Opening prices for brown crêpe were about ¾d below the closing figures of the last previous sale. Buyers were not particularly active abroad, from all accounts, and because of this the general tone of the English market was somewhat easier.

Trading in the New York market yesterday was generally limited, pending the effect of the sale on prices on this side of the Atlantic. Consumers showed little disposition to purchase in anything like an active way, and the easy tone developed at the sale was expected to cause them to hold off still further in the hope of a general softening of prices in this market. Up-river fine was quoted here yesterday at $1.16.

COAL SEEMS TO BE SCARCE.

Pressure on Producers Makes Retail Outlook Serious.

Reviewing conditions in the New York coal market during the past week, the current issue of the Coal Trade Journal will say to-day:

"The increasing pressure on the anthracite producers found expression last week in a higher premium on stove and egg coal from individual operations. This is only one of several developments of the past few days, which indicate that the retail trade is coming to a better realization of the gravity of the outlook as regards Fall and Winter supplies. The real seriousness of the situation has been until recently too far in the future to create the apprehension it justified, but now, with Fall only a few weeks away, signs of uneasiness are beginning to multiply.

"The soft coal trade is steadily tending to greater strength and activity, though the upward swing was begun at such a low point that considerable progress will have to be made before business can be described as rushing. The practical cleaning up of demurrage coal was the first step in bringing about a better state of affairs, and since that was accomplished the market has been in a more healthy condition. Production is being kept down to market requirements, and at the present time there are very few instances of tonnage being shipped to this harbor on consignment. This adjustment of supply and demand has resulted in a gradual strengthening of quotations, and while no fancy prices are secured, the very low figures of a few weeks ago are no longer in force."

Five thousand dollars in bills ranging in denominations from $1 to $20 was laundered for one National bank yesterday.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grains Up; Cotton Breaks, but Recovers; Pork and Coffee Strong.

Wheat advanced on good demand for distribution and firm interior cash markets. Corn was higher with shorts good buyers of September and on the cash situation. Oats were higher on unsettled weather and good buying by consumers. Provisions were higher on a smaller movement of hogs. Cottonseed oil rallied with an improved speculative inquiry, following early weakness. Cotton was weak at the start with renewed liquidation, showing strong rally later. Coffee was active and higher, with evidence of good supporting orders.

WHEAT.

The wheat market was quiet early. Minneapolis showed weakness, due to fine weather in the American and Canadian Northwest and to reports of increasing receipts of new Spring wheat and increasing offerings. Over 100 cars of new Spring wheat were reported at Minneapolis. There was also a good deal of Winter wheat in the receipts. Winter wheat markets were firm, and, as the day advanced the tone of the markets all improved, prices gradually working up, and the close was at the highest of the day at all points. The strength of the Winter wheat market was due to the firmness of cash wheat. Hard wheats continue at a premium at the West, due to the good demand for distribution, and, with the cash above the future and the demand maintained, there was a slow improvement in the future market. How long the demand will keep up is, of course, uncertain, but there appears to be no evidence of any lessening in the buying, particularly for domestic account. The receipts in two days have increased 900,000 bushels compared with last year, while there has also been about 300,000 bushels increase in the interior shipments. The total visible supply of wheat in America, including the Canadian, decreased for the week 2,180,000 bushels, and the total, including Canada, is 26,489,000 bushels, against 53,373,000 bushels last year. Foreign markets were steady, but export orders have been out of line recently, due to the strength of the American cash wheat and the advance in freights. Export sales of seven loads were reported. No. 2 red was quoted $1.00, free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.04; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.03¼; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.03.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The corn market showed further decided strength in September, advancing 1½c, due to maintained strength in cash corn. Cash prices at the West were ½c to 1c higher, and are still several cents over the contract even for No. 3. The advance in September is simply the natural result of oversold conditions in face of the cash market, which does not weaken. New crop deliveries were barely steady, improving a little with other markets, but buying was very slow. The weather conditions were favorable through the belt, and the weekly weather bulletin was excellent. Cash prices were nominal. Cash corn to arrive for nearby shipment has recently been ruling from 86½c to about 88c, according to the grade.

OATS.—The market was very steady all day, closing at a small net gain. Unsettled weather conditions were a factor, but another factor was the persistent demand for the new oats for distribution. Receipts in two days at the West have been 900,000 bushels more than last year, but owing to the very small stocks on hand at Eastern points of distribution there has been an eager demand for the new oats. In the last few days prices have broken sharply on new oats on the spot, the decline having been from 8c to 10c a bushel, compared with quotations of last week. Cash oats sold at 48c to 51c for natural whites, and clipped whites were quoted at 53c to 55c. Quotations are still approximately 15c to 18c a bushels over cost, insurance, and freight prices for August shipment. Standard were quoted at the close at 51c, track; Nos. 3 and 4 whites, also 51c, track.

PROVISIONS.

The market was very firm, and prices advanced rather easily on small receipts of hogs at all points, and a further advance in live hog prices and reports of hog cholera in Iowa.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The volume of business was liberal during the day with the undertone to the market nervous. The reactionary tendency of values was continued at the outset in response to the new low levels registered in the cotton market, while there appeared to be considerable pressure in the nature of hedge sales against purchases of Texas crude. With the strength in lard, however, and the recovery in cotton, the inclination to sell oil futures was less in evidence and an improved undertone developed. Accompanyink the rally were reports that speculative bulls were absorbing contracts, although short covering also furnished an important part of the buying.

COTTON.

The cotton market, after being ¼c lower than the final of Monday, rallied in the afternoon and closed at a small net gain. The early weakness was influenced very largely by the heavy overnight margin calls, and general commission house selling, induced by the intense bearish feeling, created on account of the steady break in the market, while there was also heavy selling credited to spot concerns. During the first hour one broker, who usually acts for spot interests, sold over 30,000 bales. The selling pressure was exhausted before midday, and traders, quick to take advantage of such conditions, went in with a rush to cover and buy for a reaction.

The movement of values appeared to be quite largely a technical one, as there was no change in news. In fact, the news as it came out appeared to be just as bearish as during the past two weeks, although there was some question whether it was bearish at the decline. The weather was bright and warm all through the South, just what was needed. The crop bulletin, however, pointed out that there had been very little rain in Central and Southern Texas and parts of the Carolinas, and rains were needed there with increasing urgency.

The receipts of new cotton were fairly large at the South, and there were reports of increased offerings. Foreign markets were weak, and Liverpool was selling. It was asserted that a good many contracts had been bought by spinning interests and by spot interests who had made contracts with the spinners against the Fall commitments of goods, and these would come on the market in heavier volume as the new crop movement increased. Attention was called to the fact that the Indian advices were favorable. There have been good monsoon rains, and crop prospects are better than last year, while an increased crop in India will tend to reduce the demand for low grade American cotton for India, which has been quite an important factor this past year. Egyptian reports are also favorable with better prospects than a year ago, and advices from China indicate a better crop there than last year. The crop in Mexico is also expected to be somewhat larger than last year. With an increase in the carry-over, compared with last year of 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bales, and an increase in prospective crops of cotton in competing countries, the situation is one which is claimed warrants conservative action. Spot cotton in the local market is quiet, with middling uplands 10 points lower, at 11.90c.

COFFEE.

Coffee rallied sharply early, and while the advance was not fully maintained the close was steady at a net gain of from 11 to 18 points. Sales, 133,250 bags.

The advance started in the European markets. Havre was ¼ to ½ franc higher after an opening decline of ¼ to ½ franc, while Hamburg after opening ¼ to ½ pfennig lower closed at a net advance of ¾ to 1¼ pfennig. Early official cables showed a decline of 125 reis at Rio and 300 reis at Santos at Monday's close, but the special Santos cables reported no further change in that market yesterday morning.

Spot coffee quiet, Rio 7, 14⅛c.

YOUR ATTITUDE TOWARDS INVESTMENTS
If you are a man in your thirties, making progress in your business, you doubtless feel that you do not ordinarily require in your investments so great a margin of safety as is to be found in what are generally recognized as "gilt edge" securities yielding 4% or less. On the other hand, you feel yourself to be justified in placing your money in those investments which combine a good margin of safety and a fair rate of income with a reasonable chance of growing value.
If you will write for our Circular No. 810, "Conservative Investments," we shall be pleased to point out to you those securities which in our judgment fulfill these requirements.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Narrower Changes in Leading Stocks—Sharp Advances in Many Less Active Issues.

So evenly balanced were the dealings in some of the leading active issues yesterday that the net changes for the day were limited to the smallest fractions. Not thus narrow was the movement of the entire market, for a variety of issues showed large net gains. A number of these indicated that in many directions those interested in particular issues have been heartened by the sustained strength of recent days to venture upon market operations planned to raise the price level of these many issues. There were several net losses of upward of a point, but these for the most part represented reactions from brisk upward movements of recent occurrence in issues which had joined the forward movement of prices ahead of those which came into prominence on this score yesterday.

There was not much in the day's news upon which to formulate fresh market impressions, and the movement of prices on the Stock Exchange reflected, therefore, the continued influence of the favorable factors which have lately been widely discussed and which have had so large an effect upon financial sentiment. The weekly crop report told of weather which was not altogether best for the development of the crops, though it brought a supply of moisture which may well prove very beneficial in the later stages of the crops which still remain to be harvested. This is particularly true of the cotton area, where sufficient rain has now fallen in most of the sections which needed moisture to do away with the apprehension for a time entertained, owing to the unfavorably dry weather which lately prevailed throughout the important cotton State of Texas. As the crop season has advanced, conditions have prevailed which have amply made up for the deficiencies of the earlier part of the season. Except for the fact that some of the crops are late, and thus exposed to more than the average extent to Fall hazards, the outlook for the crops as a whole remains unimpaired, in fact has been improved by the weather of the past ten days.

One interesting sidelight on the stock market position is found in the money market, which supplies no sign of any large demand for funds for use on the Stock Exchange. This is particularly true of the call money market, which would be first to feel the effect of increasing use of credits in the stock market. In this department rates remained yesterday under 3 per cent., and some of the banks which are holding their rate on call loans at that figure carried over yesterday as on many other days of late large unused balances. If then any large amount of stocks have been bought on borrowed capital it would appear that they are being taken over from others who had also been carrying them on borrowed funds, and thus the movement on the Exchange is conducted without any large increase in loans. This is an element of strength in the market, so far as it serves to prevent the activity and upward movement in prices putting a greater tax on the money market than it could comfortably support on the eve of the Fall outflow of cash. This inference must be modified, of course, to the extent to which an actual increase in the use of banking credits on the Stock Exchange is concealed by the foreign borrowings of this market for Stock Exchange purposes. The public interest in the stock market has apparently been increasing, but no signs have yet been afforded that this interest has assumed sufficient importance to imply any recent large distribution of stocks.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

British Bonds in French Market.

Most of the recent issue of $19,000,000 British seventeen-year Exchequer bonds, which were put out at 93½, are likely, according to reports which come from London, to find their way into the hands of French bankers. Of fixed maturity, these bonds appeal to the money market in a way which is not equally true of consols themselves, which lately were suffering from overmuch selling. Incidentally, the interest which the Paris market is showing in this British Exchequer issue shows that where the French market wishes it still has ample funds for investment abroad. Indeed, our own bankers are finding the Paris market true to its proverbial position as the cheapest of all the money centres.

Call Money Redundant.

It would take but a slight increase in the call money rate to bring out a good deal more money than was available at yesterday's prevailing rate, which was just a trifle under 3 per cent. Some of the largest lenders on call have been holding their funds at 3 per cent., with the result that some of them have not been able to put out as much call money as their cash position warrants. One factor, which accounts in large part for this surplusage of call money, is the desire of the banks to keep themselves in liquid condition in order to be prepared for the Fall demand. It is realized that the cash outflow may soon turn the balance against New York, and that the interior demand for currency may quickly assume large proportions. Hence the present large supply of money which can be had for day-to-day use, but which is not available for long-time loans.

Another London Holiday.

That its many legal and other stated holidays has not dulled the appetite of the London Stock Exchange for additional days away from the city was shown by the vote of the London Exchange members yesterday to take another holiday on Aug. 24.

Small vs. Large Cotton Crops.

At yesterday's price of 10.95 for September cotton that option was selling at 2 cents a pound, or $10 a bale, under the price quoted at the close of July. At yesterday's quotation a 14,000,000 bale crop of cotton would be worth a trifle less than a 12,000,000 bale crop at the price prevailing the end of last month. The sudden reversal of the cotton market's position, as estimates of the probable yield have swung from the smaller to the larger of these figures, is the sort of incident which revives for active discussion the question whether a small crop at a high price is preferable to a larger crop at a lower price, assuming an equal aggregate value in each case. The answer to the question, of course, depends altogether upon the point of view of the one who puts it. The smaller crop may perhaps be better for the cotton farmer, but hardly for the world at large.

When Inactive Stocks Sell.

St. Louis & San Francisco common developed pronounced weakness yesterday, for which there seemed to be no special reason. On sales of 750 shares it lost 3¾ points. An inactive stock's fluctuations depend very much on the seller's necessity. If he waits until some one evinces a strong desire to purchase, there is likely to be a good advance, whereas, if he orders his broker to sell his stock at the market, it may have to be offered down several points before it finds a buyer. Frisco made a jump of about 4 points on another transaction recently. It had not been traded in before yesterday since Aug. 1. The movement of another inactive stock was in sharp contrast to the tendency shown by St. Louis & San Francisco. On sales of 300 shares, Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Paul & Omaha advanced 11⅞ points.

⁂

Texas Cotton Late.

Officials of the Frisco said that the only news they had regarding their company was good news. Crops promise well and business is gaining momentum. A. T. Perkins, a traffic officer of the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico line, now in the city, said that the Texas country, in which the Frisco is particularly interested, is going to produce considerably more cotton than it did last year, although it is now about three weeks late. This is the critical time for cotton in that territory, but the plants are making a fine appearance. Mr. Perkins said that the plantation owners are complaining of their inability to get as much help as they need for their fields. In Louisiana many farmers who lost their sugar crop by the floods have planted their fields with cotton, and will get a good yield if the boll weevil, which thrives in that country, delays his activities. The labor problem is being felt to some extent all through the Mississippi valley, owing to the fact that many of the negro laborers and their families have found it very pleasant being professional flood sufferers, at the expense of the Government. When their free rations are shut off they will return to their former occupation. In the mean time, natives of India, who have worked down from Vancouver, and many Mexicans are getting employment as cotton pickers.

An Appreciative Shipper.

If the public is inclined to be captious in its dealings with public utilities companies, it is not slow in recognizing an improvement in service, although it may make no acknowledgment of the change other than by ceasing to complain. A man who relieved his mind rather freely over the shortcomings of the Missouri Pacific last year, saying that he was always pleasantly surprised when anything consigned by that road reached its destination, wrote the same Director in New York, to whom he had made his complaint, a few days ago, to say that, while he expected the statement to be received with skepticism by those who had not been in the Southwest lately, he had found other shippers and himself actually routing business over the Missouri Pacific lately when they could have sent it by another line.

Less Activity Shown, but Several Issues Make Further Gains—U. S. Motor Advances.

Dealings on the Curb yesterday were not quite as active as at the opening of the week, but a fair volume of business was done. The Standard Oil issues made further gains on a few transactions. United States Motor preferred rose from 18½, to 21, and closed at 20, compared with the previous day's closing bid of 15½.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN.

Further Rise in Some Markets, While Others Report Reactions.

Dealings on the out-of-town Exchanges as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES developed few new features yesterday. Price movements presented an irregular record, some stocks reaching new high prices while others showed reactions.

Mayflower and Old Colony were once more the features of the Boston market. Reports from the Lake were that the core from Mayflower's latest drill hole was even richer than the earlier ones in the Mayflower lode had been. Mayflower went to 15¼ and Old Colony to 11. The announcement of a dividend on Shannon was another factor favorable to the market for the copper shares.

In Baltimore prices generally were easier. Atlantic Coast Line of Connecticut yielded nearly all of yesterday's gain, falling back 2 points. Consolidation Coal advanced 1¼.

In the Chicago market Booth Fisheries preferred opened at 88 and on sales of 360 shares advanced to 90, later selling off ½. Brick also developed strength and advanced a point to 69 on a few sales. A sale of 50 shares of Masonic Temple was made at 47⅛. Title and Trust was stimulated by the expectation of increased earnings due to absorption of the Real Estate Title and Trust Company.

Trading in Philadelphia was marked chiefly by a further advance in the General Asphalt shares, the common crossing 28 and the preferred 70.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Confident Investment Buying in London—An Advance of ⅜ in Consols.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Aug. 14.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"There was an ample supply of money offering yesterday at Monday's rates for day-to-day advances and short fixtures, partly because the Bank of England released some cash by taking bills brought to it by customers.

"Open market discount rates were unaltered at the high level already established. The leading Continental exchanges were unaltered. Sovereigns will probably be withdrawn from the Bank to-morrow for Brazil.

"On the Stock Exchange yesterday business was not very active in any of the chief markets. Nevertheless the tone was cheerful, and on the whole prices were higher. The home markets were especially firm, a moderate amount of investment buying being sufficient to cause an appreciable rise in gilt-edged securities.

"A further rise in home railway stocks was to a large extent due to further bear covering, but there were signs that the public was taking a little more interest in this market, and the traffic returns were quite satisfactory.

"French operators bought South African gold and diamond shares. The copper group was favorably influenced by the strength of the market in the metal.

"There was a falling off in the volume of business in the foreign railway market, but on the whole prices were well maintained. The same remark applies to American railroad securities.

"Canadian Pacific Railway shares were lower, following the previous day's fall in Wall Street, and Grand Trunk stocks again declined.

"The buying of leading armament and shipping companies' securities continued. There was a sharp recovery in Marconi shares in the late dealings."

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The Bourse opened firm to-day. A reaction followed, but the market was supported later, and closed steady.

Three per cent. rentes, 92f 80c for the account.

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—Realizing caused a downward movement on the Boerse today. A few shares advanced in the late trading, but most of the list closed lower.

CANADIAN PACIFIC SURPLUS.

$17,560,519 for the Year After All Dividend Payments.

The statement of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for the year ended June 30 shows that the gross earnings of the railway and steamship lines were $123,319,541, the operating expenses $80,021,298; the net earnings from railway and steamship lines $43,298,243; net earnings of steamships in excess of amount included in monthly reports $1,104,449; fixed charges, $10,524,937, and surplus, $33,877,754. One million dollars was transferred from surplus to steamship replacement account, and $125,000 to pension fund. The net revenue of railway and steamship liens available for dividends was $32,752,743.

After paying all dividends the surplus on railway and steamship lines carried forward was $17,560,519. The special income from interests on land sales not included was $5,158,585.

New Florida Road Coming Up.

George A. Berry, Vice President and General Manager of the Gulf, Florida & Alabama Railway, which is being constructed by Megargel & Co., says that about ninety miles of line will be put into operation in October, at which time one of the piers at Pensacola will be ready for use. About sixty-five miles are being operated under lease to private interests. It is planned ultimately to build 300 miles. The company has increased its equipment by the purchase of five locomotives, sixty gondola cars, forty flat cars, thirty-five box cars, six passenger cars, and two combination coaches.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

A good deal of irregularity was presented by the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, but trading sentiment was disposed to be optimistic, the expected big crop yields this year being utilized as the chief basis for bullish argument. Stocks were in good demand throughout the day, particularly at the lower levels. Transactions on the 9:30 o'clock opening call were at prices unchanged to slightly higher, compared with the closing quotations of the night before. Sales for the day (including 1,590 shares done on the call) totaled 43,566 shares.

The Demand for Public Utilities Securities

For sound, logical reasons the demand for PUBLIC UTILITY securities is growing steadily. They are based upon one of the prime, necessary factors in the development and comfort of every modern community. The light, heat and transportation facilities that PUBLIC UTILITY companies supply are as essential as their food supply.

If these corporations are honestly and intelligently managed they become one of the most valuable assets of the communities that they serve, while their securities are among the safest and best that an investor can purchase and hold.

The PUBLIC UTILITY companies that we absolutely control and manage are conservatively capitalized, and we give to the conduct of their affairs our long experience as engineers and bankers, with results that are entirely satisfactory to those who have invested with us.

NO ILLEGALITY SEEN IN CHECK CHARGES

Report That Wickersham Has Reached Decision That Clearing House Custom Is Just.

MAY BE LEFT TO CONTROLLER

To Decide Whether System for Collection of Checks Is Contrary to Public Policy—New Orleans Decision.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Attorney General Wickersham has been investigating the practices of the New York Clearing House in respect to the charges made for the collection of out-of-town checks. His object is, it is said, to determine whether any of the rules laid down by the association violate the law. It was not known to-day whether the Department of Justice had yet completed its inquiry.

None of the officials of the department were disposed to-day to discuss what action, if any, was likely to be taken. If it is decided that the law is not being violated, and, according to one report, this conclusion has already been reached by Mr. Wickersham, he may refer the matter to the Controller of the Currency. In that event, it would be left to the Controller to decide if the system for the collection of checks in force in New York is contrary to public policy, even if not contrary to the strict requirements of law. It would then devolve upon him to decide what if any action he could take so far as the participation of the National banks in these Clearing House collection charges is concerned.

The system in effect in New York does not differ radically from the practices in many other cities where the Clearing Houses have established collection charges on checks payable in other cities. The decision in the New York case will serve as a standard for the department's attitude toward the Clearing Houses which fix rates for the collection of checks.

Representatives of the Department of Justice recently visited the manager of the New York Clearing House to acquaint themselves with the facts in respect to the charges. It is understood that a defense of the system has been lodged with Mr. Wickersham, in which it is pointed out that the banks are justified in making these charges, inasmuch as in addition to the actual service of collection, they are out their money during the period of collection.

The Attorney General, it was said here last night, had completed his investigation of the Clearing House's rules for a charge on the collection of out-of-town checks, and it was understood that he would take no action in the matter. In this connection it was recalled that the collection charges made by the banks in the New Orleans Clearing House were made the basis last year of an indictment brought by the Federal Grand Jury in that district. This action was taken without the approval of Mr. Wickersham, and after investigation he caused that indictment to be quashed.

This system of collection charges was taken up by Mr. Untermyer in his examination of witnesses before the Pujo Money Trust Investigating Committee when the committee was sitting in New York. This fact is supposed to have prompted the Attorney General again to look into the banks' part in fixing rates for the collection of checks. As in the New Orleans case, Mr. Wickersham is understood to have reached the conclusion that no ground exists for any action against the Clearing House of the banks in this matter.

While the New Orleans case was still under discussion, the New York Clearing House Association retained James M. Beck to prepare a brief defending the Clearing House rules in the matter of collection charges. This brief was filed with Mr. Wickersham at the time.

The rules of the New York Clearing House require its members to charge one-tenth of 1 per cent. for the collection of checks payable in most places in the East and Central West cities, while the charge for the Far South and Far West is one-quarter of 1 per cent. The banks are permitted, however, to charge or not on items handled for the United States, for the New York State, and New York City Governments, and on any checks payable in Boston, Providence, Albany, Troy, Jersey City, Bayonne, Hoboken, Newark, Philadelphia, and Baltimore.

LET DR. SIMMS GO

But Court Warns Him to Get Rid of His Mexican War Pistol.

Dr. Joseph Simms, octogenarian, author, and naturalist, who gave as his address the Hotel Empire, pleaded guilty before Judge Crain in General Sessions yesterday to carrying a revolver without a permit, in violation of the Sullivan law. Sentence was suspended.

Dr. Simms was arrested on Aug. 6 in Central Park when James Sullivan of 504 West Fifty-fifth Street charged that he pointed a pistol at him and threatened to kill him because Sullivan's five-year-old boy had frightened away some squirrels which Dr. Simms and his wife were feeding. He was angry because the father refused to punish the child for having picked up a few kernels of rice which Dr. Simms had thrown the squirrels.

Dr. Simms explained that the pistol was a relic of the Mexican war. He said that he had carried it for forty years and had never discharged it. It was proved that the gun, which was a muzzle loader, had no charge in it at the time it was taken from him by a policeman. He said that he merely pointed it at the complainant "to scare him." He served through the civil war under Gen. Grant. Judge Crain warned him as to the law against carrying weapons and advised him to place his gun in some museum. He promised to do this and was discharged.

SUES HUSBAND FOR LOAN.

Mrs. Gaston Says He Disappeared After Getting $8,400 from Her.

Supreme Court Justice Dugro granted an attachment yesterday against the property of Larren E. Gaston, Vice President of the Stobaugh Contracting Company, in favor of his wife, Mrs. Clara D. Gaston of 44 East Twenty-fifth Street.

In her petition Mrs. Gaston stated that she had made a loan of $8,400 to her husband on July 22 last and that he had disappeared the day after. Anxious for her money, Mrs. Gaston traced her husband as far as Jersey City, and there lost track of him.

The scope of the attachment which Justice Dugro issued yesterday pending the trial of her suit includes any property which Mr. Gaston may have in the Stobaugh Contracting Company, whose offices are at 1 Madison Avenue, and any deposits he may possess at the New Netherland Bank.

JUDGE ATTACKS CHAUFFEURS.

Dike, Sentencing a Driver, Assails Them for Sharing in Crimes.

A chauffeur found guilty of taking out his employer's automobile without permission was sentenced yesterday to serve eleven months and twenty-eight days in the penitentiary by Judge Dike in the Kings County Court. The prisoner, Richard Kenny, 27 years old, of 895 Pacific Street, had pleaded guilty to grand larceny in the second degree. He had previously served time in the Elmira Reformatory.

"There is no law better known to you drivers," said Judge Dike in sentencing Kenny, "than that law which makes the act of which you plead guilty a crime. It would seem that your profession has a large and undesirable element of felons or crooks in its ranks. Many atrocious crimes of late have been traced to the criminal participation of you drivers. I should think the decent drivers would unite to purge your profession of the bad men, just as I think the decent men in the Police Department should try to rid the force of a similar element in its ranks."

STRIKERS HOLD PLAYGROUND

Reserves to be Sent To-day to Keep Unterrified Boys in Order.

The police reserves will be sent over to Washington Avenue, near 173d Street, in the Bronx to-day to preserve order in the neighborhood of the Bronx House Playground, for no immediate abatement is in sight of the strike called by the boys, who have been using the playground all Summer, when they heard that the Parks and Playgrounds Association had decided to dispense with the services of Arthur Copeland Brown. This play leader, who hails from Ridgefield, N. J., was immensely popular with the children, and in letterings, shaky but distinct, their placards read:

"Mr. Brown or Playground Closed."

This is the mildest of the threats done into placards and broadsides adorned with skull and crossbones, and occasionally with terrifying pictures of boys with blackened eyes and missing teeth, pictorial warning to the strikebreakers. All last evening the playground was picketed by the boys of the neighborhood.

Sidney Schwartz of 466 East 132d Street and Nathan Schenkman of 1,619 Washington Avenue are the originators and leaders of the strike. Sidney is 12 and Nathan is 10, but they look on the Bronx House Playground as an Armageddon, and they think the world of Mr. Brown.

Six large policemen prowled sheepishly around the playground all day yesterday. They found the children orderly, but firm. The boys would not go into the playground and they wouldn't let any other boys go into it. Most of the girls stayed out, too. To-day, however, according to the orders issued from the street corner strike headquarters of Leader Schenkman, no one will be permitted to use the grounds.

The trouble appears to have arisen over a difference in policy. The Parks and Playgrounds Association runs thirty-five playgrounds, with the expenses met by contributions. Mr. Brown, according to the association's account, had schemes for taking his charges on expeditions to all parts of the city and was altogether committed to a programme which the association did not approve.

INVENTOR TO GO TO SING SING

Bretton, Who Has a New Airship Plan, Anxious to Begin Sentence.

After two years of waiting behind the bars of the old Queens County Jail in Long Island City, Harry S. Bretton, the inventor, learned yesterday that the Court of Appeals had found a way by which he could be sentenced and begin his term of five years in Sing Sing on a plea of guilty to grand larceny.

When Bretton was arrested in February, 1910, and pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with defrauding Mathilde Rauox, a governess, out of $50, County Judge Humphrey sentenced him to life imprisonment, it having been shown that he was an old offender, and had served terms in New York and New Jersey. His counsel had the sentence set aside. While locked up in the Queens County Jail awaiting a decision, Bretton, who is said to a mechanical genius, invented an airship. His invention was patented, and a company, known as the American Aerial Safety Car Company, was organized and more than $10,000 has been expended in building the airship, which is soon to have its trial.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Twenty-eighth Street Sale Near Madison Avenue—Manhattan Street Active—East Side Deals—Good Flatbush Market—$390,000 Fourth Avenue Building Loan—Business Leases.

The realty market yesterday was in its vacation attitude, the transactions being limited in volume. In the Madison Avenue business district, the old three-story residence at 26 East Twenty-eighth Street, adjoining the southeast corner of Madison Avenue, was sold by William A. White & Sons for Sarah Duncan Naylor and Mary G. Naylor. It has been owned in the family for about half a century. The plot is 25 by 100 feet.

Colored Associates Buy in 105th St.

Negotiations are about concluded for the transfer of the five-story flat at 61 West 105th Street, between Columbus and Manhattan Avenues, to the Colored Realty Associates. The plot is 25 by 100.11 and title is held by Leonard J. Muhlfelder.

Another Sale on Manhattan Street.

Another deal in the old Manhattanville section of the upper west side was reported yesterday by the Public Service Realty and Mortgage Company, which purchased for investment from the First United Presbyterian Church 39 and 41 Manhattan Street.

The property consists of a six-story tenement, on a plot 40 by 100, located between Amsterdam and Morningside Avenues. Last week the recently completed apartment at the corner of old Broadway and Manhattan Street was sold.

East Side Investment Deals.

An investment sale on the extreme east side of the city was reported yesterday by A. M. Hornstein, who sold for D. Strauss 640 East Eleventh Street, a five-story dwelling on a lot 25 by 94.9. The buyer is Louis Trumoff.

Louis H. Lowenstein has purchased for an investing client 335 East Fiftieth Street, a four-story dwelling on lot 16 by 100. Henry G. Leist was the broker representing the seller.

E. E. Tisch & Co. have sold for the Stein Brothers' estate 214 East Fifty-eighth Street, a three-story dwelling on plot 20 by 100 to a client for improvement. The property has not changed owners in forty-two years.

Brooklyn.

The Flatbush section of Brooklyn, where there has been considerable activity during the past few weeks, especially in two and three family houses, furnished two interesting transactions yesterday. An investor purchased from Mrs. A. Kane 1,983 Bedford Avenue, a four-family brick apartment, for $23,000.

H. M. Knickerbocker has sold to a client of the Westwood Realty Company 889 Parkside Avenue, a three-story brick duplex house, for $17,500. The buyer is an investor.

Charles R. Stevenson has purchased from Theodosia W. Vail the two-story and basement brownstone dwelling 175 Midwood Street.

Long Island.

The Nicholls-Ritter-Goodnow Realty Company have sold to Henry P. Schlegel the residence on the corner of Admont Avenue and New Hyde Road, Floral Garden. Many improvements are under way in and around Floral Garden, twenty-eight houses having been built here and in the immediate vicinity during the past year.

Loans Placed.

Otto L. Dommerich has loaned $390,000 to the 252 Fourth Avenue Company on the new loft being erected by that concern on the northwest corner of Fourth Avenue and Twentieth Street, a plot 92 by 125 feet.

The M. Morgenthau, Jr., Company has negotiated a first mortgage loan of $50,000 for the Coffey Realty Company on the property at the northwest corner of Eighth Avenue and Seventeenth Street, recently improved with a six-story and basement apartment house. The lot is 25 by 105.

The F. R. Wood-W. H. Dolson Company have leased for the United States Trust Company the four-story and basement dwelling 128 West Eighty-fifth Street to George E. Pearson for a term of years.

Edward J. Hogan has rented a part of the south wing of the sixteenth floor of the Woolworth Building to William Wallace White, offices on the twenty-third floor to Claude V. Pallister and the J. F. Cogan Contracting Company, and part of the thirty-ninth story to F. T. Ellithorpe & Sons.

The Thomas Addis Emmet Realty Company has leased through von Ostermann offices in the Emmet Building, corner of Madison Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, to the Read & Lovatt Manufacturing Company.

Shaw & Co. have leased the store at 11 East 116th Street to Israel Epstein & Nathan Gorowitz; a loft at 1,935 Madison Avenue to the William B. Lyman Association, and a loft at 33 West 125th Street to August Neuse.

Pease & Elliman have leased the store and basement at the southwest corner of Fifty-fourth Street and Park Avenue for the Goelet estate to William Leuschmer & Co.

Dwellings Leased.

Innes & Center have leased for Col. William C. Church the dwelling at 53 Irving Place to Miss E. Denning; also, for the Rhinelander estate, 111 East Nineteenth Street, an English basement residence, to Robert W. Whiting of Princeton, and the small studio building at 129 East Nineteenth Street to Harold Weaver.

Pease & Elliman, in conjunction with Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown & Co., have leased for J. Wray Cleveland the new five-story American basement residence, 131 East Sixty-fourth Street, on lot 20 by 100, to F. H. Greenebaum of Lazard Frères; also, in conjunction with the same brokers, a duplex apartment at 829 Park Avenue to Henry M. Ward.

New Buildings for Guardian Society.

Contracts for four new buildings to be erected by the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society on its property at Pleasantville, N. Y., were signed yesterday by Adolph Lewisohn, President of the society, and Samuel D. Levy, Vice President. The buildings, which will cost about $75,000 exclusive of equipment, consist of an addition to the hospital, an infirmary, a bakery, and a cottage to house a family of thirty children. There are now twenty-eight buildings on the grounds, which consist of 200 acres. The society recently sold its property on Broadway, 150th to 151st Street.

EDUCATION NOTES.

If a quorum can be obtained a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Education will be held this afternoon. The business to be transacted is of a routine character, and the meeting, if held, will probably be over in about a quarter of an hour.

When the Board of Education holds its next regular meeting, on Sept. 11, the matter of retiring twenty-nine of the teaching staff will be brought forward again. It requires a two-thirds vote of the board to make these retirements. At the last meeting, held July 10, there were not two-thirds of the members present, so the retirements could not be acted upon. If the board does retire these twenty-nine persons on Sept. 11, the retirement will date from Sept. 1. If it does not retire them, they will remain on the teaching force until the board's meeting on Feb. 14. There is one woman public school Principal, one high school teacher, and twenty-seven elementary school teachers on this list.

The regular guard of honor at the city's official reception to the Olympic team on Saturday, Aug. 24, will consist of girls and boys from the vacation playgrounds. The members of the Guard of Honor Committee are District Supt. Edward W. Stitt, Chairman; Albert T. Wingate, son of Gen. George W. Wingate, and Chairman of the Board of Education's Committee on Athletics; William L. Lee of the Park Department, and Leo I. Kearney, Principal of the Crotona Park Open Air Playground. Dr. Stitt says that 10,000 girls and boys will line the streets along which the Olympic athletes will pass. The band of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum was to have furnished the music for the children, but it is said that it has declined to do so because Aug. 24 is the Jewish Sabbath. Forty-eight of the playground boys will act as a State Guard, each boy representing a State. Other boys will be dressed to represent the different nations. The children will wave flags as the athletes pass, and will greet them with the yell which was uttered whenever they won an event in Sweden.

Get the Lost Dog Back

The New York Times is the only New York newspaper having a separate part of its Lost column for insertion of advertisements of lost or stolen cats and dogs. People know that an advertisement in The Times is the one best means for securing their lost pets. The price of a small announcement of this nature is as nothing when compared with the joy you will experience when you are given back the little animal you have come to love so much.

An advertisement of this nature is also reprinted without extra charge in over a thousand bulletins, which are posted in prominent places throughout the city.

And the keynote is "WORTHINESS."

The type used for "Wants" is called agate. By counting seven words to the line in small type, or four words if set in capitals, you may readily estimate what your advertisement will cost you by consulting the following table of

MURDERERS' BODIES VIEWED BY HUNDREDS

Brought from Sing Sing Prison After Sharp Competition Between Undertakers.

ALMS PLATES ON THE BIERS

Friends of the Slayers of Mrs. Hall and the Merely Curious Drop Coins Therein to "Pay for Burial."

Under a gayly painted panel, representing half a dozen angels adrift upon as many clouds, in the front room of the undertaking shop of Latone & Guidetti, 236 Mulberry Street, the bodies of the five Italians who were put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison on Monday morning for the killing of Mrs. Mary Hall near Croton Lake, in Westchester County, in November, were on public view yesterday. All who wanted to see them were told they were welcome. And there were many, for all day long and into the night a line of men, women, and children passed along the narrow space between the biers and the side wall of the room.

There were many of the morbidly curious in that constantly moving procession. The children took awe-stricken looks at the five faces, all that could be seen of the bodies, and their elders made the sign of the Cross and mumbled prayers for the repose of the souls and went outside, usually to discuss the legal killing of the five. Two trays rested upon the feet of the dead for the reception of small coins, and into them pennies, nickels, or coins of larger denomination were constantly dropping.

The exterior of Latone & Guidetti's establishment was decorated by a heavy purple cloth draped over the front door and set off by a lace curtain hanging down each side of the door. There were purple hangings on the wall of the front room, and these were decorated with gold and silver trimmings. Just inside the door was a small railed-off space containing two desks. Just behind this railing, and so close that there was hardly room to enter the inclosure, was the first of the five bodies. The other four lay in a row beside it, with hardly any space between them. In the centre of the room was an arch formed by a painted group of angels and drapings of purple cloth. On the wall at the side of the row of bodies and facing the door was a long painting of the Virgin Mary. Under this painting were candelebra containing lighted candles.

"You are all welcome. You may all come in," were the assuring words uttered by one of the men connected with the place when any one showed timidity about entering. Again he would direct his attention to another door, through which the line passed after the last body had been viewed. "Please don't stand there," he would say; "there are others who want to get in."

It was an orderly crowd, and silent for the most part, except when some one would break out in denunciation of the law that sent the five men to their places along the wall. Near the foot of the first bier stood another undertaker keeping ever a watchful glance upon the trays and the fast accumulating piles of money. This money, it was explained, was to defray the cost of bringing the bodies from Ossining, embalming, and burying them. If there is any money left over, and those who have the burying of them believe there will not be enough collected to defray expenses, then the surplus will be used to engage a brass band to accompany the bodies to Calvary Cemetery.

The bodies were laid out on embalming boards, and that of Vincenzo Cona, nearest to the front door, was covered with a white pall. The others were covered with black. Through openings the faces of each could be seen. Cona, it was explained by a willing volunteer, was covered with white because he was only 21 years old and was really innocent of any intent to murder. Others in that quiet line were Lorenzo Cali, Salvatore di Marco, Angelo Guisto, and Filipe di Marco.

The only one of the five who had relatives here was Salvatore di Marco. His widow, two children, and a brother live in Pacific Street, Brooklyn. Mrs. di Marco came over to view the body of her husband in the morning, and, weeping and half hysterical, she threw herself upon it. It was long before she was quieted. Last night many of those who passed in line to view the bodies were from the Italian colony in South Brooklyn who had known the dead men, for it was there they lived. All through the evening the crowd kept coming, and sometimes the line would halt as some man or woman would stoop beside a bier to say a prayer for the repose of the souls of the dead.

The bodies will be on view every day until Saturday afternoon, when funeral services will be held in St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church in Baxter Street. The Rev. Romano Simini, who accompanied the men to the electric chair, will say the requiem mass. The bodies will be interred in Calvary Cemetery.

Latone & Guidetti admit that the firm obtained the five bodies as a matter of enterprise, and that there was keen competition for the burial of the five murderers. Mrs. di Marco willingly gave her consent to the firm taking charge of her husband's body, and as the others had no relatives, a petition was circulated among their friends which resulted in the State officials turning over the bodies after the autopsy at Sing Sing prison. Early on Monday morning the bodies were taken in two wagons across country to the railroad station. As soon as they were received in Mulberry Street they were embalmed, and by 5:50 o'clock yesterday morning the decorations had been put in place and word was passed that all were welcome to view the five. At one time in the morning the line waiting to pass under the purple decoration over the door of 236 Mulberry Street extended in double ranks around into Prince Street.

There were many who had strong expressions of belief that at least some of the men were innocent and that an injustice had been done in putting them to death, but on the whole the moral effect of the exhibition was good, for of the five men who descended upon the home of Mrs. John Griffin, at Griffin's Corner, Westchester County, intent upon robbery, and killed Mrs. Hall, every one paid the penalty with his life.

The body of Joseph Ferrone, who was put to death at the same time for wife murder, was also brought to this city and taken to the undertaking rooms of La Vecchia & Marasco at 293 Mott Street. There it was embalmed. The body was then taken to the home of relatives at 239 East Forty-second Street.

HIS NAME ON HIS BACK.

Small Boy Who Often Wanders from Home Is Quickly Returned.

Little Sammy Rosenthal of 12 East 114th Street very early contracted the habit of wandering away from his home and getting inextricably lost in the highways of Harlem. Little Sammy is only 3 years old, and has neither the mastery of English nor the memory to help policemen or well-wishing passersby bring him back to his mother, Mrs. Mathilda Rosenthal, who is the janitress of the flat and has little time to keep track of her peripatinating son.

A few weeks ago, after Sammy had been lost for an especially long time, and Mrs. Rosenthal had an inspiration, she at once extracted a large spool of scarlet woolen thread and a needle from her workbasket, and then grasped hold of Sammy. Five minutes of steady work and the back of Sammy's jumper displayed in honest red letters: "My name is Sam Rosenthal. Bring me back to 12 East 114th Street and receive a reward from my mother." The other jumpers of Sammy's wardrobe were next attacked, and they also soon had the safeguarding tidings embroidered upon them in scarlet wool.

That it was all not in vain was shown yesterday afternoon, when Joseph E. Haiken, who is Court Custodian in the County Clerk's office, was crossing Fifth Avenue at 124th Street. Something got in his way, and it required no more than two looks to disclose that it was a little boy.

"Where do you live?" Haiken asked, looking in Sammy's face. But there was no answer. At last, in despair, Haiken turned the little fellow about, with the intention of marching him to the police station. And then the scarlet words on the back of his jumper came to his notice. So Mrs. Rosenthal had her Sammy back in less than half an hour.

TRAIN KILLS AUTO PARTY.

Three Dead When Express Hits Car Near Columbus, Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 13.—Frank L. Irwin of Columbus, Chief Engineer of the Ralston Steel Car Company; C. C. Beaucamp, formerly of Detroit, a car inspector, and Benjamin F. Klee, a clerk, believed to be from New Orleans, were instantly killed to-day when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train near this city.

The men were leaving the Ralston plant to inspect some cars, and when their automobile was struck squarely in the centre by the train the bodies of the men were hurled many yards into a cornfield, while portions of the machine were scattered along the tracks for a quarter of a mile.

Beaucamp was married in Detroit only last Saturday, it is said, and brought his bride here to live.

Gips a Director in Holland Line.

Adrian Gips, general agent of the Holland-America Line in the United States, was notified yesterday by cable from Rotterdam that he had been appointed a Director of the company. Mr. Gips has spent many years in this country for his company and helped in the extension of its freight and passenger business. He will take up his new duties in Holland. His successor as general agent has not been named.

Mass Meeting for Bennet.

In response to a postal card canvass of the 86,000 enrolled Republicans of New York County by William S. Bennet, former member of Congress, to give an expression of their wishes regarding his candidacy for the Gubernatorial nomination, about 600 persons attended a mass meeting last night in the hall of the Manhattan Casino, at 155th Street and Eighth Avenue, and adopted a resolution urging the Republican State Convention to nominate him for Governor.

Honor National City Bank Cashier.

The clerks of the National City Bank presented a loving cup yesterday to Arthur Kavanagh, the cashier, on his completion of forty years with the bank. The speech was made by F. P. Lowden, receiving teller. In replying Mr. Kavanagh described the course of his work from the lowest position to his present place, and thanked the force, some members of which had entered with him, for the help they had given him in his forty years of work.

PATIENT DROWNS HIMSELF.

Tuberculosis Sufferer on Blackwell's Island Jumps Into the River.

Two men who were busy unloading cement from a barge at the eastern end of Blackwell's Island yesterday saw a man climb up on the sea wall near the pavilions where the tuberculosis patients are sheltered and start to write something in a little notebook. He scribbled industriously for several minutes, perched on the wall, and then, giving a deep sigh, slipped the book into his pocket.

The next move he made was to stand up and look back over the island. Then he turned and threw himself into the water. He was drowned before the guards could be called.

It was learned that the man was Joseph Aaron, 29 years old. He lived on East 114th Street prior to his removal to the Metropolitan Hospital on Aug. 2. He had worked at his trade of tailoring until too weak to remain in the shop.

The letter in his notebook told of his despair at learning that his disease was incurable, and his desire to end his life. He said that he had suffered from tuberculosis for five years, and was tired of the struggle for life.

HYATT WILL SETTLEMENT.

I. Townsend Burden, Jr., Made Temporary Administrator.

Surrogate Cohalan appointed I. Townsend Burden, Jr., temporary administrator yesterday of the estate of Mrs. Augusta Hyatt, who died on May 12, leaving more than $300,000.

By Mrs. Hyatt's will her nephew, George Hyatt Robinson, was the sole legatee. Her uncle, Mortimer A. Hyatt, contested the will, but his claim to one-half of the estate as an heir at law of his niece was overruled by the Surrogate.

Mrs. Hyatt was the widow of George E. L. Hyatt. The last years of her life she was insane, and Mr. Burden was appointed guardian of her estate and person while she was confined in a sanitarium at Central Valley, N. Y.
